They Found Him—Dead.
New York's Boom. When?
Coolidge Dislikes Radicals.
The Mosque of Amroo.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

Don't crowd your children in their studies; don't allow well-meaning teachers to crowd them if you can help it.

Education should be planned for the benefit of children, not for the glory of parents or teachers. To humiliate an ambitious child is cruel, sometimes dangerous.

And R. E. Wolfson, of Auburn, N. Y., a sensitive, ambitious boy, failed in his school examination and wrote this little note:

"Folks, you will find me in the closet." They found him, dead. He had hanged himself.

Dr. Harris, deputy police commissioner, managing New York street traffic, says New York will have a population of 25,000,000 and besides double-decking streets will be compelled to rush traffic at 30 miles an hour.

However, flying machines may solve that problem and eventually break up the great cities absolutely. Instead of having all the trades, shops and industries crowded together, fast flying will make it possible to scatter them. The great city of today may become another gigantic "deserted village."

But don't let that discourage you on real estate investments. Conditions change slowly and one change is often offset by another.

When the steam car came along, stage coach roads and inns were neglected. Then came the automobile. Roads were built and wayside inns prospered as never before. Then came prohibition and the inns collapsed or turned bootlegger.

When will New York city have a real estate boom? When New York's boom, hitherto unknown does come, look out for financial fireworks.

One section of New York, the Bronx, has grown from 500,000 to 1,000,000 in five years. It will have at least 2,000,000 population in 1935.

Every year the city adds about 300,000 to its population — more than three times the pemanent population of Miami. Every year a great American city, is tacked onto the biggest American city. The business done on one little island, Manhattan, is terrific. If a "boom" ever strikes that island, where will prices go? Get your corner.

Mr. Curtis' Washington correspondnet says President Coolidge will fight the oil reserve case to the supreme court and will not be satisfied with the Cheyenne judge's decision that Fall had a right to sell out the navy's oil lands, or satisfied with the legal theory that failure to trace bonds alleged to have been given as bribes, rules out everything, including the "little black bag" with the $100,000 in cash, paid, delivered and accepted.

With what authority the correspondent explains the President's intentions is not known. But it is known that President Coolidge is impatient with rascality, wholesale or retail.

Also, it would show poor generalship for the Republican party to leave permanently in its record and to carry firmly around its neck in 1928 the full weight of the oil scandal.

There isn't any doubt as to what 99 per cent of the people think of that scandal. They call it an unusually crafty piece of rascality and believe that those chiefly concerned ought to be in jail. And, they would be inclined to vote for almost any kind of a

YOUTH PLUNGES DOWN ELEVATOR SHAFT; SKULL IS FRACTURED

Wayne Farmer, 25, Steubenville, Believed Fatally Injured.

THIRD VICTIM

Wayne Farmer, aged about 25, Steubenville college student, is believed to have been fatally injured at 10:30 o'clock this morning in a 15-foot fall down the elevator shaft of the Sturgis warehouse, Dresden avenue. His skull was fractured.

Farmer, who is said to be a second-year medical student at an Ohio college, and another workman were installing automatic elevator gates on the main floor of the building, working for the Otis Elevator company of Cleveland, when the accident occurred.

He is believed to have lost his balance, falling to the bottom of the shaft in the basement. He struck the base of his skull on the concrete floor.

Victim Is Unconscious.

His fellow worker found him unconscious. The Sturgis ambulance was called and the man was taken to the City hospital. Farmer, who was attended by Dr. R. J. Marshall, had not regained consciousness at noon.

Farmer is the third person injured in the same manner at the Sturgis building. George Conkle, Seventh street automobile mechanic suffered a fractured vertebrae in a fall down the shaft about four months ago and for several weeks was a patient in the hospital. The other victim was Frank O'Hanlon, Sr., of Grant street, who sustained less serious injuries.

The elevator gates which were being installed today when Farmer was injured were a safeguard against further accidents of this kind.

W. D. SHEPHERD DENIES MURDER OF M'CLINTOCK

CROWD PRESENT

Refutes All Charges Made Relative to Chicago Death.

CHICAGO, June 23.—William Darling Shepherd, charged with the murder of his millionaire foster son, William Nelson McClintock, today took the witness stand in his own defense.

A crowd which had begun to gather long before today's session started and which battled for admission to the courtroom strained forward as the defendant, his face wan with the prison pallor and his iron gray hair, waved back from his forehead, mounted the steps to the witness chair.

He looked coldly and dispassionately as the eager faces turned toward him for a moment and then settled back for the direct examination of Attorney William S. Stewart, chief of his counsel.

Ringing Denial of Counts

"You are charged here with administering various forms of poison," Stewart intoned in a loud clear voice. "Did you administer poison?"

"I did not," Shepherd replied steadily.

Again and again, as the attorney went slowly through the various charges in the indictment came that ringing denial:

"I did not."

This constituted the burden of the direct testimony, a simple affirmation of his previous statements that he had not conspired to obtain William Nelson McClintock's fortune by his death, had not innoculated him with typhoid germs and had, when the boy was stricken with the disease, done

Fist Fight Occurs On Floor of French Deputies' Chamber

PARIS, June 23.—Disorders, marked by fist fighting, broke out in the chamber of deputies this afternoon.

The row started immediately after a speech by Premier Painleve in which he charged French Communists were in working cooperation with Russian Communists to aid the Moors in their war against France and Spain in Morocco.

PLANE CRASHES, PILOT BURNED

J. O. Webster, in Air Mail Service, Seriously Injured.

J. O. Webster, 29, U. S. mail pilot, and former East Liverpool resident, is in a Chicago hospital today, suffering from serious burns, sustained last night, when his government plane, crashed to the ground at Ellington Field, Maywood, a suburb of Chicago.

Word of the accident was received by Mrs. Louise Polk, owner of the Thompson House, Broadway, from her daughter, the victims' wife, formerly Gertrude Polk. In the telephone message Mrs. Webster failed to give the details of the accident.

Webster has been engaged in the mail service, flying at night out of the Chicago station. He was the only occupant of the plane, when it was wrecked and burst into flames, just as he was leaving the aviation field. Webster was badly burned over his entire body before he was extricated from the blazing wreckage.

Webster was a lieutenant in the air service during the World war, acting as a flying instructor in one of the training camps in this country. He married Miss Polk about five years ago and since then has been residing in Chicago.

LEGION SEEKS $2,700 QUOTA IN ENDOWMENT FUND CAMPAIGN

Drive for Disabled Veterans and War Orphans Planned.

OPENS WEDNESDAY

Post Members Will Make Appeal to Public.

A campaign to raise a $2,700 quota in a $10,000,000 endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans of the World war, will be launched by members of East Liverpool Post No. 4, American Legion, Wednesday.

The endowment campaign is in full swing throughout the Buckeye state this week, and many of the posts are reported to have reached their quotas in the first day of the drive. The drive has the endorsement of President Coolidge, Governor A. V. Donahey, Senators Willis and Fess and other prominent statesmen.

Manufacturers, business men and the general public will be asked to contribute. The canvass will be in charge of Legion members, assisted by business men who have promised their assistance.

While the entire week has been set aside by Governor Donahey as the "American Legion Endowment Week" the local post plans to complete the work in four days.

Fifteen of the 48 states have already gone "over the top" in the campaign. Ohio hopes to report its $500,00 quota as having been subscribed by Saturday night.

The $10,000,000 fund will be disbursed by a trust committee in caring for the disabled veterans and in educating and supporting their children in order that they may not become objects of public charity as a result of injuries, wounds or illness which resulted from their father's participation in the World war.

Striking Miners Assemble for Meet At Moundsville

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., June 23.—Striking miners came here today in large numbers to attend a mass meeting scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, when Philip Murray, Indianapolis, vice president of the United Mine Workers, will share the platform with Van A. Bittner, national organizer.

Bittner's address here tomorrow will be his first since the speech at Clarksburg in which he is reported to have bitterly assailed state police, classing them with mine guards.

Recently Bittner was sentenced to six months in jail for contempt of the Marion county court. This case has not been settled.

Josiah Kirby's Fate Placed in Hands of Six Men, Six Women

CLEVELAND, June 23.—A jury of six men and six women, at 11:15 o'clock today began deliberating upon the fate of Josiah Kirby, financier and founder of the Cleveland Discount company, on trial in common pleas court here on a charge of larceny of 42 shares of the preferred stock of the company, the alleged property of George L. Fix, of Cleveland.

Judge Fred H. Wolf, of Wauseon, who has presided over the trial, which began June 11, completed his charge at 11:10 and the jury retired at once.

Divide Country Into 22 Zones to Enforce Dry Law

WASHINGTON, June 23.—A far-reaching reorganization of federal prohibition enforcement methods was announced today by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

The plan, drafted by Gen. L. C. Anderws, field marshal of prohibition, and formally approved by President Coolidge, divides the United States into 22 enforcement districts.

The offices of state directors and divisional prohibition chiefs will be abolished on August 1.

Directing activities in each district will be a prohibition administration, "selected for personal fitness, executive and business ability," according to Mellon's announcement.

COOLIDGE OFF TO SWAMPSCOTT FOR VACATION

Presidential Party Will Spend Two Months in Massachusetts.

SPECIAL TRAIN

Mayflower, Carrying Domestic Personnel, Arrives.

Golf bags and tennis rackets were conspicuous by their absence insofar as the presidential baggage is concerned. Mr. Coolidge accepted the offer of a "summer White House" at Swampscott from his old friend, Frank W. Stearns, with the sole idea of getting away from official Washington to a spot where he could enjoy a complete rest—and the accepted forms of summer recreation do not appeal to the president as restful.

The presidential train—and it is again a "special"—pulled out of the local terminal a few minutes after 1 o'clock this afternoon. It is due to reach Salem, Mass., early tomorrow

LIONS GREET CAMP TRAINEES

Fourteen Lads are Guests at Weekly Dinner.

Fourteen of the 20 East Liverpool young men, who will attend the citizens' military training camp at Camp Knox, Kentucky, next month, were guests of the Lions' club at the weekly dinner in the Larkins Annex, Market street, last evening.

W. S. Foulks presided. Corporal Alex Grossman, in charge of the U. S. army recruiting station, addressed the boys, discussing army discipline, military courtesy and other phases of camp life in which they will receive instruction during the 30-day period.

The camp will open July 2 and close July 31. Trainees will be provided with uniforms, food, shelter, entertainment and travel pay between their homes and the camp, all at the expense of the government.

COUNCIL VOTES APPROVAL OF EIGHTH STREET IMPROVEMENT

Farrall Casts Only Vote Against Tripartite Plan.

ELLIS WILL ACT

Resurfacing of Second Street Ordered by 5 to 2 Ballot.

Completion of the West Eighth street improvement from West End school to the corporate limits became a certainty last night, when city council, at a special meeting, adopted a resolution approving tripartite plans for the improvement and authorized the service director to enter into a contract with the county commissioners for the work.

Farrell Objects to Property Cost.

The resolution was adopted by a vote of 6 to 1, Councilman Thomas Farrall alone opposing it. The plan was supported by Solons, Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe, Eardley, Kerr and Hayes. As soon as Service Director Ellis negotiates the contract with the commissioners, the job will be advertised and awarded.

Councilman Farrall criticized the cost of the private property bordering on West Eighth street which must be purchased in the proposed improvement. "Put the matter up for a referendum and I'll vote for it, otherwise I'll vote against it," he warned.

Councilman Chambers in reply asserted that council had been attempting to devise ways and means for several years to improve Shadyside avenue, but inasmuch as the abutting propety could not stand the assessment, the city was powerless. He declared that under the terms of the offer made by the township trustees this street could be graded and surfaced without cost to the city, provided the city proceeded with the West Eighth street job.

The resolution was passed on three readings under suspension of the rules, Solon Farrall voting "nay" upon every roll call. However, with the other six members supporting it the necessary three-fourth majority to suspend the rules was available.

Second Street Ordinance.

Despite the opposition of Solons Farrall and Kerr, council also enacted, on third reading, the ordinance "determining to proceed with the resurfacing of Second street from the C. & P. railroad crossing to Market street."

Farrall made a final effort to halt the improvement of the street without first removing the street car tracks, when he produced a sample of what he claimed to be the wooden ties taken from Mulberry street recently when the tracks were lifted from that thoroughfare. The sample readily crumbled between the fingers.

"This is the kind of stuff you have

EITHER WIDOW OR OLDEST SON WILL RUN FOR SENATE SEAT MADE VACANT BY LA FOLLETTE'S DEATH

BY KENNETH CLARK.

MADISON, June 23.—A member of the LaFollette family, either the widow or the oldest son, Robert, Jr., will make the race for the United States senate seat made vacant by the death of Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin.

This was the definite program announced by national and state Progressive leaders here today for holding together harmoniously and unitedly the great political organization built by the dead senator.

The ominous war clouds that floated low over the Wisconsin political horizon have lifted and the Progressives, after a series of quiet conferences, have ironed out threatening disrupting differences and agreed to present a solid front in attempting to send a LaFollette again to the senate.

Aspiring staff officers who had cast eyes toward Washington were told bluntly that they could not expect the support of senate Progressives who feel that, for political reasons, either Mrs. LaFollette or "Young Bob," as he is called here, should make the race.

Senator Norris' Warning.

The warning was sounded by Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska, a La Follette lieutenant in the senate, who issued a statement today declaring that "petty jealousies and personal ambitions must be forgotten." It was particularly directed at the officials who have quietly let drop the hint that they would not be adverse to contesting for the seat.

"The Progressives of the nation are looking to their brethren in Wisconsin to make no mistake at this critical hour," Norris said. "The death of our great leader must not be taken as any disintegration in our ranks. The echo of the clarion voice of La Follette which lead during his life must be the rallying cry at his grave.

"From the silence of the death chamber, there comes no wailing cry of discouragement or despair. He died as he lived, the same brave, courageous, double-fisted fighting Bob.

"Humanity's cause for which he lived and for which he gave his life demands our united service and our loyal fidelity.

"The banner of human freedom that has fallen from his hands must be raised along and the fight carried on until happiness shall come to every home and joy be enthroned at every fireside."

Await Mrs. La Follette's Decision

Norris' declaration was made after a visit to the La Follette farm where he saw Mrs. La Follette and Robert and was understood to have the full approval of such Senate Progresives as Brookhart of Iowa; Shipstead of Minnesota, and Wheeler of Montana, who attended the funeral rites.

It was regarded with great significance by political leaders here who saw in it a direct declaration of Norris' definite alignment with the so-called "insurgent bloc" of the senate.

Progressives are approaching the question of selecting a successor to La Follette from an entirely practical point of view. They are not letting sentiment guide their political judgment. They feel, with the family, that Senator La Follette would have wished them to carry on the fight as vigorously as he has done for so many years.

By merely dropping a hint that she wanted it, Mrs. La Follette could have the entire Progressive support. That is certain, and has been assured her from all quarters. But she is disinclined to become candidate. When the question first was called to her attention, she said she didn't care to become a candidate, that she had no love for political office.

The selection of a candidate awaits her decision.

Webster has been engaged in the mail service, flying at night out of the Chicago station. He was the only occupant of the plane, when it was wrecked and burst into flames, just as he was leaving the aviation field. Webster was badly burned over his entire body before he was extricated from the blazing wreckage.

Webster was a lieutenant in the air service during the World war, acting as a flying instructor in one of the training camps in this country. He married Miss Polk about five years ago and since then has been residing in Chicago.

LEGION SEEKS $2,700 QUOTA IN ENDOWMENT FUND CAMPAIGN

Drive for Disabled Veterans and War Orphans Planned.

OPENS WEDNESDAY

Post Members Will Make Appeal to Public.

A campaign to raise a $2,700 quota in a $10,000,000 endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans of the World war, will be launched by members of East Liverpool Post No. 4, American Legion, Wednesday.

The endowment campaign is in full swing throughout the Buckeye state this week, and many of the posts are reported to have reached their quotas in the first day of the drive. The drive has the endorsement of President Coolidge, Governor A. V. Donahey, Senators Willis and Fess and other prominent statesmen.

Manufacturers, business men and the general public will be asked to contribute. The canvass will be in charge of Legion members, assisted by business men who have promised their assistance.

While the entire week has been set aside by Governor Donahey as the "American Legion Endowment Week" the local post plans to complete the work in four days.

Fifteen of the 48 states have already gone "over the top" in the campaign. Ohio hopes to report its $500,00 quota as having been subscribed by Saturday night.

The $10,000,000 fund will be disbursed by a trust committee in caring for the disabled veterans and in educating and supporting their children in order that they may not become objects of public charity as a result of injuries, wounds or illness which resulted from their father's participation in the World war.

Striking Miners Assemble for Meet At Moundsville

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., June 23.—Striking miners came here today in large numbers to attend a mass meeting scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, when Philip Murray, Indianapolis, vice president of the United Mine Workers, will share the platform with Van A. Bittner, national organizer.

Bittner's address here tomorrow will be his first since the speech at Clarksburg in which he is reported to have bitterly assailed state police, classing them with mine guards.

Recently Bittner was sentenced to six months in jail for contempt of the Marion county court. This case has not been settled.

Josiah Kirby's Fate Placed in Hands of Six Men, Six Women

CLEVELAND, June 23.—A jury of six men and six women, at 11:15 o'clock today began deliberating upon the fate of Josiah Kirby, financier and founder of the Cleveland Discount company, on trial in common pleas court here on a charge of larceny of 42 shares of the preferred stock of the company, the alleged property of George L. Fix, of Cleveland.

Judge Fred H. Wolf, of Wauseon, who has presided over the trial, which began June 11, completed his charge at 11:10 and the jury retired at once.

Divide Country Into 22 Zones to Enforce Dry Law

WASHINGTON, June 23.—A far-reaching reorganization of federal prohibition enforcement methods was announced today by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

The plan, drafted by Gen. L. C. Anderws, field marshal of prohibition, and formally approved by President Coolidge, divides the United States into 22 enforcement districts.

The offices of state directors and divisional prohibition chiefs will be abolished on August 1.

Directing activities in each district will be a prohibition administration, "selected for personal fitness, executive and business ability," according to Mellon's announcement.

COOLIDGE OFF TO SWAMPSCOTT FOR VACATION

Presidential Party Will Spend Two Months in Massachusetts.

SPECIAL TRAIN

Mayflower, Carrying Domestic Personnel, Arrives.

Golf bags and tennis rackets were conspicuous by their absence insofar as the presidential baggage is concerned. Mr. Coolidge accepted the offer of a "summer White House" at Swampscott from his old friend, Frank W. Stearns, with the sole idea of getting away from official Washington to a spot where he could enjoy a complete rest—and the accepted forms of summer recreation do not appeal to the president as restful.

The presidential train—and it is again a "special"—pulled out of the local terminal a few minutes after 1 o'clock this afternoon. It is due to reach Salem, Mass., early tomorrow

Fourteen Lads are Guests at Weekly Dinner.

Fourteen of the 20 East Liverpool young men, who will attend the citizens' military training camp at Camp Knox, Kentucky, next month, were guests of the Lions' club at the weekly dinner in the Larkins Annex, Market street, last evening.

W. S. Foulks presided. Corporal Alex Grossman, in charge of the U. S. army recruiting station, addressed the boys, discussing army discipline, military courtesy and other phases of camp life in which they will receive instruction during the 30-day period.

The camp will open July 2 and close July 31. Trainees will be provided with uniforms, food, shelter, entertainment and travel pay between their homes and the camp, all at the expense of the government.

COUNCIL VOTES APPROVAL OF EIGHTH STREET IMPROVEMENT

Farrall Casts Only Vote Against Tripartite Plan.

ELLIS WILL ACT

Resurfacing of Second Street Ordered by 5 to 2 Ballot.

Completion of the West Eighth street improvement from West End school to the corporate limits became a certainty last night, when city council, at a special meeting, adopted a resolution approving tripartite plans for the improvement and authorized the service director to enter into a contract with the county commissioners for the work.

Farrell Objects to Property Cost.

The resolution was adopted by a vote of 6 to 1, Councilman Thomas Farrall alone opposing it. The plan was supported by Solons, Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe, Eardley, Kerr and Hayes. As soon as Service Director Ellis negotiates the contract with the commissioners, the job will be advertised and awarded.

Councilman Farrall criticized the cost of the private property bordering on West Eighth street which must be purchased in the proposed improvement. "Put the matter up for a referendum and I'll vote for it, otherwise I'll vote against it," he warned.

Councilman Chambers in reply asserted that council had been attempting to devise ways and means for several years to improve Shadyside avenue, but inasmuch as the abutting propety could not stand the assessment, the city was powerless. He declared that under the terms of the offer made by the township trustees this street could be graded and surfaced without cost to the city, provided the city proceeded with the West Eighth street job.

The resolution was passed on three readings under suspension of the rules, Solon Farrall voting "nay" upon every roll call. However, with the other six members supporting it the necessary three-fourth majority to suspend the rules was available.

Second Street Ordinance.

Despite the opposition of Solons Farrall and Kerr, council also enacted, on third reading, the ordinance "determining to proceed with the resurfacing of Second street from the C. & P. railroad crossing to Market street."

Farrall made a final effort to halt the improvement of the street without first removing the street car tracks, when he produced a sample of what he claimed to be the wooden ties taken from Mulberry street recently when the tracks were lifted from that thoroughfare. The sample readily crumbled between the fingers.

EITHER WIDOW OR OLDEST SON WILL RUN FOR SENATE SEAT MADE VACANT BY LA FOLLETTE'S DEATH

BY KENNETH CLARK.

MADISON, June 23.—A member of the LaFollette family, either the widow or the oldest son, Robert, Jr., will make the race for the United States senate seat made vacant by the death of Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin.

This was the definite program announced by national and state Progressive leaders here today for holding together harmoniously and unitedly the great political organization built by the dead senator.

The ominous war clouds that floated low over the Wisconsin political horizon have lifted and the Progressives, after a series of quiet conferences, have ironed out threatening disrupting differences and agreed to present a solid front in attempting to send a LaFollette again to the senate.

Aspiring staff officers who had cast eyes toward Washington were told bluntly that they could not expect the support of senate Progressives who feel that, for political reasons, either Mrs. LaFollette or "Young Bob," as he is called here, should make the race.

Senator Norris' Warning.

The warning was sounded by Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska, a La Follette lieutenant in the senate, who issued a statement today declaring that "petty jealousies and personal admitions must be forgotten." It was particularly directed at the officials who have quietly let drop the hint that they would not be adverse to contesting for the seat.

"The Progressives of the nation are looking to their brethren in Wisconsin to make no mistake at this critical hour," Norris said. "The death of our great leader must not be taken as any disintegration in our ranks. The echo of the clarion voice of La Follette which lead during his life must be the rallying cry at his grave.

"From the silence of the death chamber, there comes no wailing cry of discouragement or despair. He died as he lived, the same brave, courageous, double-fisted fighting Bob.

"Humanity's cause for which he lived and for which he gave his life demands our united service and our loyal fidelity.

"The banner of human freedom that has fallen from his hands must be raised along and the fight carried on until happiness shall come to every home and joy be enthroned at every fireside."

Await Mrs. La Follette's Decision

Norris' declaration was made after a visit to the La Follette farm where he saw Mrs. La Follette and Robert and was understood to have the full approval of such Senate Progresives as Brookhart of Iowa; Shipstead of Minnesota, and Wheeler of Montana, who attended the funeral rites.

It was regarded with great significance by political leaders here who saw in it a direct declaration of Norris' definite alignment with the so-called "insurgent bloc" of the senate.

Progressives are approaching the question of selecting a successor to La Follette from an entirely practical point of view. They are not letting sentiment guide their political judgment. They feel, with the family, that Senator La Follette would have wished them to carry on the fight as vigorously as he has done for so many years.

By merely dropping a hint that she wanted it, Mrs. La Follette could have the entire Progressive support. That is certain, and has been assured her from all quarters. But she is disinclined to become candidate. When the question first was called to her attention, she said she didn't care to become a candidate, that she had no love for political office.

The selection of a candidate awaits her decision.

BANDIT LEADER, WHO SOUGHT TO KILL BULGAR KING, IS SLAIN

Bonass is Shot to Death in Battle With Police.

PALS CAPTURED

Boris' Ring and Adjutant's Watch Found on Outlaw's Body.

SOFIA, June 23.—The bandit leader Bonass, who sought the life of King Boris, of Bulgaria, was killed today resisting soldiers who cornered him and his band in the mountains. Bonass' followers were captured, after two of them had been wounded.

On Bonass' body was found a ring which had been taken from King Boris himself and the watch which belonged to his adjutant, who was slain in the attack on the king.

Boris escaped the assassins, who were believed at the time to have acted in conjunction with widespread Communist-Agrarian plot, by seizing the wheel of his automobile and driving it at break-neck speed away from the scene of attack.

The king was attacked on a country road while returning to Sofia. The same afternoon General Georghieff, leader of the government party, was slain in Sofia. At Georghieff's funeral, the Sveti Kral cathedral was bombed and upwards of 160 lives were lost.

Witness in Divorce Case Faces Court On Serious Count

NEW YORK, June 23.—A plea of not guilty was entered today by Talbot W. Chambers when he appeared before Justice Ford in the supreme court charged with a statutory crime as an outcome of his testimony in the divorce suit of Thomas H. Symington, of New York, Baltimore and Rochester, millionaire dealer in railroad supplies.

Justice Ford set the hearing of the charge against Chambers for 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The arrest of Chambers was made at the request of Max D. Steuer, counsel for Mrs. Symington, defendant in the divorce action. Chambers testified several days ago to acts which he said had taken place in his own and Mrs. Symington's apartment.

Florida Governor Promises Probe of Murder of Ohioan

COLUMBUS, June 23.—The murder of J. W. Prine, former city manager and postmaster of Ashtabula, and later a real estate operator near Wildwood, Florida, May 28, will be investigated and every effort made to bring the slayer to justice, Governor John Martin of Florida today informed Governor Donahey.

Governor Donahey, on June 11, wrote Governor Smith requesting an investigation, and in his letter said he had been informed by investigators that Prine had been shot by Dr. R. E. Watts. Prine died May 31.

under Second street," he declared. "I appeal to other members of council to be fair in this matter. You made sure that the rails be lifted on Mulberry street, and why can't you be just as fair with the downtown streets. I have always been against resurfacing Second street with the tracks down, am now and always will be."

Upon roll call Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe, Eardley and Hayes voted for the ordinance, while Kerr and Farrall opposed it. Bids for the improvement will be sought at an early date.

Farrall's Explanation.

At the close of the meeting, Councilman Farrall issued the following statement, setting forth his reasons for opposing the West Eighth street improvement:

"I was elected by the people to take care of their interests and believe it to be my duty to oppose this improvement. I believe that the city's bonded indebtedness is already too high. After we pay the interest on outstanding bonds there is little left to meet the city's operating expenses.

"We have only about one-half of the number of police and firemen that we should have and are without funds to increase the personnel of either department. You can readily see what our position will be by issuing $30,000 or $40,000 worth of bonds more. It will mean additional taxes, for we cannot stand further cuts in the police and fire fighting forces.

"I will vote for the issue if it is submitted to a referendum vote of the taxpayers, for it is the taxpayers who must pay the bonds in the end, and they should have the right to a vote, and not for a few to decide this question.

"It is easy for municipalities and social reformers to demand schemes that cost vast sums of money, but the public pays the bills. A tailor cuts his coats according to his cloth but council takes the chance of making both ends meet. People should cease to live with their heads in the clouds, come down to earth and the practical facts of life."

Presidential Yacht Docks.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass. June 23.—Carring the domestic personnel of the summer White House, the presidential yacht Mayflower arrived off here today.

The Mayflower was met off Boston Light by a navy tug which accompanied her into port and aided in the transfer of the baggage from the Mayflower.

The voyage of the yacht from Washington was uneventful. Pasasge was made through Cape Cod canal early today and a quick run across Massachusetts bay followed.

Besides three cooks, two butlers, one door man, one baggage man and one maid, the Mayflower carried two dogs and one auto truck.

With 41 picked marines and Swampscott police guarding "white court," the summer White House on Little's Point, and with everything inside the house ship shape, those who arrived today found little to do except to "unpack trunks."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 23—The stock market derived considerable satisfaction from President Coolidge's promise to recommend a substantial cut in income taxes next year and all divisions of the speculative market were buoyant in the early trading today. General Motors retainin its position at the head of the motor stocks. Reaching another peak price at 81 for a gain of more than a point. The public steel, cooper and specialty stocks made a better showing than in the last few sessions, and oil stocks, after losing ground at the opening of the market, swung into a more buoyant price movement.

Rumors of special melon-cutting for General Motors led to heavy buying of that stock and its market record in the last week or so has been in sharp contrast to the sluggishness and reactionary tendency displayed in the previous month. After the dividend rate was advanced from 5 to 6 per cent the stock dropped steadily from 79 to 68 1-2. Last week the stock sold at 75 1-2.

North American company, Electric Light and Power and other utility stocks went forward to fractionally higher price levels on a fairly large volume of business. American Locomotive and Baldwin in the equipment group, Chile and Kennecott in the coppers, and Gulf States in the independent steels, made fractional advances.

The temporary tightening of the money market is due to preparations in the banking institutions for dividend and interest disbursements in the first week of July, the heaviest reinvestment season in the year. Call money renewals were marked down to 4 per cent, against yesterday's closing rate at 4½ per cent. Outside markets were generally steady and commodity prices firm.

Democrat, if that Democrat would agree to put them there—and 6 Republicans whitewashed the rascals.

In the year of Our Lord 655 the Arabian general Amroo conquered Egypt and became governor of the land in the time of Omar.

Omar succeeded Mohammed as caliph and treated the Christians decently when he captured Jerusalem and built the great mosque of Omar on the site of King Solomon's temple.

Amroo, as pious as Omar, built in Cairo to honor the name of Allah and the glory of Mohammed the fine mosque that bears his name.

Now, the Egyptians, allowed to boss their own country once more, will rebuild the mosque of Amroo and offer cash prizes for the best three plans.

You can't replace such a mosque with mere "plans." You must have back of your building the fury, fire, and faith of those Mohammedan Arabs that swept over Europe.

Better for self governing Egypt to build something modern—an irrigation plant, using Nile waters more efficiently, good public baths or even a skyscraper. There is nothing to be gained by looking to the past, everything is in the future.

DAPPER DAN CASWELL DIES

Pneumonia Claims Ohio Youth Who Squandered Fortune.

NEW YORK, June 23.—"Broadway," that part of it that makes up the bright lights and tinsel, was stunned toady at the news that "Danny" Caswell is dead.

"Danny," the dapper, smiling college boy, came from Cleveland six years ago and squandered a fortune. He was 19 then and fond of the girls. He married two of them, well-known to Broadway, Jessie Reed, once billed as "the highest paid chorus girl in the world," and after they were divorced, June Castleton, also of the "Follies."

So Broadway knew Danny."

Broadway hadn't seen much of "Danny" in the last year or so. They knew he had squandered a fortune. They learned he was "disinherited" and about a year ago they read he had suffered a nervous breakdown from which he recovered.

Only a few of "Danny's" old Broadway friends knew that five weeks ago he was admitted to St. Luke's hospital suffering from typhoid fever. Pneumonia set in and yesterday he died.

He was only 25, and next year, he was to have inherited $500,000 put in trust by his father, the late Daniel Caswell, a prominent real estate operator of Cleveland.

His best friend, his mother, Mrs Elizabeth Caswell, was with "Danny" when he died. She is taking his body home today.

everything in his power to bring him back to health.

Crowe Cross-Examines.

Shepherd also denied that he ever had written a letter to the National University of Sciences, where, the state asserts, he applied for a course in bacteriology, that he did not know John P. Marchand, salesman for the school, nor Charles C. Faiman, its head, and his co-defendant in the present case. Never until the present case came up had he seen them, he said.

All during the testimony he kept his eyes fixed on Stewart, and only the tone of his voice as he gave answer to the questions gave indications of the nervous strain caused by the ordeal.

It was a short examination—possibly the shortest on record in any case which has attracted so much prominence.

"About 49," Shepherd answered.

"Ever study chemistry?"

"In high school."

It soon became apparent that Crowe's questioning was directed to establishing his contention that Shepherd, during the greater part of his life, had been dependent upon others for support.

At length, Crowe reached the time when the Shepherds came to live with the McClintock's.

"Did you pay them anything?" he asked Shepherd.

"Yes, I paid Mrs. McClintock $50 a month from Feb. 1, 1918, to Nov. 1 the same year.

"Included your wife's keep?"

"Yes."

"Did you drive the family car?"

"Yes."

Crabbe said he will accept the invitation.

Government Heads Heed President's Plea for Economy

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Enjoined by President Coolidge to prosecute a campaign of relentless economy that the next congress may reduce the tax burden of the American people, government heads today began the preparation of expense estimates for the two years beginning June 30.

The president, addressing the semi-annual business meeting of department heads last night, limited expenditures in this period to approximately $6,750,000,000 exclusive of postal costs.

For the first year government cost will be about $3,375,000,000, appropriation for which has already been made. The president asked his department chiefs to keep within that figure eand to limit their estimates for the year beginning June 30, 1926 to $3,050,000,000.

"The way has been paved for further tax reduction," President Coolidge declared. "This I will recommend to congress in the next budget."

BANDIT LEADER, WHO SOUGHT TO KILL BULGAR KING, IS SLAIN

Bonass is Shot to Death in Battle With Police.

PALS CAPTURED

Boris' Ring and Adjutant's Watch Found on Outlaw's Body.

SOFIA, June 23.—The bandit leader Bonass, who sought the life of King Boris, of Bulgaria, was killed today resisting soldiers who cornered him and his band in the mountains. Bonass' followers were captured, after two of them had been wounded.

On Bonass' body was found a ring which had been taken from King Boris himself and the watch which belonged to his adjutant, who was slain in the attack on the king.

Boris escaped the assassins, who were believed at the time to have acted in conjunction with widespread Communist-Agrarian plot, by seizing the wheel of his automobile and driving it at break neck speed away from the scene of attack.

The king was attacked on a country road while returning to Sofia. The same afternoon General Georghieff, leader of the government party, was slain in Sofia. At Georghieff's funeral, the Sveti Kral cathedral was bombed and upwards of 160 lives were lost.

Chambers when he appeared before Justice Ford in the supreme court charged with a statutory crime as an outcome of his testimony in the divorce suit of Thomas H. Symington, of New York, Baltimore and Rochester, millionaire dealer in railroad supplies.

Justice Ford set the hearing of the charge against Chambers for 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The arrest of Chambers was made at the request of Max D. Steuer, counsel for Mrs. Symington, defendant in the divorce action. Chambers testified several days ago to acts which he said had taken place in his own and Mrs. Symington's apartment.

Florida Governor Promises Probe of Murder of Ohioan

COLUMBUS, June 23.—The murder of J. W. Prine, former city manager and postmaster of Ashtabula, and later a real estate operator near Wildwood, Florida, May 28, will be investigated and every effort made to bring the slayer to justice, Governor John Martin of Florida today informed Governor Donahey.

Governor Donahey, on June 11, wrote Governor Smith requesting an investigation, and in his letter said he had been informed by investigators that Prine had been shot by Dr. R. E. Watts. Prine died May 31.

under Second street," he declared. "I appeal to other members of council to be fair in this matter. You made sure that the rails be lifted on Mulberry street, and why can't you be just as fair with the downtown streets. I have always been against resurfacing Second street with the tracks down, am now and always will be."

Upon roll call Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe, Eardley and Hayes voted for the ordinance, while Kerr and Farrall opposed it." Bids for the improvement will be sought at an early date.

Farrall's Explanation.

At the close of the meeting, Councilman Farrall issued the following statement, setting forth his reasons for opposing the West Eighth street improvement:

"I was elected by the people to take care of their interests and believe it to be my duty to oppose this improvement. I believe that the city's bonded indebtedness is already too high. After we pay the interest on outstanding bonds there is little left to meet the city's operating expenses.

"We have only about one-half of the number of police and firemen that we should have and are without funds to increase the personnel of either department. You can readily see what our position will be by issuing $30,000 or $40,000 worth of bonds more. It will mean additional taxes, for we cannot stand further cuts in the police and fire fighting forces.

"I will vote for the issue if it is submitted to a referendum vote of the taxpayers, for it is the taxpayers who must pay the bonds in the end, and they should have the right to a vote, and not for a few to decide this question.

"It is easy for municipalities and social reformers to demand schemes that cost vast sums of money, but the public pays the bills. A tailor cuts his coats according to his cloth but council takes the chance of making both ends meet. People should cease to live with their heads in the clouds, come down to earth and the practical facts of life."

Presidential Yacht Docks.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass. June 23.—Carring the domestic personnel of the summer White House, the presidential yacht Mayflower arrived off here today.

The Mayflower was met off Boston Light by a navy tug which accompanied her into port and aided in the transfer of the baggage from the Mayflower.

The voyage of the yacht from Washington was uneventful. Pasasge was made through Cape Cod canal early today and a quick run across Massachusetts bay followed.

Besides three cooks, two butlers, one door man, one baggage man and one maid, the Mayflower carried two dogs and one auto truck.

With 41 picked marines and Swampscott police guarding "white court," the summer White House on Little's Point, and with everything inside the house ship shape, those who arrived today found little to do except to "unpack trunks."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 23—The stock market derived considerable satisfaction from President Coolidge's promise to recommend a substantial cut in income taxes next year and all divisions of the speculative market were buoyant in the early trading today. General Motors retainin its position at the head of the motor stocks. Reaching another peak price at $1 for a gain of more than a point. The public steel, cooper and specialty stocks made a better showing than in the last few sessions, and oil stocks, after losing ground at the opening of the market, swung into a more buoyant price movement.

Rumors of special melon-cutting for General Motors led to heavy buying of that stock and its market record in the last week or so has been in sharp contrast to the sluggishness and reactionary tendency displayed in the previous month. After the dividend rate was advanced from 5 to 6 per cent the stock dropped steadily from 79 to 68 1-2. Last week the stock sold at 75 1-2.

North American company, Electric Light and Power and other utility stocks went forward to fractionally higher price levels on a fairly large volume of business. American Locomotive and Baldwin in the equipment group, Chile and Kennecott in the coppers, and Gulf States in the independent steels, made fractional advances.

The temporary tightening of the money market is due to preparations in the banking institutions for dividend and interest disbursements in the first week of July, the heaviest reinvestment season in the year. Call money renewals were marked down to 4 per cent, against yesterday's closing rate at 4½ per cent. Outside markets were generally steady and commodity prices firm.

TODAY

Democrat, if that Democrat would agree to put them there—and if Republicans whitewashed the rascals.

In the year of Our Lord 655 the Arabian general Amroo conquered Egypt and became governor of the land in the time of Omar.

Omar succeeded Mohammed as caliph and treated the Christians decently when he captured Jerusalem and built the great mosque of Omar on the site of King Solomon's temple.

Amroo, as pious as Omar, built in Cairo to honor the name of Allah and the glory of Mohammed the fine mosque that bears his name.

Now, the Egyptians, allowed to boss their own country once more, will rebuild the mosque of Amroo and offer cash prizes for the best three plans.

You can't replace such a mosque with mere "plans." You must have back of your building the fury, fire, and faith of those Mohammedan Arabs that swept over Europe.

Better for self governing Egypt to build something modern—an irrigation plant, using Nile waters more efficiently, good public baths or even a skyscraper. There is nothing to be gained by looking to the past, everything is in the future.

DAPPER DAN CASWELL DIES

Pneumonia Claims Ohio Youth Who Squandered Fortune.

NEW YORK, June 23.—"Broadway," that part of it that makes up the bright lights and tinsel, was stunned toady at the news that "Danny" Caswell is dead.

"Danny," the dapper, smiling college boy, came from Cleveland six years ago and squandered a fortune. He was 19 then and fond of the girls. He married two of them, well-known to Broadway, Jessie Reed, once billed as "the highest paid chorus girl in the world," and after they were divorced, June Castleton, also of the "Follies."

So Broadway knew Danny."

Broadway hadn't seen much of "Danny" in the last year or so. They knew he had squandered a fortune. They learned he was "disinherited" and about a year ago they read he had suffered a nervous breakdown from which he recovered.

Only a few of "Danny's" old Broadway friends knew that five weeks ago he was admitted to St. Luke's hospital suffering from typhoid fever. Pneumonia set in and yesterday he died.

He was only 25, and next year, he was to have inherited $500,000 put in trust by his father, the late Daniel Caswell, a prominent real estate operator of Cleveland.

His best friend, his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Caswell, was with "Danny" when he died. She is taking his body home today.

everything in his power to bring him back to health.

Crowe Cross-Examines.

Shepherd also denied that he ever had written a letter to the National University of Sciences, where, the state asserts, he applied for a course in bacteriology, that he did not know John P. Marchand, salesman for the school, nor Charles C. Faiman, its head, and his co-defendant in the present case. Never until the present case came up had he seen them, he said.

All during the testimony he kept his eyes fixed on Stewart, and only the tone of his voice as he gave answer to the questions gave indications of the nervous strain caused by the ordeal.

It was a short examination—possibly the shortest on record in any case which has attracted so much prominence.

"How old a man are you?" Crowe barked.

"About 49," Shepherd answered.

"Ever study chemistry?"

"In high school."

It soon became apparent that Crowe's questioning was directed to establishing his contention that Shepherd, during the greater part of his life, had been dependent upon others for support.

At length, Crowe reached the time when the Shepherds came to live with the McClintock's.

"Did you pay them anything?" he asked Shepherd.

"Yes, I paid Mrs. McClintock $50 a month from Feb. 1, 1918, to Nov. 1 the same year.

"Included your wife's keep?"

"Yes."

"Did you drive the family car?"

"Yes."

Government Heads Heed President's Plea for Economy

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Enjoined by President Coolidge to prosecute a campaign of relentless economy that the next congress may reduce the tax burden of the American people, government heads today began the preparation of expense estimates for the two years beginning June 30.

The president, addressing the semi-annual business meeting of department heads last night, limited expenditures in this period to approximately $6,750,000,000 exclusive of postal costs.

For the first year government cost will be about $3,375,000,000, appropriation for which has already been made. The president asked his department chiefs to keep within that figure eand to limit their estimates for the year beginning June 30, 1926 to $3,080,000,000.

"The way has been paved for further tax reduction," President Coolidge declared. "This I will recommend to congress in the next budget."

LOCAL MAN WEDS COLUMBUS GIRL

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Murdock have returned from Columbus where they attended the wedding Thursday morning of their son, Raymond, and Miss Emily Kimbal Brevoort of Columbus. The ceremony was solemnized in the North Methodist Episcopal church.

Before an altar banked with ferns and palms and baskets of gladioli the ring ceremony was read by Rev. Dr. Thomas H. Campbell, pastor of the church. Miss Inez Richie sang two selections, "Beloved It is Dawn" and "At Dawning" with Mrs. Paul Miller at the organ.

Mrs. Brevort, mother of the bride was in a gray georgette gown over pink and wore a hair braid hat of gray and pink.

About 150 guests were present at the wedding, including the members of the Columbus chapter of Sigma Kappa, the bride's sorority, at Ohio State university, where she was for merly a student, and of Lambda Chi Kappa, the fraternity of Mr. Murdock a graduate of Ohio State university, class of 1924, who is now associated with the Duquesne Light Co., of Pittsburgh.

GAS SERVICE FOR SUBURBS

Extend Mains to Ross Meadows and Glenmoor.

The Manufacturers' Light & Heat company is preparing to provide gas service in Ross Meadows and Glenmoor.

A six-inch line extending from the present mains which run as far as Sherwood will be laid to a point about 800 feet west of Stop 55 crossing on the Lincoln highway, a distance of about two and one-half miles. A two-inch main will also tap the larger pipe, paralelling the Y. & O. railroad at Stop 55.

Pipe for the extension is already on the road and work on laying it will be started this week. The main will be laid on the dirt section in order to prevent tearing up the improved part of the highway.

Find Ancient Cemetery in Greek Excavations

Washington.—Important excavations in a prehistoric cemetery are about to be undertaken in Greece under auspices of the American School of Classical Study at Athens, according to information received by Prof. Edward Capp of Princeton university.

Work now being done at Corinth within the area of an old theater has resulted in several interesting finds. The operations at Corinth are regarded as the most important started by American archeologists in Greece and were made possible by gift from Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Morgan and Dr. T. Leslie Shear of Princeton.

Several pieces of statuary have been unearthed, as well as much pottery. Dr. Shear, who is in charge at Corinth, has also discovered the conduits leading to the source of the ancient water supply which brought water from Acrocorinth to the Fountain of Glauce, named after the wife of Jason the Argonaut, who was murdered by Medea.

The prehistoric cemetery which has been discovered will be the scene of new excavations. This work is made possible by a gift from the estate of Joseph C. Hoppin, of Boston, and is in charge of the assistant director of the American school, Dr. C. W. Blegen.

Britains Credited With Music Culture By M. Koussewitzky

LONDON — England has musical culture, whereas in America there is only a vast musical intellect.

That's the verdict of M. Koussewitzky, here to conduct three concerts by the London Symphony orchestra.

"The day of American composers is yet to come," Koussewitzky said. "I think it probable that the first American musician who writes really great music will base it on jazz motifs. Jazz has a tremendous effect on the mentality of the eneral public in Americga and it cannot fail to have its influence on American music."

Ballots For Absent Voters

Vacationists, vote before you leave home!

This suggestion was made today by the Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of elections, when announcement was made that the polls for absent voters would open July 12.

The law permits an elector who expects to be absent from his home precinct on election day to apply for ballots not earlier than 30 days nor later than three days before the municipal primaries which are scheduled for Tuesday, August 11.

And if the elector so desires he may cast his ballot in the headquarters of the election board before he leaves on a vacation or business trip. If absent from his home city, he should mail his application, and ballots willl be forwarded to him.

Thus there is no excuse for failure of electors in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salineville, Lisbon, Leetonia, Columbiana, East Palestine and Salem to vote in the August primaries. A request delivered by Uncle Sam will bring the ballots.

Humility Day

July 1 is to be observed in Japan as "Humiliation Day," in memory of the United States Japanese exclusion act. China celebrated a special humiliation day not long ago, in memory of the 21 points insisted upon by Japan before her release of the Shantung peninsula.

Other nations have not yet established humiliation days, although one could easily figure out suitable events to be so commemorated all over Europe. Spain and Germany and France and even Italy and Belgium and all the rest have had troubles in recent years which might easily be considered humiliating.

But why have humiliation days? Why dwell on humiliating history? Plain humility days would be more to the point. The United States could then join in the celebration. There might even be a great international humility day, on which the nations could turn their attention to acts of humble courtesy, striving the while to achieve at least temporary freedom from pride and arrogance.

Debt Payments

European debtors are really paying their debts. On June 15, the same day that Americans had to pay their income taxes, the United States treasury received about $69,000,000 on foreign war loans. Most of it was from Great Britain, or largest debtor and readiest payer. But it should be observed that remittances came also from Finland, Hungary. Lithuania and Poland.

These little nations have done better than some of the big ones. France, whose debt ranks in size next to England's, though talking much about paying, has never yet made any concrete proposals to pay, and is not likely to do so as long as she has active wars to finance. Italy's attitude is still more distant and vague. It seems unlikely that refunding arrangements can be made with either of those powers on any basis acknowledging their indebtedness, principal and interest. There will probably have to be drastic concessions, if America is to collect anything at all from them.

Suppressing Indecency

The Methodist Episcopal board of temperance, prohibition and public morals is starting a national campaign to suppress indecent shows, magazines and pictures.

"Art," says a representative of the board, "covers a multitude of sins. Musical comedy producers, editors of magazines and even the photographers are using it as an excuse for improper business, in violation of American principles and in many cases in violation of law."

It is a good work, if wisely conducted. Reform is needed, if the country is to be kept free from the obscenity that is flaunted unchanllenged in many foreign countries. Much of the entertainment now provided on the stage and much of the matter in periodicals sent through the mails and exhibited on news stands is far below the standards of decency and taste maintained heretofore in America.

The essential thing is not to do the reforming with a club, in matters of such delicacy as art and literature. Such work calls for fine discrimination.

Indian Baseball

The Indians played ball in this country before the white man came. More than that, they played major league ball, if the autobiography of Black Hawk is to be credited. He tells how this was the great sport so far back that the memory of the red man runneth not to the contrary, and how big games used to be played in the Mississippi valley among friendly tribes, with 500 to 1,000 men playing on a side.

This, needless to say, was not exactly our modern baseball. According to one authority, it combined the chief elements of baseball, football, basketball, lacrosse and hockey.

Anyway, it is evident now why ball is our national game. It must be in the soil or the climate.

Victor Emmanuel of Italy has now reigned exactly 25 years. That is to say, he's been king that long.

Jazz may be "dead," as repeatedly announced by musical critics, but if so, it's certainly haunting the dance halls.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Old Berkeley Stirs Again.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23.—The name Berkeley Springs above a current news dispatch brings memories. It recalls the days of perwigs and powdered hair, minuets and gallantry, chivalry as it existed in romantic antebellum days. The item in the new states that a hotel and sanitarium company has been chartered with $1,000,000 capital stock to build a mammoth hotel.

Thus begins a new chapter in the interesting story of the village which owns a glorious past. Berkeley is situated in the northeastern tip of West Virginia. It was a watering place where the aristocracy of two centuries went to play and take the water cure. The nobility of merrie England and the gentility of colonial America went there to disport themselves in the fashion of the period. They journeyed in their coaches, drawn by the best blooded horses of the time, to put up at the Inn near the warm springs which were noted from Boston to Richmond.

The first word of Berkeley descends to us from the pen of George Washington himself. It was written when he was surveying what was then northern Virginia for its aristocratic and noble owner, Lord Fairfax. He declaims in his notes that on one occasion in 1748, he was delayed by a flood and took the opportunity to visit "ye famed warm springs,' and thereupon ends his discourse and whether he loved himself he does not say.

Lord Fairfax owned the springs and all their environs. Tradition has it that this altruistic nobleman contributed them to the state for the benefit of its good people, and folk about Berkeley believe it.

A Stingy Old Lord.

There are certain official records, however, which would contradict tradition, and would show that the lord was not the philanthropist that folk tell about. In one of these records is set forth a petition which states that four hundred people were gathered about the springs, taking the baths for their health, and that they had no adequate shelter. The petition further declares that Lord Fairfax would not permit the hewing of a single tree with which to build a cabin. It therefore demands that the state take the lands away from the noble lord and donate them to the people.

The appeal was addressed to the Continental Congress and it was granted. A town was laid out and named Bath, following English precedent, and lots of a quarter-acre were offered for sale. To prevent speculation every one who bought a lot had also to build a house on it. George Washington bought two of the lots and about a third of the entire town was bought by the officers of his army.

So Berkeley Springs was founded and it straightway sprang into prominence. That was the day of duels and gallantry and fashion deemed one's season a failure unless a part of it were spent at the Bath of America. The warm spring had been dug out so that a great basin was formed and a sort of stockade built around it, where the ladies and gentlemen bathed at set hours, subject to the winding of a hunting horn.

Brains followed fashion and it became the resort of the intelligents of long ago. David Hunter Strother, who wrote under the name of Porte Crayon, lived there. Among his guests was that distinguished New Yorker, Washington Irving, the first American man of letters upon whom the British deigned to cast their appraising eyes. The little house where he penned his sketches is still standing. Berkeley was associated with the birth of American literature as well as American independence and American society.

George Took Martha There.

Martha Washington is said to have been especially found of the springs, though it is not certain whether she came to cure her rheumatism or to mingle with society. The bathing dress she wore during her wedding trip to Berkeley is a prized relic. There is little said about her illustrous husband, but he must have been a frequent visitor. There is a giant elm, known as the Washington elm, which Berkeley folk would have you know he planted. As the infant nation grew, so grew the fame of the healing springs. In the half century prior to the Civil war the little valley was the gayest place in America. place in the public mind that Newport and Palm Beach do now. It was not merely gay; it was scandalous. It is difficult to imagine some of the early gallants and their hoop-skirted ladies indulging in indiscretions, but conventions seem to be thin-skinned whether it be the nineteenth or twentieth centuries.

There was a hotel then with rooms for five hundred guests, and there were numerous and splendid private mansions. The oldest of the bath houses, which was still standing several years ago, was built more than one hundred years past, so that the open bathing of Revolutionary days had been displaced by little private baths with tiled plunges and trained attendants. Berkeley was sophisticated, intellectual and luxurious in 1860. It was deserted two years later. The men rode off to fight, and the women went away to save and sew. Alas for Berkeley! Its golden age was done. Where there had been the sound of strings and the swish of skirts, there was nothing but the call of birds and the silence of the hills.

Virginia and West Virginia had a lawsuit over the ownership of Berkeley and West Virginia won out. But it mattered little. There were attempts at rejuvenating it, but they failed. Finally a promoter took it over who had better success and many strangers again registered at the old Washington Hotel. The bath house was renovated and Berkeley roused somewhat from its lethargy. Now comes a new corporation with dreams of again making it America's premier society playground.

Whether Berkeley again scales the heights of fame it fell from, or remains in continued somnolence, it has owned as citizen a modern gentleman of letters who enriched his period with a talent so colorful that in time it may be adjudged as equal to that of the great Washington Irving who graced the springs by his presence in the earlier and greater days. Herbert Quick, lamented author of "Vandemark's Folly," lived at Berkeley Springs.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 23.—This is the time of year for the seasonal yelp of returning pilgrims from Mathattan: "New York's nice to visit but I'd hate to live there." Many years here have tended to a belief that most New Yorkers want to leave the town flat and the majority outside ache to come here.

As a matter of fact few visitors see the real New York. They see only that section that emits the sickly glow—like a rotting phosphorescent fish. New York to them is a wild mixture of jazz, bare legs, shimmy and tea cup hooch.

In fact I think many New Yorkers like to get away now and then because they find it deadly dull. I know I do and I'm one of the sort who will stand in front of a street fakir with a trick knife through his wrists until the police shoo me away.

The real New York is not bounded on the north by Columbus Circle or on the south by Herald Square. I know many men who do not see Broadway in a year's time, and no farther north than 100th street there are folks ho never saw the wriggly acrobats jiggle on the Putnam Building.

There are thousands who are whisked underground to their office buildings, whisked back home again at night to spend the evening crossword puzzling or attending the neighborhood movie. They are abed the time the jazz mosques are tuning up.

Aunt Sarah—the one with the chin mole and wet kisses—comes to wont, goes shopping all day, the theatre three nights running, the supper afterwards and then gasps: "Pon my word, I don't see how you folks stand it," and goes back home to the smelling salts.

Most of the hotel foyers are deserted after midnight. And even the out-of-towners are sound asleep. The straggling groups you see in all night haunts are chronic loafers who go the rounds night after night. Real New York has too much to do to sit up all night.

The green serpentine sign of Joel's cafe back of the Metropolitan has fileekered out. Joel has closed. His closing was not a prohibitory click of the padlock. Joel was simply tired of the game. For many years his cafe was the after midnight haunt of morning newsjajermen and artists. Fornaro, the caricaturist, was usually there and the walls were plastered with original drawings and comic strips. Joel catered also to actor folk and in a gilt sign at the head of the stairway urged players to send their money to him when they were out trooping. Many did. Joel was an affable poseur. His name is Joel Rinaldo and he wrote weighty saleless tomes on the polygenreic theory while specializing in frijoles colorado and chili con carne. In other days Joel fashioned a drink known as the "Blue Moon." It was blue in color and high powered in action. He served only one to each customer but it kept the patron pleasantly mellow the rest of the evening.

Another famous drink in Joel's neighborhood in the old days was served at The Poodle Dog. It was known as the Blitzen. A mild mannered little man whose head perked over his celluloid collar like that of a turtle came into the place one night. At a waiter's suggestion he quaffed a Blitzen. "See that fellow dancing with the pretty blonde?" said the waiter casually. "That's Kid McCoy, the pugilist."

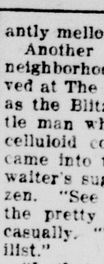

"Is that so?" said the mild-mannered little man, shedding his coat. "Well take a squint at a new champion."

Before he could be stopped he rushed out on the floor and swung a blow on McCoy's jaw. The Kid returned a mild jab with a smile and they carried the victim to an ante room feet up. After a time one eyelid flickered feebly. Then he sat up.

"Tell McCoy" he murmered, "that I'll pay all his hospital expenses. I'm just a devil when I drink."

Soldier's Corn Made Drill a Misery

Corn Hasn't Come Back In 7 Years Since Removed This Way

"I had a seeded callus right under my large toe that pained every time I stepped. While I was drilling, it tortured me! Then I put on a 'Blue-jay' Plaster and I haven't been bothered since." Thus writes H. Brentlinger, 1625 S. 11th St., Terre Haute, Ind., of his experience with "Blue-jay" while training for the army.

Callus or corn—whatever it was—"Blue-jay" removed it more than 7 years ago and Mr. Brentlinger hasn't been bothered since. The "Blue-jay" Plaster is a safe way to end a corn—no danger of infection as when you pare a corn. And "Blue-jay" is sure. The felt ring of each Plaster holds just the right amount of "Blue-jay" preparation to remove a corn gently, as prescribed by a skillful chemist. The preparation is centered in the ring. An adhesive strip holds it right on top of the corn—nowhere else! 48 hours later the corn lifts right out.

A stubborn corn sometimes—not often—requires a second plaster, but even the first plaster gives instant relief. Because the felt ring encircles the corn and removes all painful shoe pressure. A liquid cannot do that. Also, you might drop on too much liquid, or too little and not get the right results. Hence we recommend "Blue-jay" Plasters as better than any liquid, even than our own. Package of six "Blue-jay" Corn Plasters, 25c. So much in demand, all druggists carry them. Try them. Two days later, write us your experience. Ballots For Absent Voters

Vacationists, vote before you leave home!

This suggestion was made today by the Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of elections, when announcement was made that the polls for absent voters would open July 12.

The law permits an elector who expects to be absent from his home precinct on election day to apply for ballots not earlier than 30 days nor later than three days before the municipal primaries which are scheduled for Tuesday, August 11.

And if the elector so desires he may cast his ballot in the headquarters of the election board before he leaves on a vacation or business trip. If absent from his home city, he should mail his application, and ballots willl be forwarded to him.

Thus there is no excuse for failure of electors in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salineville, Lisbon, Leetonia, Columbiana, East Palestine and Salem to vote in the August primaries. A request delivered by Uncle Sam will bring the ballots.

Humility Day

July 1 is to be observed in Japan as "Humiliation Day," in memory of the United States Japanese exclusion act. China celebrated a special humiliation day not long ago, in memory of the 21 points insisted upon by Japan before her release of the Shantung peninsula.

Other nations have not yet established humiliation days, although one could easily figure out suitable events to be so commemorated all over Europe. Spain and Germany and France and even Italy and Belgium and all the rest have had troubles in recent years which might easily be considered humiliating.

But why have humiliation days? Why dwell on humiliating history? Plain humility days would be more to the point. The United States could then join in the celebration. There might even be a great international humility day, on which the nations could turn their attention to acts of humble courtesy, striving the while to achieve at least temporary freedom from pride and arrogance.

Debt Payments

European debtors are really paying their debts. On June 15, the same day that Americans had to pay their income taxes, the United States treasury received about $69,000,000 on foreign war loans. Most of it was from Great Britain, or largest debtor and readiest payer. But it should be observed that remittances came also from Finland, Hungary. Lithuania and Poland.

These little nations have done better than some of the big ones. France, whose debt ranks in size next to England's, though talking much about paying, has never yet made any concrete proposals to pay, and is not likely to do so as long as she has active wars to finance. Italy's attitude is still more distant and vague. It seems unlikely that refunding arrangements can be made with either of those powers on any basis acknowledging their indebtedness, principal and interest. There will probably have to be drastic concessions, if America is to collect anything at all from them.

Suppressing Indecency

The Methodist Episcopal board of temperance, prohibition and public morals is starting a national campaign to suppress indecent shows, magazines and pictures.

"Art," says a representative of the board, "covers a multitude of sins. Musical comedy producers, editors of magazines and even the photographers are using it as an excuse for improper business, in violation of American principles and in many cases in violation of law."

It is a good work, if wisely conducted. Reform is needed, if the country is to be kept free from the obscenity that is flaunted unchanllenged in many foreign countries. Much of the entertainment now provided on the stage and much of the matter in periodicals sent through the mails and exhibited on news stands is far below the standards of decency and taste maintained heretofore in America.

The essential thing is not to do the reforming with a club, in matters of such delicacy as art and literature. Such work calls for fine discrimination.

Indian Baseball

The Indians played ball in this country before the white man came. More than that, they played major league ball, if the autobiography of Black Hawk is to be credited. He tells how this was the great sport so far back that the memory of the red man runneth not to the contrary, and how big games used to be played in the Mississippi valley among friendly tribes, with 500 to 1,000 men playing on a side.

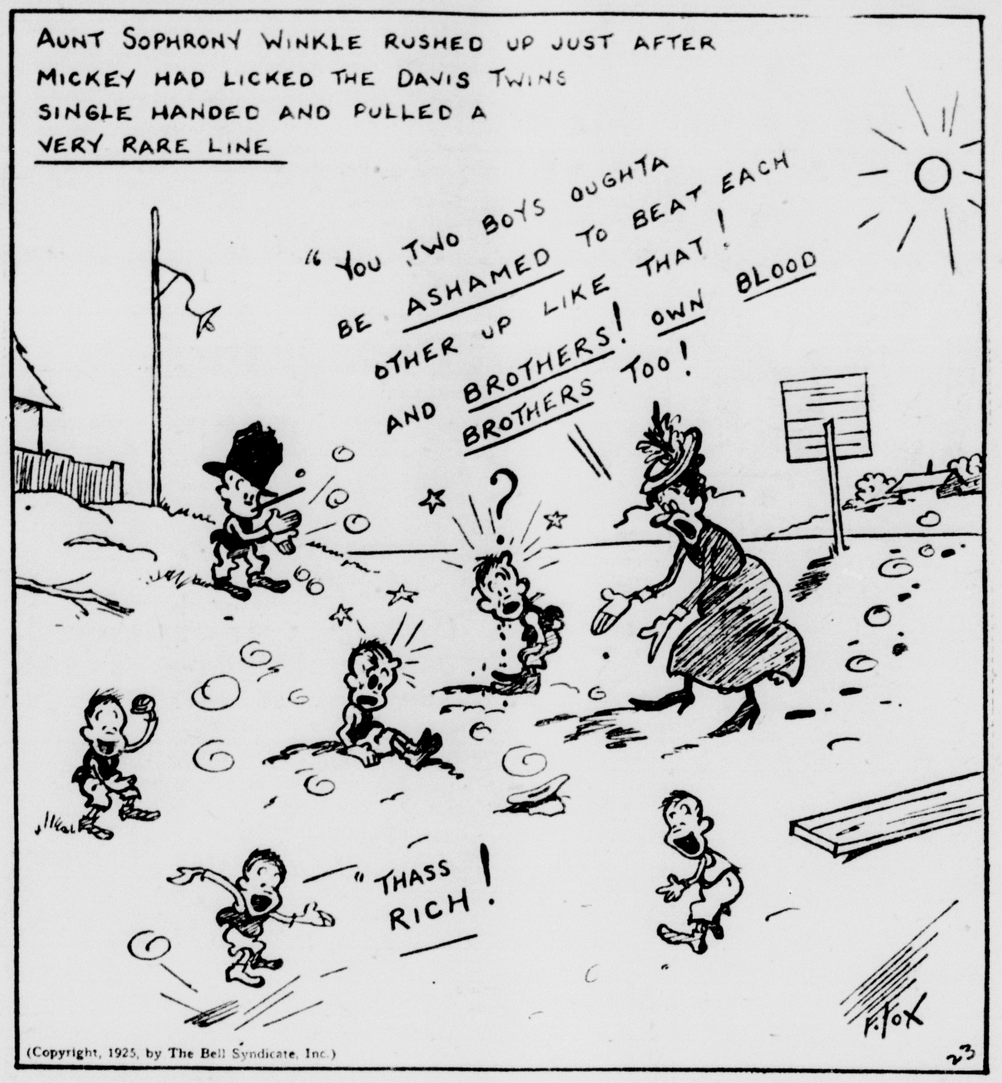

This, needless to say, was not exactly our modern baseball. According to one authority, it combined the chief elements of baseball, football, basketball, lacrosse and hockey.

Anyway, it is evident now why ball is our national game. It must be in the soil or the climate.

Victor Emmanuel of Italy has now reigned exactly 25 years. That is to say, he's been king that long.

Jazz may be "dead," as repeatedly announced by musical critics, but if so, it's certainly haunting the dance halls.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Old Berkeley Stirs Again.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23.—The name Berkeley Springs above a current news dispatch brings memories. It recalls the days of perwigs and powdered hair, minuets and gallantry, chivalry as it existed in romantic antebellum days. The item in the new states that a hotel and sanitarium company has been chartered with $1,000,000 capital stock to build a mammoth hotel.

Thus begins a new chapter in the interesting story of the village which owns a glorious past. Berkeley is situated in the northeastern tip of West Virginia. It was a watering place where the aristocracy of two centuries went to play and take the water cure. The nobility of merrie England and the gentility of colonial America went there to disport themselves in the fashion of the period. They journeyed in their coaches, drawn by the best blooded horses of the time, to put up at the Inn near the warm springs which were noted from Boston to Richmond.

The first word of Berkeley descends to us from the pen of George Washington himself. It was written when he was surveying what was then northern Virginia for its aristocratic and noble owner, Lord Fairfax. He declaims in his notes that on one occasion in 1748, he was delayed by a flood and took the opportunity to visit "ye famed warm springs,' and thereupon ends his discourse and whether he loved himself he does not say.

Lord Fairfax owned the springs and all their environs. Tradition has it that this altruistic nobleman contributed them to the state for the benefit of its good people, and folk about Berkeley believe it.

A Stingy Old Lord.

There are certain official records, however, which would contradict tradition, and would show that the lord was not the philanthropist that folk tell about. In one of these records is set forth a petition which states that four hundred people were gathered about the springs, taking the baths for their health, and that they had no adequate shelter. Thus writes H. Brentlinger, 1625 S. 11th St., Terre Haute, Ind., of his experience with "Blue-jay" while training for the army.

Callus or corn—whatever it was—"Blue-jay" removed it more than 7 years ago and Mr. Brentlinger hasn't been bothered since. The "Blue-jay" Plaster is a safe way to end a corn—no danger of infection as when you pare a corn. And "Blue-jay" is sure. The felt ring of each Plaster holds just the right amount of "Blue-jay" preparation to remove a corn gently, as prescribed by a skillful chemist. The preparation is centered in the ring. An adhesive strip holds it right on top of the corn—nowhere else! 48 hours later the corn lifts right out.

A stubborn corn sometimes—not often—requires a second plaster, but even the first plaster gives instant relief. Because the felt ring encircles the corn and removes all painful shoe pressure. A liquid cannot do that. Also, you might drop on too much liquid, or too little and not get the right results. Hence we recommend "Blue-jay" Plasters as better than any liquid, even than our own. Package of six "Blue-jay" Corn Plasters, 25c. So much in demand, all druggists carry them. Try them. Two days later, write us your experience. "Blue-jay" Laboratories, 25th and Dearborn Sts., Chicago, Ill.

TRAINING CAMPS PROVE POPULAR

Already 25 Per Cent of Quota for 1925 Is Filled.

New York.—With the 1925 citizens' military training camps still two months away, more than 25 per cent of the estimated quota attendance of 50,000 young men between the ages of 17 and 31 already has been enrolled, according to announcement by the War department. This is double the enrollment at this time last year, and this summer's quota will be 16,000 more than that of 1924.

Forty-two camps stretching across the continent from Fort McKinley, Maine, to the Presidio of San Francisco, will be opened this summer for the basic course, and the three advanced courses in which citizenship and physical training will be intermingled in the schedules with drill and instruction in the infantry, cavalry, field and coast artillery, engineers and signal corps branches of the military. Part of the camps run during the month of July and others during August, while Plattsburg, N. Y., will have two camps in succession.

The C. M. T. C. candidate is under no obligations except to spend thirty days of his time at one of the camps located near his home; the government meets the expense of carfare to and from the camp, clothing, equipment, meals, bedding, lodging and entertainment. The President's son or the millionaire's heir who sleeps by the side of the farmer's boy, marches beside him in the ranks and eats next him at the mess hall in this annual democratic leveler, pays the same amount for his thirty days' vacation and training, exactly nothing.

The Sixth army corps area so far leads among the nine areas in which the nation is divided by the war department for purposes of military administration. Fifty per cent of this section's quota of 5,600 already has been filled.

It includes the states of Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. Next is the Fifth corps area, including Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia, with 38.4 per cent of a quota of 6,000. Third is the Fourth corps area, including the southeastern states, with 36.6 per cent of a quota of 5,700.

NAMED FOR NEW JOB

Harris of Washington, field secretary of the International Association of Policewomen, has been appointed superintendent of the new Federal Industrial Institution for Women, which is to be established at Alderson, W. Va., the first of its kind in the country, for federal women prisoners.

Man a Colloid, Science Declares, Meaning Glue

Baltimore, Md.—Science today answered the question of the ages. For generation after generation has asked "What is man?" and the chemists today answered, "Man is a colloid."

Lest man should become unduly elated at his scientific distinction, the chemists went on to describe what a colloid is. Scientists have distinguished for a long time, they said, between crystalline substances, liquids and gases. About a quarter of a century ago they began to admit that in addition there existed a whole range of substances which were glues, or glue-like in nature. To these was applied the name "colloids," derived from "Kolle," the Greek work for "glue." Man, according to the chemists, therefore, is a glue—a fact which explains much of his perseverance.

Observe Health Week in Ancient Greek City

Athens, Greece.—The ancient city of Corinth, where St. Paul worked as a tentmaker, has just completed arrangements for observance of "Health week" in an effort to prevent the annual spring outbreak of malaria, which has heretofore claimed several thousand victims annually. The campaign is under command of a Near East Relief nurse, Alice G. Carr of McRoe, Ga. Miss Carr's studies into the history of malaria in Corinth show that in the wars of 2,000 years ago more soldiers were killed by mosquitoes than in battle.

Hire Mosquito Expert

Larchmont, N. Y.—The Larchmont Health association has determined to adopt novel methods of getting rid of mosquitos. A mosquito expert will be paid $2,000 to help exterminate the pests.

Betty Compson Star In Paramount Film, "Paths to Paradise"

"Paths to Paradise," a riotously funny crook comedy, was adapted for the screen by Keene Thompson from Paul Armstrong's play, "The Heart of a Thief." Clarence Badger, director of "New Lives for Old" and "Eve's Secret" and who was also associated over a period of years with Mack Sennett as a producer of laugh films, directed the production.

Betty is the fictitious queen of a band of counterfeiters in San Francisco's Chinatown. Griffith pays a visit to their underworld den one day, and, believing him to be a sap, they take his bankroll away from him. He flashes a badge, however, and threatens the pack of them with prison, suggesting that they might buy their way out of the situation, which they do—only to discover that he's a more clever crook than they. The "police badge" he purposely leaves on the table when he skips out reads "San Francisco Gas Meter Inspector."

Fred Kelsey is cast as one of Betty's confederates in the production, while Tom Santschi has the role of the detective whom Griffith impersonates in a successful attempt to get his hands on some valuable gems at a fashionable reception. Bert Woodruff is the owner of the jewels over which Betty and Ray wage a regular battle of wits.

If there ever was a picture with a hand-picked cast, this is it. Remember Ray Griffith in "Forty Winks" and "The Night Club"?—the fact that he's in the cast is an entertainment guarantee for any picture.

INDIAN'S INCOME IS $1,000 A DAY

Willie Alexander Is Close to "Richest Indian" Title.

Cromwell, Okla.—Willie Alexander, 210-pound Creek Indian of Bixby, will give some other redskins of the Five Civilized Tribes a close race before the end of the year in a contest for the title of "richest Indian." Willie's income from his 80-acre allotment in the Cromwell field is now $1,000 a day. The Mid-Continent Production corporation has completed four wells on the tract that are producing 4,000 barrels a day. Of this the Indian receives an eighth. Sixteen wells may be drilled before the oil is exhausted. Willie is classed as an incompetent, and has a guardian who attends to his business matters.

The Alexander family is one of the luckiest of all families of the Creek tribe. Four brothers are receiving oil royalties from their allotments. The allotments of Sealy, Alex and Roley are in Okmulgee county, and were leased to the Cosden Oil and Refining company, which the Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation succeeded. Willie's allotment was chosen in the Seminole Indian nation. The others are in the Creek nation.

It was Sealy Alexander who recently appeared in court and asked that his guardian be instructed to invest part of his income in farm land that he might go to work and become a useful citizen. It was said this is the first time an incompetent Indian in Oklahoma has made such a request.

The Cromwell pool is spreading over other allotments, and Creek Indian incomes are likely to run between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000 this year. The pool is in a formerly wild section of the Seminole nation that had little value for either agricultural or grazing purposes.

Foreign War Men's Sanatorium Site Gets Approval.

State and county health bodies have placed their stamp of approval on the proposed health camp, which the Columbiana County Veterans of Foreign Wars plan to establish along the Lincoln highway, west of Lisbon, it was announced today.

B. V. Bevier, assistant engineer for the state department of health, accompanied by Dr. T. T. Church, Salem, county health commissioner, and Gomer Lewis, county health officer, who recently made an inspection of the 160-acre tract taken over by the veterans, were unanimous in their approval of the site. The farm affords an ideal location for a sanatorium and hospital site, they declare. Samples of the water have been taken for examination.

The veterans are preparing to clear the lake site and also to open a roadway into the lowlands for tourists and picnickers. A drive has already been launched to raise $10,000 to purchase the farm outright and to meet the cost of the proposed improvements.

The Manufacturers' association of Salem is among the first contributors to the proposed camp. Other large contributions also have been received.

Good luck now—every time—with all your Jams and Jellies

EVEN the ripest fruits and those you never could be sure of now jell perfectly every time. Just add Certo. It supplies the natural substance fruit must have to make a jelly.

Some fruits never have this jellying property; in all fruits it varies and grows less as the fruit ripens. That is why you never could be sure of your jam and jelly before and you could not use the ripe fruit even though you knew it had the finest flavor and color.

But now-a-days use Certo—it jellies every time. And just boil hard for a good minute. The short boil keeps in your jams and jellies all the natural flavor and color and all the precious fruit juice you used to have to boil away.

Such delicious jams, jellies and marmalades—so tender, clear and sparkling, you'll say you never had before. And with Certo you have half again more glasses than you ever made with that much fruit.

Millions of women use Certo. Order your bottle today. Your grocer has it. Douglas-Pectin Corp., Granite Bldg., Rochester, N. Y.

Your Health

is affected by wrong hygienic habits

This NEW way in solving woman's oldest hygienic problem will mean much to you

SIXTY per cent of many women's disorders, doctors now point out, are often traceable to wrong hygienic methods.

Now there is a new way . . . a way that supplants the dangers and uncertainties of the old-time sanitary pad.

Physicians urge it. Women's doctors have adopted it. Hygienic authorities employ it. And your own peace of mind demands it. For it offers charm and immaculacy under any and all circumstances.

It absorbs 5 times the moisture of the ordinary cotton pad. And that means great protection.

It is as easily disposed of as a piece of tissue—that ends an old-time embarrassment.

It is deodorized. And that prevents danger of offense.

You can get it at any drug or department store, just by saying "Kotex." And that banishes the embarrassment of asking for a "sanitary pad."

Eight in every ten women in the better walks of life have adopted it. Which proves its benefits.

It will mean much to you in health, in daintiness and protection. It proves old ways a needless folly.

KOTEX

DEODORIZED

1 Protection: 5 times as absorbent as cotton pads. Absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture—and scientifically deodorized.

2 No laundry. Discard as easily as a piece of tissue.

3 Easy to buy, anywhere. You ask for them by name. Many stores keep them ready-wrapped — help yourself, pay the clerk, that is all.

No laundry—discard as easily as a piece of tissue.

Good luck now—every time—with all your Jams and Jellies

EVEN the ripest fruits and those you never could be sure of now jell perfectly every time. Just add Certo. It supplies the natural substance fruit must have to make a jelly.

Some fruits never have this jellying property; in all fruits it varies and grows less as the fruit ripens. That is why you never could be sure of your jam and jelly before and you could not use the ripe fruit even though you knew it had the finest flavor and color.

But now-a-days use Certo—it jellies every time. And just boil hard for a good minute. The short boil keeps in your jams and jellies all the natural flavor and color and all the precious fruit juice you used to have to boil away.

Such delicious jams, jellies and marmalades—so tender, clear and sparkling, you'll say you never had before. And with Certo you have half again more glasses than you ever made with that much fruit.

Millions of women use Certo. Order your bottle today. Your grocer has it. Douglas-Pectin Corp., Granite Bldg., Rochester, N. Y.

CERTO (Surejell)

Women Make Strong Objections to Probe Ordered by Soviet

MOSCOW, June.—Ordered by the chief of the Volost Militia to determine the number of prospective mothers among the unmarried girls of his precinct, Dr. Rusakoff, head of the Odynzoff hospital, has reported purely negative results. Dr. Russakoff called the attention of his superior to the fact that "the population exidenced hostility to the investigation."

The Volost Militia chief acted in behalf of the women's section of the local communist organization.

Your Health

is affected by wrong hygienic habits

* * *

This NEW way in solving woman's oldest hygienic problem will mean much to you

SIXTY per cent of many women's disorders, doctors now point out, are often traceable to wrong hygienic methods.

Now there is a new way . . . a way that supplants the dangers and uncertainties of the old-time sanitary pad.

Physicians urge it. Women's doctors have adopted it. Hygienic authorities employ it. And your own peace of mind demands it. For it offers charm and immaculacy under any and all circumstances.

It absorbs 5 times the moisture of the ordinary cotton pad. And that means great protection.

It is as easily disposed of as a piece of tissue—that ends an old-time embarrassment.

It is deodorized. And that prevents danger of offense.

You can get it at any drug or department store, just by saying "Kotex." And that banishes the embarrassment of asking for a "sanitary pad."

Eight in every ten women in the better walks of life have adopted it. Which proves its benefits.

It will mean much to you in health, in daintiness and protection. It proves old ways a needless folly.

KOTEX

DEODORIZED

1 Protection: 5 times as absorbent as cotton pads. Absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture — and scientifically deodorized.

2 No laundry. Discard as easily as a piece of tissue.

3 Easy to buy, anywhere. You ask for them by name. Many stores keep them ready-wrapped — help yourself, pay the clerk, that is all.

No laundry—discard as easily as a piece of tissue.

ROAD GRADING JOB AWARDED

Franklin Township Work Will be Done by Kensington Firm.

Although 12 bids were submitted to the county commissioners Monday for grading the Summitville road in Franklin township, the job was awarded to Gibson and Bixby, of Kensington, on their bid of $23,696.89. This firm bid 48 cents per cubic yard for grading.

The second low bid submitted was that of Herman C. Armstrong, of Lisben, of $23,850.85, the difference between the first and second bid being $153.96.

The bid of Tatgenhorst & McLaughlin, of East Liverpool, and that of Bell & Son, of Flushing, O., were identical, being $23,844.56 each.

Other bids submitted were J. D. Paxson, Salem, $27,402.10; Youngstown Construction company, $29,266.57; E. E. McCartney, Youngstown, $25,980.25; H. R. Brown, Wellsville, $27,437.67; Riley & Riley, Youngstown, $26,841.86; Gray Brothers company, Youngstown, $28,918.13; J. P. Mumaw, Cambridge, $29,805.89; M. J. Angelo, Youngstown, $25,463.72.

The estimate on this job prepared by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk was $32,175.15 and the successful bidder was $8,478.26 under the estimate.

As soon as Gibson & Bixby file their bond with the county commissioners and it is approved by Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes, the firm will begin work.

This will be the first connecting link to be graded on the Salineville-Summitville-Lincoln highway road. When the Summitville road will be surfaced cannot be predicted, because the county commissioners at this time are "up against it" for road money.

The council of Salineville and the trustees of Washington township are in accord with the improvement of the Salineville-Summitville link in this road, but it is not likely any work will be done on that part of the road until next year. A part of this road from Salineville to Summitville lies within Fox township, Carroll county, and while the trustees of that township, also the county commissioners of Carroll look with favor upon the project, those officials have done nothing so far looking forward to the grading of the road.

RESURFACING OF ROAD IS PLANNED

Plans and specifications for the resurfacing of Lincoln way, Lisbon, from the Canton bridge east to Jackson street, a distance of slightly more than one mile, are being worked out by Village Engineer Herman C. Armstrong to be filed with council at its meeting in July.

Whether Willite or some similar surface treatment will be used has not been determined by council. However, the council is a unit in the need of the surface treatment, and the village now has more than $10,000 in its street fund to be used in this work.

The county has agreed to pay its proportionate share of the cost so far as county property is concerned, which is the street between North and South parks and the court house.

Widening Road.

Widening of the Salem-Lisbon road in Centre township is expected to be finished within two weeks, according to State Highway District Superintendent Kiltner. Slag has been dumped along the east side of the highway from the northern Lisbon corporate limits to the township line, and similar work is now being done on the west side of the road, the widening being done from north to south.

Replevin Action.

An action in replevin has been filed in common pleas court by Mrs. Michalina Schilling, of Salem, against Sheriff George Wright and the Dollar Savings and Trust company, of Youngstown.

The petitioner relates that furniture of the plaintiff is wrongfully detained and also her personal clothing, which was taken by the sheriff upon a court order. The petition also asks $100 damages.

Sebring Man Fined.

A fine of $50 and costs, six months in the Canton workhouse and forbidden to attend any dances in Columbiana county for six months was the setence handed down by Judge Lodge Riddle in Juvenile court when James Fall of Sebring was convicted of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The only part of the sentence to be suspended was that to the Canton workhouse.

Appropriation Will Be Asked to Meet Cattle Testing Needs

A general meeting of representatives of all commercial and civic organizations in this county has been called to meet in the Lisbon city building next Thursday evening for the purpose of preparing a petition to the county commissioners and others in authority to levy an appropriation to meet that state and federal aid being offered the county for the eradication of tuberculosis among cattle.

Representatives of Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, Granges and Farm Bureau members will be at this meeting, which is to be addressed by A. J. DeFossett, Federal Inspector in charge of Ohio State work; Dr. F. A. Zimmer, State Veterinarian and County Agent Floyd Lowers.

It will be pointed out at this meeting that the county is in need of additional funds to continue the eradication of tuberculosis among cattle and that more money would be available for use in this county for this work, should the county be in a position to match the state and federal aid that is available.

Dr. E. E. Stoner of Salem, who has returned from Belmont county, where the first area test has been finished, has resumed retest work in Franklin township. Before he left for Belmont, he had tested six herds in Franklin, and five reactors were located among 50 head of cattle.

McCrea Posts Bond.

Harold McCrea following his conviction in Probate court on a charge of non-support, has posted $300 bond that he would pay his wife $25 per month for the support of their child, and as a result a six months sentence to the Canton workhouse has been suspended by Judge Lodge Riddle. McCrea is to pay his wife $12.50 on the 1st and 15th of each month.

Land Leased.

Edwin R. Louden of Canton has taken a lease on 837 acres farm land in Hanover township for oil and gas drilling purposes. The farm owners are to receive $200 for each gas well, and $50 when a well produces gas, together with the one-eighth royalty on all oil produced.

FARM POULTRY

CONTROL OF ROUP BY SANITARY RULES

Contagious roup is probably caused by unsanitary conditions of the henhouse and yards. It is aggravated by cold, damp weather. Correction of the causes, so far as possible, is most advisable, as remedies are slow working and not sure in effect.

It causes a loss, not only from a heavy death rate, but also from the interference with egg production and weakened vitality in breeding. It is very contagious, especially in damp, cold weather, and attacks both young and old stock.

Contagious roup is probably easier to identify than any other poultry disease. It usually starts like a simple cold, with a thin, watery discharge from the nose and eyes. This secretion has a peculiar, offensive odor. Inflammation sets into the nasal passages, eyes and spaces just below the eyeballs. The birds then often cough and sneeze, breathing becomes noisy, and if the air passages of the nose become entirely blocked, they breathe through their mouths. The birds soon lose their appetite and become depressed, their wings drooping and their feathers ruffled. The secretions from the nose and eye change from fluid to a yellowish, cheese-like mass. This grows rapidly about the eyelids and the nostrils. One or both eyes become enlarged and swelling may appear on the head.

The exact cause is not known. Whatever it is, the organism is hard to kill, because it penetrates into the tissues. If the formations about the head are removed, the uneven bleeding surface which is left forms a new mass in 24 to 48 hours.

Infected birds carry the disease from place to place and infect others by contact. Food and water may become contaminated by the secretions from sick birds and healthy birds become infected in this way.

Roup is easily controlled by proper management and housing. Damp, unsanitary, poorly ventilated, overcrowded, drafty quarters are conducive to its spread. The first treatment is to remove the cause at once. Only valuable birds should have individual treatment. A simple cure for the sick bird is as follows: Place it in a dry, well-ventilated place away from the other birds, and give it plenty of fresh water and feed. Every morning and evening remove all the matter from the eyes and nostrils of the bird and dip its head into a solution of bichloride of mercury (1-1000). This is made by placing one 7.3 mercury bichloride tablet in a pint of water. Hold the bird firmly and immerse the head until the eyes are covered, keeping it there a few seconds or until it struggles. In most cases, the following procedure is advisable:

Dispose of bad cases by killing and burning them.

Isolate birds having colds.

Be sure quarters are dry and tight on all sides, with adequate opening in the front for ventilation and light to reach every part of the house.

Allow at least three square feet floor space per bird.

Place a little kerosene on the top of the drinking water or one 7.3-grain mercury bichloride tablet in a gallon of water in a nonmetal container. These should never be used more than ten days in succession.

Place one pound epsom salts per 100 birds in the drinking water or a wet mash.

Judgment in Feeding

Good judgment must be exercised in feeding the pullets after they are mature and are in their winter houses. Usually eight quarts of hard grain is fed to one hundred birds a day. One-third or one-fourth of this amount should be fed in the morning and the balance at night. When about half the birds are laying well they may require as much as ten or twelve quarts per day. Sometimes, however, eight quarts is too much and it is necessary to cut down on this amount. Mash should always be kept before them in hoppers or feeders.

Poultry Notes

Cull nonproducing hens.

Chickens need sunlight to prevent rickets.

• • •

It is a good plan during warm weather to keep a little earth spaded up in the shade of a tree for the fowls' dust bath.

• • •

Broilers and frys are most profitable when they reach the market before the slower-grown chicks are ready.

• • •

There are a good many different systems of feeding the young chicks and a good many feeds which are used for this purpose.

Commercial baby chicks scratch and chick mash may be fed to advantage in place of the home-mixed feeds and can be bought from almost any feed dealer.

• • •

The use of the large colony brooder stoves makes it possible to raise chicks in larger numbers and with less labor than can be done when the chicks are brooded with hens.

Racing Pigeon Returns.

POULTRY

GETTING START IN POULTRY RAISING

The beginner in poultry raising should start in a small way. Mistakes are bound to be made by the beginner and difficult problems will be presented which must be solved before one can expect to make a success in the poultry business. There are two ways of starting in the business. One is to buy fowls in the fall of the year and the other is to buy eggs for hatching or baby chicks in the spring. Perhaps the buying of fowls in the fall is the safer method, but for the money invested the starting with eggs or baby chicks in the spring offers a larger opportunity.

In starting with poultry the beginner should first of all consider the purpose for which he wants to use the fowls. There are four general classes of fowls, the egg breeds, the meat breeds, general-purpose breeds and fancy or ornamental breeds.

The egg breeds include the smaller or medium-sized fowls, which are very active, quick to mature and which produce white-shelled eggs. They are mostly nonsitters or poor sitters and other fowls are usually kept if natural methods of incubation are used. The Leghorns, Anconas and Minorcas are typical breeds of this class.

The meat breeds represent the other extreme and are especially suitable for the production of roasters. Fowls of this class are slow and somewhat sluggish. They are easily confined with low fences, slow maturing, persistent sitters and rather indifferent layers. The Brahmas, Cochins and Langshans belong to this class.

The general-purpose breeds are medium in size and produce a good quantity of eggs, thereby making them appeal to those who want a bird which will supply both eggs and meat. The general-purpose fowls are usually good sitters and good mothers. They occupy a medium position between the egg and meat breeds in size, egg production and docility. However, it should be noted that in the recent work in breeding for high egg production some of the general-purpose fowls have made very creditable egg records. Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds and Orpingtons are typical representatives of the general-purpose fowls.

Ornamental breeds are not generally adapted to farm flocks unless some one has time to develop some special type. The Polish, Silkies, Sultans and Bantams are representative of these breeds.

Treatment Outlined to Cure Egg-Eating Habit

Hens sometimes acquire a vice of eating their eggs, learning to do this from eating an accidentally broken egg. If one hen learns how to eat eggs the whole flock soon learns from her. Egg shells should never be fed to hens unless they are very finely broken or are mixed with soft food of some kind.

To cure this costly habit cut off the points of the mandibles of the beak, using a very sharp knife. Cut back a little at a time until enough is cut off to leave the tender flesh slightly exposed. As soon as a tiny drop of blood exudes from the cut enough has been removed. Then boil some eggs very hard, selecting those with the thickest shells, and put them on the floor of the poultry house, where the hens can easily get them. They try to break the shells by pecking at them and this hurts the nerves in the shortened beak so they will give it up after a few trials, and thereafter not try to break an egg. In a short time the beak will grow into its normal shape and the hens will have forgotten the vice.

Supplying First Feeds to the Young Goslings

Goslings should not be fed until they are more than 36 hours old when they should be given stale bread soaked in milk or water, to which finely chopped boiled eggs may be added. This should be fed three or four times daily for the first two or three weeks, with chopped grass or some other green feed added. Plenty of fresh, clean water should be supplied, and 5 per cent fine grit or sharp sand may be added to the feed or kept in a hopper before the goslings. After two or three weeks they will need a light feed daily of a mash made up of two parts shorts and one part of cornmeal. When the grass range is good other feed need not be given until fattening time. While the goslings are young great care should be practiced to prevent them from getting wet. They should be left in the coop until after the dew dries in the morning and should not be allowed to get caught in a rain. It is better to keep them separated from the old stock after they are about two weeks old.

Hen Lots Adjoining

Where it is necessary to have lots adjacent to one another it is advisable to use fine-meshed wire for the bottom two feet in order to keep the roosters from fighting. For the remainder of the fence the regular two-inch mesh is satisfactory. The heavy breeds may be kept in a lot with a four-foot fence, but the light breeds often require a fence seven feet high. One wing of the birds can be clipped to keep the birds from flying over the fence.

ROAD GRADING JOB AWARDED

Franklin Township Work Will be Done by Kensington Firm.

Although 12 bids were submitted to the county commissioners Monday for grading the Summitville road in Franklin township, the job was awarded to Gibson and Bixby, of Kensington, on their bid of $23,696.89. This firm bid 48 cents per cubic yard for grading.

The second low bid submitted was that of Herman C. Armstrong, of Lisbon, of $23,850.85, the difference between the first and second bid being $153.96.

The bid of Tatgenhorst & McLaughlin, of East Liverpool, and that of Bell & Son, of Flushing, O., were identical, being $23,844.56 each.

Other bids submitted were J. D. Paxson, Salem, $27,402.10; Youngstown Construction company, $29,266.57; E. E. McCartney, Youngstown, $25,980.25; H. R. Brown, Wellsville, $27,437.67; Riley & Riley, Youngstown, $26,841.86; Gray Brothers company, Youngstown, $28,918.13; J. P. Mumaw, Cambridge, $29,805.89; M. J. Angelo, Youngstown, $25,463.72.

The estimate on this job prepared by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk was $32,175.15 and the successful bidder was $8,478.26 under the estimate.

As soon as Gibson & Bixby file their bond with the county commissioners and it is approved by Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes, the firm will begin work.

This will be the first connecting link to be graded on the Salineville-Summitville-Lincoln highway road. When the Summitville road will be surfaced cannot be predicted, because the county commissioners at this time are "up against it" for road money.

The council of Salineville and the trustees of Washington township are in accord with the improvement of the Salineville-Summitville link in this road, but it is not likely any work will be done on that part of the road until next year. A part of this road from Salineville to Summitville lies within Fox township, Carroll county, and while the trustees of that township, also the county commissioners of Carroll look with favor upon the project, those officials have done nothing so far looking forward to the grading of the road.

RESURFACING OF ROAD IS PLANNED

Plans and specifications for the resurfacing of Lincoln way, Lisbon, from the Canton bridge east to Jackson street, a distance of slightly more than one mile, are being worked out by Village Engineer Herman C. Armstrong to be filed with council at its meeting in July.

Whether Willite or some similar surface treatment will be used has not been determined by council. However, the council is a unit in the need of the surface treatment, and the village now has more than $10,000 in its street fund to be used in this work.

The county has agreed to pay its proportionate share of the cost so far as county property is concerned, which is the street between North and South parks and the court house.

Widening Road.

Widening of the Salem-Lisbon road in Centre township is expected to be finished within two weeks, according to State Highway District Superintendent Kiltner. Slag has been dumped along the east side of the highway from the northern Lisbon corporate limits to the township line, and similar work is now being done on the west side of the road, the widening being done from north to south.

Replevin Action.

An action in replevin has been filed in common pleas court by Mrs. Michalina Schilling, of Salem, against Sheriff George Wright and the Dollar Savings and Trust company, of Youngstown.

The petitioner relates that furniture of the plaintiff is wrongfully detained and also her personal clothing, which was taken by the sheriff upon a court order. The petition also asks $100 damages.

Sebring Man Fined.

A fine of $50 and costs, six months in the Canton workhouse and forbidden to attend any dances in Columbiana county for six months was the setence handed down by Judge Lodge Riddle in Juvenile court when James Fall of Sebring was convicted of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The only part of the sentence to be suspended was that to the Canton workhouse.

Appropriation Will Be Asked to Meet Cattle Testing Needs

A general meeting of representatives of all commercial and civic organizations in this county has been called to meet in the Lisbon city building next Thursday evening for the purpose of preparing a petition to the county commissioners and others in authority to levy an appropriation to meet that state and federal aid being offered the county for the eradication of tuberculosis among cattle.

Representatives of Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, Granges and Farm Bureau members will be at this meeting, which is to be addressed by A. J. DeFossett, Federal Inspector in charge of Ohio State work; Dr. F. A. Zimmer, State Veterinarian and County Agent Floyd Lowers.

It will be pointed out at this meeting that the county is in need of additional funds to continue the eradication of tuberculosis among cattle and that more money would be available for use in this county for this work, should the county be in a position to match the state and federal aid that is available.

Dr. E. E. Stoner of Salem, who has returned from Belmont county, where the first area test has been finished, has resumed retest work in Franklin township. Before he left for Belmont, he had tested six herds in Franklin, and five reactors were located among 50 head of cattle.

McCrea Posts Bond.

Harold McCrea following his conviction in Probate court on a charge of non-support, has posted $300 bond that he would pay his wife $25 per month for the support of their child, and as a result a six months sentence to the Canton workhouse has been suspended by Judge Lodge Riddle. McCrea is to pay his wife $12.50 on the 1st and 15th of each month.

Land Leased.

Edwin R. Louden of Canton has taken a lease on 837 acres farm land in Hanover township for oil and gas drilling purposes. The farm owners are to receive $200 for each gas well, and $50 when a well produces gas, together with the one-eighth royalty on all oil produced.

FARM POULTRY

CONTROL OF ROUP BY SANITARY RULES

Contagious roup is probably caused by unsanitary conditions of the henhouse and yards. It is aggravated by cold, damp weather. Correction of the causes, so far as possible, is most advisable, as remedies are slow working and not sure in effect.

It causes a loss, not only from a heavy death rate, but also from the interference with egg production and weakened vitality in breeding. It is very contagious, especially in damp, cold weather, and attacks both young and old stock.

Contagious roup is probably easier to identify than any other poultry disease. It usually starts like a simple cold, with a thin, watery discharge from the nose and eyes. This secretion has a peculiar, offensive odor. Inflammation sets into the nasal passages, eyes and spaces just below the eyeballs. The birds then often cough and sneeze, breathing becomes noisy, and if the air passages of the nose become entirely blocked, they breathe through their mouths. The birds soon lose their appetite and become depressed, their wings drooping and their feathers ruffled. The secretions from the nose and eye change from fluid to a yellowish, cheese-like mass. This grows rapidly about the eyelids and the nostrils. One or both eyes become enlarged and swelling may appear on the head.

The exact cause is not known. Whatever it is, the organism is hard to kill, because it penetrates into the tissues. If the formations about the head are removed, the uneven bleeding surface which is left forms a new mass in 24 to 48 hours.

Infected birds carry the disease from place to place and infect others by contact. Food and water may become contaminated by the secretions from sick birds and healthy birds become infected in this way.

Roup is easily controlled by proper management and housing. Damp, unsanitary, poorly ventilated, overcrowded, drafty quarters are conducive to its spread. The first treatment is to remove the cause at once. Only valuable birds should have individual treatment. A simple cure for the sick bird is as follows: Place it in a dry, well-ventilated place away from the other birds, and give it plenty of fresh water and feed. Every morning and evening remove all the matter from the eyes and nostrils of the bird and dip its head into a solution of bichloride of mercury (1-1000). This is made by placing one 7.3 mercury bichloride tablet in a pint of water. Hold the bird firmly and immerse the head until the eyes are covered, keeping it there a few seconds or until it struggles. In most cases, the following procedure is advisable:

Dispose of bad cases by killing and burning them.

Isolate birds having colds.

Be sure quarters are dry and tight on all sides, with adequate opening in the front for ventilation and light to reach every part of the house.

Allow at least three square feet floor space per bird.

Place a little kerosene on the top of the drinking water or one 7.3-grain mercury bichloride tablet in a gallon of water in a nonmetal container. These should never be used more than ten days in succession.

Place one pound epsom salts per 100 birds in the drinking water or a wet mash.

Judgment in Feeding

Good judgment must be exercised in feeding the pullets after they are mature and are in their winter houses. Usually eight quarts of hard grain is fed to one hundred birds a day. One-third or one-fourth of this amount should be fed in the morning and the balance at night. When about half the birds are laying well they may require as much as ten or twelve quarts per day. Sometimes, however, eight quarts is too much and it is necessary to cut down on this amount. Mash should always be kept before them in hoppers or feeders.

Poultry Notes

Cull nonproducing hens.

Chickens need sunlight to prevent rickets.

• • •

It is a good plan during warm weather to keep a little earth spaded up in the shade of a tree for the fowls' dust bath.

• • •

Broilers and frys are most profitable when they reach the market before the slower-grown chicks are ready.

• • •

There are a good many different systems of feeding the young chicks and a good many feeds which are used for this purpose.

Commercial baby chicks scratch and chick mash may be fed to advantage in place of the home-mixed feeds and can be bought from almost any feed dealer.

• • •

The use of the large colony brooder stoves makes it possible to raise chicks in larger numbers and with less labor than can be done when the chicks are brooded with hens.

Racing Pigeon Returns.

POULTRY

GETTING START IN POULTRY RAISING

The beginner in poultry raising should start in a small way. Mistakes are bound to be made by the beginner and difficult problems will be presented which must be solved before one can expect to make a success in the poultry business. There are two ways of starting in the business. One is to buy fowls in the fall of the year and the other is to buy eggs for hatching or baby chicks in the spring. Perhaps the buying of fowls in the fall is the safer method, but for the money invested the starting with eggs or baby chicks in the spring offers a larger opportunity.

In starting with poultry the beginner should first of all consider the purpose for which he wants to use the fowls. There are four general classes of fowls, the egg breeds, the meat breeds, general-purpose breeds and fancy or ornamental breeds.

The egg breeds include the smaller or medium-sized fowls, which are very active, quick to mature and which produce white-shelled eggs. They are mostly nonsitters or poor sitters and other fowls are usually kept if natural methods of incubation are used. The Leghorns, Anconas and Minorcas are typical breeds of this class.

The meat breeds represent the other extreme and are especially suitable for the production of roasters. Fowls of this class are slow and somewhat sluggish. They are easily confined with low fences, slow maturing, persistent sitters and rather indifferent layers. The Brahmas, Cochins and Langshans belong to this class.

The general-purpose breeds are medium in size and produce a good quantity of eggs, thereby making them appeal to those who want a bird which will supply both eggs and meat. The general-purpose fowls are usually good sitters and good mothers. They occupy a medium position between the egg and meat breeds in size, egg production and docility. However, it should be noted that in the recent work in breeding for high egg production some of the general-purpose fowls have made very creditable egg records. Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds and Orpingtons are typical representatives of the general-purpose fowls.

Ornamental breeds are not generally adapted to farm flocks unless some one has time to develop some special type. The Polish, Silkies, Sultans and Bantams are representative of these breeds.

Treatment Outlined to Cure Egg-Eating Habit

Hens sometimes acquire a vice of eating their eggs, learning to do this from eating an accidentally broken egg. If one hen learns how to eat eggs the whole flock soon learns from her. Egg shells should never be fed to hens unless they are very finely broken or are mixed with soft food of some kind.

To cure this costly habit cut off the points of the mandibles of the beak, using a very sharp knife. Cut back a little at a time until enough is cut off to leave the tender flesh slightly exposed. As soon as a tiny drop of blood exudes from the cut enough has been removed. Then boil some eggs very hard, selecting those with the thickest shells, and put them on the floor of the poultry house, where the hens can easily get them. They try to break the shells by pecking at them and this hurts the nerves in the shortened beak so they will give it up after a few trials, and thereafter not try to break an egg. In a short time the beak will grow into its normal shape and the hens will have forgotten the vice.

Supplying First Feeds to the Young Goslings

Goslings should not be fed until they are more than 36 hours old when they should be given stale bread soaked in milk or water, to which finely chopped boiled eggs may be added. This should be fed three or four times daily for the first two or three weeks, with chopped grass or some other green feed added. Plenty of fresh, clean water should be supplied, and 5 per cent fine grit or sharp sand may be added to the feed or kept in a hopper before the goslings. After two or three weeks they will need a light feed daily of a mash made up of two parts shorts and one part of cornmeal. When the grass range is good other feed need not be given until fattening time. While the goslings are young great care should be practiced to prevent them from getting wet. They should be left in the coop until after the dew dries in the morning and should not be allowed to get caught in a rain. It is better to keep them separated from the old stock after they are about two weeks old.

Hen Lots Adjoining

Where it is necessary to have lots adjacent to one another it is advisable to use fine-meshed wire for the bottom two feet in order to keep the roosters from fighting. For the remainder of the fence the regular two-inch mesh is satisfactory. The heavy breeds may be kept in a lot with a four-foot fence, but the light breeds often require a fence seven feet high. One wing of the birds can be clipped to keep the birds from flying over the fence.

To Entertain Vets.

Hawaii Sugar Crop At Record Figure; Estimates Cited

HONOLULU, Hawaii, June — A new record for sugar output will be set by Hawaiian plantations this year, according to estimates made by the Sugar Factors Company, which firm has charge of the greater part of shipments from Hawaii to refineries. The combined estimate for 1925 is 696,000 tons of raw sugar actually to be shipped, 19,000 tons of refined sugar manufactured locally and an indeterminate amount of brown sugar consumed locally, all of which bring the total crop to 725,000 tons. This will be the first year that the crop has exceeded the 700,000-ton mark.

Good Cattle Herds.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, June — Less than one-half of one per cent of the 25,000 dairy cattle in Belmont county disclosed tuberculosis infection during a federal-state-county tuberculin test just made by 10 veterinarians. It is expected that this county, with Erie and Huron counties, will be placed on the federal government's accredited list on July 1, next.

Extra Motor Power with General Cords Explained

Coasting and Running Tests Show Amazing Difference Between Tires

The marked effect different makes of tires have on motor power was shown in General's recent announcements of coasting and running tests.

To understand the reason for the extra motor power demonstrated with the General Cord it must first be understood that all makes of tires absorb a certain amount of motor power. It is internal friction in tires that causes power loss. This varies tremendously according to the amount of internal friction in each.

This internal friction in tires uses up motor power in the same way that friction in the working parts of machinery acts as a drag against power.

Friction is overcome by lubrication. To prevent friction between metal parts a film of oil is used. In the same manner, rubber of the finest grade and in generous quantity is used in the General Cord to keep the cotton plies separated and each cord insulated.

Thus, by a process equivalent to lubrication, General has obtained greater freedom from internal friction, and this is the reason for the extra motor power with the General Cord in comparison with other makes of tires.

Longer Mileage and Low Pressure Due to Less Internal Friction

The extra motor power with the General Cord has an even bigger meaning than the gasoline saving and the longer life of your motor, for that same special feature of construction that accounts for the extra motor power also explains the longer tire mileage—General's greater freedom from internal friction.

Internal friction is the greatest known destroyer of tires. Friction always means wear. And the tire with the least internal friction is naturally the tire that shows the slowest wear, provided this advantage is gained, as it is in the General Cord, without reduction in the number and weight of plies essential to proper construction.

It was General's mastery of internal friction that enabled it to produce, five years ago, the first low-pressure tire ever placed on the market.

Just as today it has enabled General to produce the successful 6-ply balloon cord, to replace 4-ply balloons on all except the smaller cars—combining all balloon advantages with the right strength for the load, as well as reducing balloon puncture risk to a minimum.

The successful use of low pressure depends upon a construction that is able to withstand the heating up and wearing effect of the increased bending and straining under low pressure.

This shows why General's leadership in low-pressure tires, not only in balloon sizes, but in all Regular sizes, goes hand-in-hand with General's greater freedom from internal friction. It shows also why General has never classified its Regular size cords as "high-pressure" tires.

General Shows How Internal Friction Is Overcome

The process of complete insulation in the General Cord goes beyond the commonly used method of passing cord fabric through a thin solution of gum dissolved in benzol. General's special process, which can only be accomplished by putting the cord plies through large steel calender rollers, gives every ply a heavy coating of finest rubber, uniformly thick, forced between the cords so that each cord is completely surrounded and no two cords can touch. Other important factors in General's friction-eliminating process are the special weave and highest quality of combed cotton, as well as the development of new principles of tire construction throughout.

General Cord Users Enjoyed Low Pressure Before Balloons

General Cord users did not have to wait for balloons in order to enjoy low air pressure.

With experience in low-pressure construction dating back beyond that of any other manufacturer, low pressure in Regular size General Cords had become a well-known feature long before the advent of balloon tires.

In fact, the history of General's development of low pressure is the story of the evolution of the balloon tire.

This is the background that explains General's singular success with low pressure, first with Regular size cords and then with 4-ply and 6-ply balloons.

6-Ply Balloon

General's 4-ply Balloon is the practical equipment for the smaller cars. For the heavier cars the 6-ply has greater thickness to carry the load and still it allows the full flexing action over obstructions. At the same time, it reduces Balloon puncture risk to a minimum. And General's 6-ply Balloon consumes no more power than the average 4-ply balloon because General's greater freedom from internal friction always means power and gasoline saving.

Extra Motor Power with General Cords Explained

Coasting and Running Tests Show Amazing Difference Between Tires

The marked effect different makes of tires have on motor power was shown in General's recent announcements of coasting and running tests.

To understand the reason for the extra motor power demonstrated with the General Cord it must first be understood that all makes of tires absorb a certain amount of motor power. It is internal friction in tires that causes power loss. This varies tremendously according to the amount of internal friction in each.

This internal friction in tires uses up motor power in the same way that friction in the working parts of machinery acts as a drag against power.

Friction is overcome by lubrication. To prevent friction between metal parts a film of oil is used. In the same manner, rubber of the finest grade and in generous quantity is used in the General Cord to keep the cotton plies separated and each cord insulated.

Thus, by a process equivalent to lubrication, General has obtained greater freedom from internal friction, and this is the reason for the extra motor power with the General Cord in comparison with other makes of tires.

Judge Baker however, wished to study further into the legal questions involved than was possible while engaged with the trial of jury cases in the present court term, and took time to consider the case before acting on the plaintiffs' motion. Under the law a temporary restraining order will be issued for but ten days, this necessitating the extension of such an order at the end of each ten days period if it is to remain in force.

The hearing of the eviction suits alone will require that 3,000 jurors be summoned in panels of 40. Having once served on a case in this particular series, no juror will be eligible until two years hence.

That the defense will contest the cases with much vigor is indicated by an imposing array of counsel.

PESKY BED BUGS

Doctors declare that bedbugs and other vermin are the most to be feared means of spreading such diseases as consumption, spinal meningitis and other infectious troubles. There is no disgrace in getting bedbugs in your home, because that can't be avoided, but it is a disgrace to permit them to remain and thrive when it is so easy to get rid of them with the new chemical compound, P. D. Q., which actually puts an end to these pesky devils.

A MILLION BEDBUGS

A 35-cent package of this golden chemical will make a quart of a mixture that is so deadly to bedbugs that it would kill a million of them if you could get that many together. If they were as big as your hand it would swat them just as well. And not only the live ones, but the future generation as well, because once it hits the eggs they are gone.

CUT THIS OUT

Your druggist has P. D. Q. (Pesky Devils Quietus) and will be glad to furnish it for 35-cents. One 35-cent package makes a quart of the mixture and is equal to a barrel of old-fashioned bug-killer. Some druggists may try to sell you something else. Don't accept a substitute. If your druggist hasn't P. D. Q., send us your name and 35-cents and we will send you a package postpage prepaid to your address.

WILL NOT DAMAGE GOODS

P. D. Q. will not injure delicate fabrics, clothing, carpets, furniture, bedding, wall paper or woodwork. In fact, it is often used as a deoderizer and disinfectant.

KILLS FLEAS ON DOGS

If you have a pet dog who is infested with fleas take a little P. D. Q. mixture in your hand and rub into the fur. Then watch the fleas loop the loop. They will be deader than King Solomon before they hit the floor.

MOTHS

Very simple to rid these pests from furs or clothing is to follow the directions on each package, impossible for moths to exist with the proper use of P. D. Q. A treatment on garments will prevent moths for two years.

FOR ANTS AND COCKROACHES

The ants and cockroaches stand just as good a chance of surviving a treatment of P. D. Q. as a snowball in a justly famed Heat Resort. It swats them and their eggs with a wallop that puts their whole generation out of business.

P.D.Q. IN LIQUID FORM

P. D. Q. can be purchased in sealed bottles double strength liquid form, with patent spout free. P. D. Q. Liquid can be diluted to make a quart or it can be used pure.

P. D. Q. is marketed in two style packages, Liquid form 50c, ready for use and P. D. Q. Dry form, 35c. Each package makes one quart.

1,000,000-Volt "Rain-Making" Apparatus Alters Barometer

William Haight and Dewey W. Davis have been able to bring about a change in the barometer carrying from three to 10 points in an hour, in their experiments at Huntington Park, Calif., with an electrical device with which they hope to be able to make rain at will. The machine, which utilizes a 1,000,000-volt current, tops a 125-foot derrick. Haight (left) and Davis, and the apparatus are shown.

Philadelphia carpenters—$9.00.
Detroit carpenters—$6.80 to $8.00.
Chicago Carpenters—$9.20 to $10.00
Akron carpenters—$6.40 to $8.00.

And East Liverpool Carpenters Refuse to Work For $10 a Day!

Rather than work for $10 a day in East Liverpool (which is much more than they can get in most other places) many of the striking carpenters have gone away to work. It looks as though it were up to the contractors to quit trying to settle things, and go out and get carpenters who will work in East Liverpool.

OSBORNE FAMILY MOVES TO WARREN

A. D. Osborne, whose term as superintendent of the Grant district schools expires in July, has moved with his family to Warren, O., where he will engage in the mercantile business. His daughter has accepted a teaching position in the schools there. His successor will probably be named at the regular meeting of the board of education next month.

PLAN TO SPEED EVICTION CASES

Arrangements were completed yesterday at Welisburg for a supplementary court session for Brooke county to relieve the congested docket growing out of 150 eviction cases which the West Virginia-Pittsburgh Coal company seeks to have heard without delay.

Judge Harold H. Brennen, associate circuit judge, who has just closed the term in Hancock county, opened the supplementary court. The American Legion hall will be used as a court room.

The hearing of the eviction suits alone will require that 3,000 jurors be summoned in panels of 40. Having once served on a case in this particular series, no juror will be eligible until two years hence.

That the defense will contest the cases with much vigor is indicated by an imposing array of counsel.

Attending Classes.

Eight students are attending classes in algebra and plain geometry being conducted here by George T. Kidder, principal of the Newell high school. Sessions, which are being held in the mornings, will continue until the end of July.

Game Here Tonight.

Homer Laughlin China team of the Industrial league is scheduled to meet Knowles, Taylor & Knowles on the local diamond this evening. Keen rivalry exists between the squads and a large crowd is anticipated. The first half of the league season will close next week.

PESKY BED BUGS

Doctors declare that bedbugs and other vermin are the most to be feared means of spreading such diseases as consumption, spinal meningitis and other infectious troubles. There is no disgrace in getting bedbugs in your home, because that can't be avoided, but it is a disgrace to permit them to remain and thrive when it is so easy to get rid of them with the new chemical compound, P. D. Q., which actually puts an end to these pesky devils.

A MILLION BEDBUGS

A 35-cent package of this golden chemical will make a quart of a mixture that is so deadly to bedbugs that it would kill a million of them if you could get that many together. If they were as big as your hand it would swat them just as well. And not only the live ones, but the future generation as well, because once it hits the eggs they are gone.

CUT THIS OUT

Your druggist has P. D. Q. (Pesky Devils Quietus) and will be glad to furnish it for 35-cents. One 35-cent package makes a quart of the mixture and is equal to a barrel of old-fashioned bug-killer. Some druggists may try to sell you something else. Don't accept a substitute. If your druggist hasn't P. D. Q., send us your name and 35-cents and we will send you a package postpage prepaid to your address.

WILL NOT DAMAGE GOODS

P. D. Q. will not injure delicate fabrics, clothing, carpets, furniture, bedding, wall paper or woodwork. In fact, it is often used as a deoderizer and disinfectant.

KILLS FLEAS ON DOGS

If you have a pet dog who is infested with fleas take a little P. D. Q. mixture in your hand and rub into the fur. Then watch the fleas loop the loop. They will be deader than King Solomon before they hit the floor.

MOTHS

Very simple to rid these pests from furs or clothing is to follow the directions on each package, impossible for moths to exist with the proper use of P. D. Q. A treatment on garments will prevent moths for two years.

FOR ANTS AND COCKROACHES

The ants and cockroaches stand just as good a chance of surviving a treatment of P. D. Q. as a snowball in a justly famed Heat Resort. It swats them and their eggs with a wallop that puts their whole generation out of business.

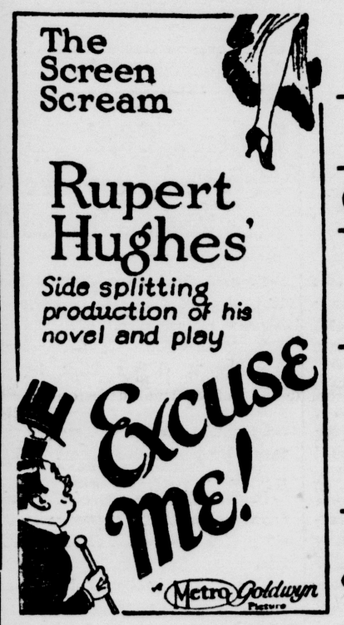

P.D.Q. IN LIQUID FORM

P. D. Q. can be purchased in sealed bottles double strength liquid form, with patent spout free. P. D. Q. Liquid can be diluted to make a quart or it can be used pure.

P. D. Q. is marketed in two style packages, Liquid form 50c, ready for use and P. D. Q. Dry form, 35c. Each package makes one quart.

SANTA FE TRAIL IS CENTURY OLD

To Observe Anniversary of Opening Path to Southwest.

Council Grove, Kan.—One hundred rings have swelled the trunk of the Council oak, patriarch of the Council grove, since that August day of 1825 when white and red chiefs gathered in its shade to barter for a trade route to Spanish New Mexico.

In a few months hundreds of pilgrims will be speeding over the Twentieth century highways of the Middle West to pay their respects to the old and the new Council Grove, birthplace of the Santa Fe trail.

This is Council Grove's centennial year and the little town is preparing to re-enact the scenes of a century ago.

With the descendants of those Indians who signed the treaty of 1825 with the United States commissioners, the whole community will unite next August to celebrate its own birthday and that of the Santa Fe trail.

President John Quincy Adams' order sent a handful of federal commissioners out to the western border of the states to secure a right of way to the unknown lands of the Southwest. They left Missouri and pushed into virtually trackless wastes. What was then the last outpost of western civilization is today the midpoint of the United States.

Under the great oak, sole memento today of that powwow, the government officers held council with the sachems of the Great and Little Osages, and then took back to President Adams the word that they had, on August 10, 1825, gained for the nation the right to pass through the Indian domain, over what became the Santa Fe trail, southwest across Kansas from Independence, Mo., to the Spanish posts in New Mexico.

As they forded the Neosho river here to start back to Washington, one of the party blazed the gnarled oak with the words that gave the city its name, "Council Grove."

Church Papers of 1703, Long Sought, Are Found

New York.—Important church documents, sought for many years by historians, have been found, covered with dust, in a drawer filled with ancient Christmas tree ornaments at St. James Lutheran church. One paper is the original ordination certificate of Rev. Justus Falckner, who, in 1703, was the first clergyman to be regularly ordained in America.

The papers were found by two charwomen, Rev. William F. Sunday, pastor of the church, reported the discovery to church historians.

Rev. Justus Falckner was ordained in Philadelphia in 1703 and accepted a call from the Dutch Lutheran church in New York. His ordination certificate was believed to have been lost.

Among the other papers discovered were letters of 1820 in which an unnamed donor, believed to be Peter Lorillard, Sr., founder of the present Lorillard tobacco firm, granted certain lands to St. James church.

Girl Bitten by Snake Is Over It in Just One Hour

New York.—Miss Nellie Louis Condon, secretary of the Reptile Study Society of America, was bitten on the right index finger by a large copperhead snake during a hunt by thirty-five members of the society in Rattlesnake den in the Ramapo mountains near Suffren, N. Y. She was treated by the first aid methods and later an antivenom serum was injected into her side repeatedly. Within an hour she apparently had fully recovered.

Letters to Editor

Religious Education.

East Liverpool, O., June 23, 1925.
Editor East Liverpool Review-Tribune

Dear Sir:

There are certain phases of the proposed religious training in our public school that should, it seems to me, be considered before final decision is made.

The struggle for existence grows harder year by year; and our economic system is not designed to make it any easier. Every year the workers have to speed up more than ever; every year the competition for the job grows sharper and keener.

The majority of the children of the working class must leave school after the eighth grade in order to earn a living, and as the means of life become increasingly more expensive, a larger proportion of the children will have to do this.

The youth with the best education as a rule, gets the best job.

What chance has an ignorant man?

There are about eight little childish years in which to prepare for fifty years of hard life and hard work.

In each of these years there are about eight months of school, counting out vacation weeks and holidays.

In each week are only five days of school; and in the school-day only five hours of actual study and recitation—twenty-five hours, all told during the whole week—barely one whole day out of seven. Indeed, the time is so short, that the teachers who conscientiously are trying to help the children to an education, must ask them to take their books home at night; and when the kiddies are tired and sleepy, and have, usually, no one at hand who can help them to understand what they are doing—then they must try to get their most difficult lessons.

All told; at twenty-five hours a week,—this amounts to less than forty whole days in the year. Multiply this by eight or nine, and we have less than one solid year, from the time the working-class child is six until he is fourteen, in which he must get all the schooling he will ever have.

Do you wonder that our young people take little interest in mental life, or that the hardest thing most workers have to do, is to think?

Then those who are responsible for this state of affairs, sneer at the workers for being "stupid!"

Now, in the face of this shocking shortage of real education, let us see what is proposed.

The ministers have all day Sunday—all day Saturday—every evening in the week—all the holidays and the entire summer vacation—in which to teach religion and because the people do not willingly go to them during all this time, why the clergymen must force it on the people, by robbing the helpless children yet of the few little hours which they have for learning something useful and reliable.

I would suggest that the churches have meetings every evening, Saturdays, Sundays, and all during the summer vacation, since society needs them.

Surely those parents who would sign a request for religious training in the school would be willing to send the children to church on Saturday mornings, where they would get at least as much as they would in school. (All this reminds one of the camel which humbly asked only to be permitted to put his nose into his master's tent. Soon the whole camel was in, and the master was out.)

So the children won't behave when they are in church?

And whose fault is that? The principal of our normal school used to say to us, "If your pupils are not attentive, it is your fault, not theirs. You are not interesting them."

Children have very penetrating minds and modern children more than any in the past.

In school there are several reasons for their good behavior. First: They the being taught what their minds accept as truthful and reliable; thus they are interested in what they study.

Second: They are under the care of trained, state-licensed disciplinarians.

Third: Their parents have confidence in what they are being taught, and therefore uphold the teachers in making them behave.

Who is to provide the money to pay these religious teachers? They must live. If the rich pay it, then a religion will be taught which favors capitalism. If the poor are to contribute toward it—then I have only to say that if work is not better in this country this coming winter, than it has been lately, many children will be unable to get any kind of schooling for want of clothes, not to mention food.

All these things should be very thoroughly considered; and then the question should be subjected to a referendum vote of all the people.

Yours very sincerely,
MARY WATERS,
Pleasant Heights.

WELL ONE DAY IN BED THREE

That Was the Life of Mrs. Hollister Until she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyandotte, Michigan. — "After my baby was born I did not do my own work for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. I always had a pain in my right side and it was so bad I was getting round shoulders. I would feel well one day and then feel so bad for three or four days that I would be in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to tell me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So the next day I got a bottle and before it was half taken I got relief. After I was well again I went to the doctor and he asked to see how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and he said it did not hurt any one to take it. I am always recommending the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand."—Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Mich.

Jimmy Needs a Dog

He needs one to grow up with, to share the joys and sorrows of his active boyhood days.

But there's no use for a fellow to have a dog unless he has a yard to play in — a yard where grass grows and trees are, where bees and butterflies come — and a house he can call "HOME."

Jimmy really needs those things. And you need them, too. Make them your goal and save for them — in a savings account here.

SANTA FE TRAIL IS CENTURY OLD

To Observe Anniversary of Opening Path to Southwest.

Council Grove, Kan.—One hundred rings have swelled the trunk of the Council oak, patriarch of the Council grove, since that August day of 1825 when white and red chiefs gathered in its shade to barter for a trade route to Spanish New Mexico.

In a few months hundreds of pilgrims will be speeding over the Twentieth century highways of the Middle West to pay their respects to the old and the new Council Grove, birthplace of the Santa Fe trail.

This is Council Grove's centennial year and the little town is preparing to re-enact the scenes of a century ago.

With the descendants of those Indians who signed the treaty of 1825 with the United States commissioners, the whole community will unite next August to celebrate its own birthday and that of the Santa Fe trail.

President John Quincy Adams' order sent a handful of federal commissioners out to the western border of the states to secure a right of way to the unknown lands of the Southwest. They left Missouri and pushed into virtually trackless wastes. What was then the last outpost of western civilization is today the midpoint of the United States.

Under the great oak, sole memento today of that powwow, the government officers held council with the sachems of the Great and Little Osages, and then took back to President Adams the word that they had, on August 10, 1825, gained for the nation the right to pass through the Indian domain, over what became the Santa Fe trail, southwest across Kansas from Independence, Mo., to the Spanish posts in New Mexico.

As they forded the Neosho river here to start back to Washington, one of the party blazed the gnarled oak with the words that gave the city its name, "Council Grove."

Church Papers of 1703, Long Sought, Are Found

New York.—Important church documents, sought for many years by historians, have been found, covered with dust, in a drawer filled with ancient Christmas tree ornaments at St. James Lutheran church. One paper is the original ordination certificate of Rev. Justus Falckner, who, in 1703, was the first clergyman to be regularly ordained in America.

The papers were found by two charwomen. Rev. William F. Sunday, pastor of the church, reported the discovery to church historians.

Rev. Justus Falckner was ordained in Philadelphia in 1703 and accepted a call from the Dutch Lutheran church in New York. His ordination certificate was believed to have been lost.

Among the other papers discovered were letters of 1826 in which an unnamed donor, believed to be Peter Lorillard, Sr., founder of the present Lorillard tobacco firm, granted certain lands to St. James church.

Girl Bitten by Snake Is Over It in Just One Hour

New York.—Miss Nellie Louis Condon, secretary of the Reptile Study Society of America, was bitten on the right index finger by a large copperhead snake during a hunt by thirty-five members of the society in Rattlesnake den in the Ramapo mountains near Suffren, N. Y. She was treated by the first aid methods and later an antivenom serum was injected into her side repeatedly. Within an hour she apparently had fully recovered.

Letters to Editor

Religious Education.

East Liverpool, O., June 23, 1925.
Editor East Liverpool Review-Tribune

Dear Sir:

There are certain phases of the proposed religious training in our public school that should, it seems to me, be considered before final decision is made.

The struggle for existence grows harder year by year; and our economic system is not designed to make it any easier. Every year the workers have to speed up more than ever; every year the competition for the job grows sharper and keener.

The majority of the children of the working class must leave school after the eighth grade in order to earn a living, and as the means of life become increasingly more expensive, a larger proportion of the children will have to do this.

The youth with the best education as a rule, gets the best job.

What chance has an ignorant man?

There are about eight little childish years in which to prepare for fifty years of hard life and hard work.

In each of these years there are about eight months of school, counting out vacation weeks and holidays.

In each week are only five days of school; and in the school-day only five hours of actual study and recitation—twenty-five hours, all told during the whole week—barely one whole day out of seven. Indeed, the time is so short, that the teachers who conscientiously are trying to help the children to an education, must ask them to take their books home at night; and when the kiddies are tired and sleepy, and have, usually, no one at hand who can help them to understand what they are doing—then they must try to get their most difficult lessons.

All told; at twenty-five hours a week,—this amounts to less than forty whole days in the year. Multiply this by eight or nine, and we have less than one solid year, from the time the working-class child is six until he is fourteen, in which he must get all the schooling he will ever have.

Do you wonder that our young people take little interest in mental life, or that the hardest thing most workers have to do, is to think?

Then those who are responsible for this state of affairs, sneer at the workers for being "stupid!"

Now, in the face of this shocking shortage of real education, let us see what is proposed.

The ministers have all day Sunday—all day Saturday—every evening in the week—all the holidays and the entire summer vacation—in which to teach religion and because the people do not willingly go to them during all this time, why the clergymen must force it on the people, by robbing the helpless children yet of the few little hours which they have for learning something useful and reliable.

I would suggest that the churches have meetings every evening, Saturdays, Sundays, and all during the summer vacation, since society needs them.

Surely those parents who would sign a request for religious training in the school would be willing to send the children to church on Saturday mornings, where they would get at least as much as they would in school. (All this reminds one of the camel which humbly asked only to be permitted to put his nose into his master's tent. Soon the whole camel was in, and the master was out.)

So the children won't behave when they are in church?

And whose fault is that? The principal of our normal school used to say to us, "If your pupils are not attentive, it is your fault, not theirs. You are not interesting them."

Children have very penetrating minds and modern children more than any in the past.

In school there are several reasons for their good behavior. First: They the being taught what their minds accept as truthful and reliable; thus they are interested in what they study.

Second: They are under the care of trained, state-licensed disciplinarians.

Third: Their parents have confidence in what they are being taught, and therefore uphold the teachers in making them behave.

Who is to provide the money to pay these religious teachers? They must live. If the rich pay it, then a religion will be taught which favors capitalism. If the poor are to contribute toward it—then I have only to say that if work is not better in this country this coming winter, than it has been lately, many children will be unable to get any kind of schooling for want of clothes, not to mention food.

All these things should be very thoroughly considered; and then the question should be subjected to a referendum vote of all the people.

Yours very sincerely,
MARY WATERS,
Pleasant Heights.

That Was the Life of Mrs. Hollister Until she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyandotte, Michigan. — "After my baby was born I did not do my own work for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. I always had a pain in my right side and it was so bad I was getting round shoulders. I would feel well one day and then feel so bad for three or four days that I would be in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to tell me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So the next day I got a bottle and before it was half taken I got relief. After I was well again I went to the doctor and he asked me how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and he said it did not hurt any one to take it. I am always recommending the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand."—Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Mich.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for all women. For sale by druggists everywhere.

He needs one to grow up with, to share the joys and sorrows of his active boyhood days.

Play Qualifying Round Today In State Amateur Tournament

Joseph M. Wells, Ohio amateur golf champion, was scheduled to tee off at 12:25 o'clock this afternoon with R. W. Lee, of Columbus, in the qualifying round of the state championship tournament at Portage Country club, Akron.

Wells leads a contingent of 11 East Liverpool golfers who are out today on the Portage course in the opening round.

More than 200 golfers, by far the greatest field on record, are entered in the event.

The Wells-Lee play today will undoubtedly attract a large gallery. Other interesting pairings include John Munro, of Zanesville, and Harold Weber, of Toledo, both former state champions; Eddie Hasmann, Cleveland, and F. E. Southard, Toledo; Frank Werner, Akron, and F. H. Pelton, of Cleveland.

Teaming with Emmet French, Youngstown Country club professional, Joe Wells finished second in the preliminary pro-amateur best ball play Monday afternoon, turning in a score of 67, and tying George Currie, Portage club pro, and E. O. Handy.

Lloyd Gulickson, professional of the Columbus Elks' County club, paired with William Deuschle, amateur, won the event. Scoring 31 going out four under par and 35 coming in, Gulickson and Deuschle collaborated in a masterful round that was five under par.

The attraction of the afternoon was the foursome, which included Wells and French and the Cleveland team of Ellsworth Augustus and Rudy Fielitz. A gallery of considerable size followed this quartet throughout the afternoon despite the rain.

Eddie Hasmann did not appear on the courts yesterday. It was understood that he was at home resting up for the big tests that start today.

The dope around the club yesterday was that Wells will have a tough time defending his title.

But the critics also agree that Wells is certainly a much better match player than a medalist.

John S. Knight, Akron, vs. C. A. Bough, East Liverpool.

S. A. Frolking, Cleveland, vs. J. S. Grimes, East Liverpool.

D. W. Thornton, Akron, vs. Arthur A. Wells, East Liverpool.

Joseph M. Wells, East Liverpool, vs. R. W. Lee, Columbus.

R. L. E. Chambers, East Liverpool, vs. J. Edward Good, Akron.

J. D. Comstock, East Liverpool, vs. W. G. Chandler, Cleveland.

Arthur Saalfield, Akron, vs. G. R. Thomas, East Liverpool.

W. VA. PLANNING BIG GRID EVENT

Dedicate Stadium in Clash With Penn State.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 23.—If present plans materialize Saturday, Nov. 14, the date fixed for the formal dedication of the new West Virginia University Stadium, is going to be something of a state holiday. Although busy winding up the affairs of the collegiate year just ended and in the midst of preparations for the 1925-1926 year athletic department officials here are finding time to work on dedication game plans.

Authorities at Ohio State, Bucknell, Illinois, Indiana, Nebraska, Minnesota, Pennsylvania and other institutions with new stadia are being consulted by those arranging the program for West Virginia.

Prominent citizens of West Virginia and Pennsylvania, including Governor Morgan and Governor Pinchot, have been invited to participate in the exercises to precede the gridiron classic between the Penn State college eleven and the West Virginia Mountaineers. From present indications it is going to be a "red letter day" in the state's history.

Director of Athletics H. A. Stansbury has intimated that he hopes to have the dedication day program definitely arranged before the opening of the 1925 football season in September. He knows from experience that once the gridiron campaign gets underway there will be little time to work out the details of the exercises. He assumes personal charge of the mail orde, ticket sales and that job alone keeps him busy from the middle of September until Thanksgiving day.

The new hotel being constructed here will be open in the early fall and when it is finished Morgantown will be able to offer first class accommodations to visitors. People in this section of the state are already beginning to look forward to the big dedication day game and every one expects a record crowd.

Will Veteran and Rookie Settle A. L. Flag Race?

MEET PLANNED BY SPORTSMEN

Guilford Park Grounds Laid Out for July 22 Event.

The field day committee of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association has laid out the grounds at Guilford park for the sport contests to be featured July 22, the day of the county field meet.

An ox roast will be a feature of the day, according to J. S. Lambing, chairman of the field day committee. Sportsmen from Mahoning, Stark and Jefferson counties are to be asked to visit the state park on this occasion.

It was estimated that over 2,000 people visited Guilford Sunday, many of them spending the entire day on the lands that will hereafter be known as State park.

The official map of the new reservation is being finished in the office of County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk, and the 10-mile road around the water line has been plainly designated.

An official blue print of the new tracing will soon be forwarded to the several state departments interseted in the project. Purchase of the land for the state park will follow as soon as the new law becomes effective.

TEXAN DEFEATS YALE NET STAR

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 23.—Weather permitting, the second day of the intercollegiate tennis meet, at the Merion Cricket club here, will start at 11 o'clock this morning.

Louis Thalheimer, of the University of Texas, sprang a big surprise when he vanquished Arnold Jones of Yale in straight sets, 7-7, 9-7. Jones was one of the seeded players and was favored as one of the contenders for the intercollegiate title this year.

Carl Fischer, Osteopathy, trimmed Lionell Ogden, Leland Stanford, 6-2, 6-3 in the third round after eliminating C. C. Haynes, Baylor, in the second, 6-3, 6-3.

By Norman E. Brown.

Right now the American league race seems simmered down to two teams, the world's champion Senators, and the world's most hopeful club, the Athletics.

There is an interesting coincidence in this merry two-club battle.

The Athletics have been leading the Washington club despite the fact that Lefty Groves, the man counted on to make the team a pennant-contending one, has been of no use to the team. Eddie Rommel, Sam Gray, Baumgartner, Slim Harriss and Rube Walberg have carried the burden.

Harriss has kept the Senators around the top of the heap all season without calling on Walter Johnson to overdo. Vean Gregg, Stan Coveleskie and Dutch Reuther, veterans signed to relieve King Walt, have done their duty so nobly that the old favorite has breezed along this year. The team hasn't needed his last ounce.

Now, however, Connie Mack is counting on Lefty Groves. The Baltimore star has been rounding into form of late. Seems to have acquired more control, for one thing, and is in better physical condition.

Connie hopes to be able to send him in regularly in a short time.

If he does and the Mackmen begin to forge farther ahead of the Senators Manager Harris will be forced to tighten up his defense and increase his winning gait by calling on Walter oftener. From that time on—if it comes—the fate of the two teams may hang on the relative success of these two pitchers—one a rookie from the minors, the other a veteran of 18 long campaigns and the outstanding hero of last year's campaign.

The White Sox appear to be about the only club that have a chance to spoil this two-club race and Collins hasn't the pitching staff to compare with that of either the Mackmen or the Senators.

So the jolly A. L. fans are preparing to set back and watch the two ball club go to it. And two managers sit tight, ready to lead their aces when necessary.

The people of Japan, in spite of government urging, show little interest in colonizing the South Sea islands given to Nippon under mandate by the Treaty of Versailles.

B. & W. AWARDED FORFEIT GAME

Only Three Members of Trotter Club on Field.

Because only three members of the Trotter team were present, Umpire David Lindsay last evening declared the City Industrial league contest with Babcock & Wilcox forfeited to the latter squad. The two teams were scheduled to clash at Klondyke.

The contest is the only one forfeited so far this season in the industrial circuit. Only one postponed game, between Wellsville and Laughlin, which was set back on account of rain, has been recorded.

Rain had hardly dampened the Klondyke field on Monday evening and despite the slight downpour the contest probably could have been played.

The games scheduled for tonight include one between Chester and B. & W. at Klondyke; and another at Newell in which Laughlin and K. T. K. will be contestants.

As Chester is out to hold first place at any cost, and K. T. K. has a chance to unseat the leaders, both these engagements will be watched closely by league fans.

KIRKWOOD, SMITH HAVE LOW SCORES

The American scores were:

Kirkwood	79	74—153
Smith	77	77—154
Barnes	77	78—155

Hughey Jennings to Continue Active Charge While John is Convalescing From Serious Illness; Leaders Now Only a Game and a Half in Front of Hard-Hitting Pittsburgh Team.

NEW YORK, June 23.—It was intimated rather broadly today that the New York Giants, already cut down to the size of their field by injuries and a scandalous western trip, may be forced to part intimate company with John McGraw for the remainder of the 1925 season. McGraw, convalescent from a rather serious illness, has not recovered his health with a celerity his physicians have deemed necessary and the tip now is that he will do his master-minding at a point well removed from the playing bench.

Nothing official has been vouchsafed about the situation. In fact, the matter has been pretty thoroughly "hushed."

But the present understanding, nevertheless, is that Hughey Jennings will continue to take active charge of the club and John McGraw will take active charge of himself.

It is hardly the time McGraw himself would select for a temporary retirement. The Giants need him as the plaster needs the paris, for the Pirates, giving the greatest exhibition of sustained hitting in the history of all baseball, are coming with the speed of a prairie fire.

They are only a game and a half back today and a continuance of their respective speeds soon will see the two clubs exchanging positions. Everything has gone to the falsetto in the Giant camp where a bit more than a month ago all was pink and pretty.

Injuries to Frisch, Groh, Lindstrom, Kelly, Terry and Scott followed in rapid succession, and at one time, one might find difficulty in recognizing the Giants with a college boy on third base and a spavined catcher, 12 years in the minor leagues, playing first base.

Scott, one of the three pitchers who have kept the club in front, was out for several days after a collision with Grimm at Chicago. Another, Bentley, was beaten several times by one run, and the third proceeded to get himself suspended for conduct unbecoming a ball player, whatever that may be.

The latter was Virgil Barnes, who claimed he sprained a careless ankle in a Pittsburgh bath tub. McGraw, however, pointed out that all Pittsburgh bath tubs are equipped with sandpaper and sent the young man home. That didn't do the club any particular good, either.

Finally, we have exhibit A in the person of Ross Young, a normal .340 hitter. He is stepping blithely along at about .225 and can't seem to accelerate the pace. That is an absurd performance for a man like Young in these days of the lively ball.

All in all, it is not remarkable that the Giants have won only eight games in the last 17 played.

Glendon's Navy Oarsmen Victors Over Washington

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 23.—What would have happened had Washington made its bid for victory a minute earlier.

That was the question asked on every hand today by the stay-behinds of the 60,000 crowd that saw the Navy restore eastern rowing prestige by beating Washington a half-length for for intercollegiate four mile championship late yesterday.

"It wouldn't be fair to say that the better crew won," declared Young Dick Glendon, Navy coach. "They were both great crews."

That seemed to be the consensus among rowing men, although the latter were quick to state that the middies rowed the better judge race and were all the more to be congratulated for winning with their punishing stroke. It seemed to be the general idea that Stroke Eddy, of the Navy, outguessed Stroke Ulbrickson, of Washington, by getting the jump on him at the third mile.

Washington's rowing in the final mile was an inspiration. It cut down the Navy by a full length but its effort came too late. At that, it was the Navy that had the bigger punch in the final furlong because it was able to save something while the huskies were rowing their hearts out to catch the leaders.

Much of this, it was contended, could have been prevented had Washington elected to meet the Navy's spring near the bridge instead of trying to row the middies down in the stretch.

Tagging The Bases

Those boisterous Pirates again ran amuck, socking Rhem and Stuart for 21 hits and beating the Cardinals, 24 to 6, where two days before, they mauled the Dodgers for 21 runs. Seven homers were made by the Pirates, Gratham getting two. Hornsby obliged with another, his eighteenth of the season.

Whitehill left-handed the Red Sox into submission while the Tigers clouted Ross and Zahniser and won, 8 to 4, giving them the series.

The Cubs blended baseball with Red errors and came home on the bit to win, 9 to 6.

Zachary was trifled with for eleven hits but was very parsimonious about it and the Senators gained a full game on the Athletics by beating the Indians, 7 to 2.

There was no beating about the bush in the Athletics-Browns' game, Bullet Joe holding his former mates in check and helping the situation along with a homer in the eighth, the Browns winning, 9 to 2. It was the Athletics' first defeat in seven games. Lyons bore right down on the Yankees and pitched the White Sox into an even break on the series, 6 to 1, the Sox pummeling Shawkey and Pennock.

Osaka, which is annexing forty-two towns and villages, will have a population of 2,000,000, and will be the largest city in Japan until the "Greater Tokyo" plan is put into effect.

Play Qualifying Round Today In State Amateur Tournament

Joseph M. Wells, Ohio amateur golf champion, was scheduled to tee off at 12:25 o'clock this afternoon with R. W. Lee, of Columbus, in the qualifying round of the state championship tournament at Portage Country club, Akron.

Wells leads a contingent of 11 East Liverpool golfers who are out today on the Portage course in the opening round.

More than 200 golfers, by far the greatest field on record, are entered in the event.

The Wells-Lee play today will undoubtedly attract a large gallery. Other interesting pairings include John Munro, of Zanesville, and Harold Weber, of Toledo, both former state champions; Eddie Hasmann, Cleveland, and F. E. Southard, Toledo; Frank Werner, Akron, and F. H. Pelton, of Cleveland.

Teaming with Emmet French, Youngstown Country club professional, Joe Wells finished second in the preliminary pro-amateur best ball play Monday afternoon, turning in a score of 67, and tying George Currie, Portage club pro, and E. O. Handy.

Lloyd Gulickson, professional of the Columbus Elks' County club, paired with William Deuschle, amateur, won the event. Scoring 31 going out-four under par—and 35 coming in, Gulickson and Deuschle collaborated in a masterful round that was five under par.

The attraction of the afternoon was the foursome, which included Wells and French and the Cleveland team of Ellsworth Augustus and Rudy Fielitz. A gallery of considerable size followed this quartet throughout the afternoon despite the rain.

Eddie Hasmann did not appear on the courts yesterday. It was understood that he was at home resting up for the big tests that start today.

The dope around the club yesterday was that Wells will have a tough time defending his title.

But the critics also agree that Wells is certainly a much better match player than a medalist.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 23.—If present plans materialize Saturday, Nov. 14, the date fixed for the formal dedication of the new West Virginia University Stadium, is going to be something of a state holiday. Although busy winding up the affairs of the collegiate year just ended and in the midst of preparations for the 1925-1926 year athletic department officials here are finding time to work on dedication game plans.

Authorities at Ohio State, Bucknell, Illinois, Indiana, Nebraska, Minnesota, Pennsylvania and other institutions with new stadia are being consulted by those arranging the program for West Virginia.

Prominent citizens of West Virginia and Pennsylvania, including Governor Morgan and Governor Pinchot, have been invited to participate in the exercises to precede the gridiron classic between the Penn State college eleven and the West Virginia Mountaineers. From present indications it is going to be a "red letter day" in the state's history.

Director of Athletics H. A. Stansbury has intimated that he hopes to have the dedication day program definitely arranged before the opening of the 1925 football season in September. He knows from experience that once the gridiron campaign gets underway there will be little time to work out the details of the exercises. He assumes personal charge of the mail orde, ticket sales and that job alone keeps him busy from the middle of September until Thanksgiving day.

The new hotel being constructed here will be open in the early fall and when it is finished Morgantown will be able to offer first class accommodations to visitors. People in this section of the state are already beginning to look forward to the big dedication day game and every one expects a record crowd.

Will Veteran and Rookie Settle A. L. Flag Race?

Guilford Park Grounds Laid Out for July 22 Event.

The field day committee of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association has laid out the grounds at Guilford park for the sport contests to be featured July 22, the day of the county field meet.

An ox roast will be a feature of the day, according to J. S. Lambing, chairman of the field day committee. Sportsmen from Mahoning, Stark and Jefferson counties are to be asked to visit the state park on this occasion.

It was estimated that over 2,000 people visited Guilford Sunday, many of them spending the entire day on the lands that will hereafter be known as State park.

The official map of the new reservation is being finished in the office of County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk, and the 10-mile road around the water line has been plainly designated.

An official blue print of the new tracing will soon be forwarded to the several state departments interseted in the project. Purchase of the land for the state park will follow as soon as the new law becomes effective.

TEXAN DEFEATS YALE NET STAR

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 23.—Weather permitting, the second day of the intercollegiate tennis meet, at the Merion Cricket club here, will start at 11 o'clock this morning.

Louis Thalheimer, of the University of Texas, sprang a big surprise when he vanquished Arnold Jones of Yale in straight sets, 7-7, 9-7. Jones was one of the seeded players and was favored as one of the contenders for the intercollegiate title this year.

Carl Fischer, Osteopathy, trimmed Lionell Ogden, Leland Stanford, 6-2, 6-3 in the third round after eliminating C. C. Haynes, Baylor, in the second, 6-3, 6-3.

By Norman E. Brown.

Right now the American league race seems simmered down to two teams, the world's champion Senators, and the world's most hopeful club, the Athletics.

There is an interesting coincidence in this merry two-club battle.

The Athletics have been leading the Washington club despite the fact that Lefty Groves, the man counted on to make the team a pennant-contending one, has been of no use to the team. Eddie Rommel, Sam Gray, Baumgartner, Slim Harriss and Rube Walberg have carried the burden.

Harriss has kept the Senators around the top of the heap all season without calling on Walter Pohnson to overdo. Vean Gregg, Stan Coveleskie and Dutch Reuther, veterans signed to relieve King Walt, have done their duty so nobly that the old favorite has breezed along this year. The team hasn't needed his last ounce.

Now, however, Connie Mack is counting on Lefty Groves. The Baltimore star has been rounding into form of late. Seems to have acquired more control, for one thing, and is in better physical condition.

Connie hopes to be able to send him in regularly in a short time.

If he does and the Mackmen begin to forge farther ahead of the Senators Manager Harris will be forced to tighten up his defense and increase his winning gait by calling on Walter oftener. From that time on—if it comes—the fate of the two teams may hang on the relative success of these two pitchers—one a rookie from the minors, the other a veteran of 18 long campaigns and the outstanding hero of last year's campaign.

The White Sox apear to be about the only club that have a chance to spoil this two-club race and Collins hasn't the pitching staff to compare with that of either the Mackmen or the Senators.

So the jolly A. L. fans are preparing to set back and watch the two ball club go to it. And two managers sit tight, ready to lead their aces when necessary.

The people of Japan, in spite of government urging, show little interest in colonizing the South Sea islands given to Nippon under mandate by the Treaty of Versailles.

B. & W. AWARDED FORFEIT GAME

Only Three Members of Trotter Club on Field.

Because only three members of the Trotter team were present, Umpire David Lindsay last evening declared the City Industrial league contest with Babcock & Wilcox forfeited to the latter squad. The two teams were scheduled to clash at Klondyke.

The contest is the only one forfeited so far this season in the industrial circuit. Only one postponed game, between Wellsville and Laughlin, which was set back on account of rain, has been recorded.

Rain had hardly dampened the Klondyke field on Monday evening and despite the slight downpour the contest probably could have been played.

The games scheduled for tonight include one between Chester and B. & W. at Klondyke; and another at Newell in which Laughlin and K. T. K. will be contestants.

As Chester is out to hold first place at any cost, and K. T. K. has a chance to unseat the leaders, both these engagements will be watched closely by league fans.

KIRKWOOD, SMITH HAVE LOW SCORES

Smith	77	77—154
Barnes	77	78—155

Hughey Jennings to Continue Active Charge While John is Convalescing From Serious Illness; Leaders Now Only a Game and a Half in Front of Hard-Hitting Pittsburgh Team.

NEW YORK, June 23.—It was intimated rather broadly today that the New York Giants, already cut down to the size of their field by injuries and a scandalous western trip, may be forced to part intimate company with John McGraw for the remainder of the 1925 season. McGraw, convalescent from a rather serious illness, has not recovered his health with a celerity his physicians have deemed necessary and the tip now is that he will do his master-minding at a point well removed from the playing bench.

Nothing official has been vouchsafed about the situation. In fact, the matter has been pretty thoroughly "hushed."

But the present understanding, nevertheless, is that Hughey Jennings will continue to take active charge of the club and John McGraw will take active charge of himself.

It is hardly the time McGraw himself would select for a temporary retirement. The Giants need him as the plaster needs the paris, for the Pirates, giving the greatest exhibition of sustained hitting in the history of all baseball, are coming with the speed of a prairie fire.

They are only a game and a half back today and a continuance of their respective speeds soon will see the two clubs exchanging positions. Everything has gone to the falsetto in the Giant camp where a bit more than a month ago all was pink and pretty.

Injuries to Frisch, Groh, Lindstrom, Kelly, Terry and Scott followed in rapid succession, and at one time, one might find difficulty in recognizing the Giants with a college boy on third base and a spavined catcher, 12 years in the minor leagues, playing first base.

Scott, one of the three pitchers who have kept the club in front, was out for several days after a collision with Grimm at Chicago. Another, Bentley, was beaten several times by one run, and the third proceeded to get himself suspended for conduct unbecoming a ball player, whatever that may be.

The latter was Virgil Barnes, who claimed he sprained a careless ankle in a Pittsburgh bath tub. McGraw, however, pointed out that all Pittsburgh bath tubs are equipped with sandpaper and sent the young man home. That didn't do the club any particular good, either.

Finally, we have exhibit A in the person of Ross Young, a normal .340 hitter. He is stepping blithely along at about .225 and can't seem to accelerate the pace. That is an absurd performance for a man like Young in these days of the lively ball.

All in all, it is not remarkable that the Giants have won only eight games in the last 17 played.

Glendon's Navy Oarsmen Victors Over Washington

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 23.—What would have happened had Washington made its bid for victory a minute earlier.

That was the question asked on every hand today by the stay-behinds of the 60,000 crowd that saw the Navy restore eastern rowing prestige by beating Washington a half-length for for intercollegiate four mile championship late yesterday.

"It wouldn't be fair to say that the better crew won," declared Young Dick Glendon, Navy coach. "They were both great crews."

That seemed to be the consensus among rowing men, although the latter were quick to state that the middies rowed the better judge race and were all the more to be congratulated for winning with their punishing stroke. It seemed to be the general idea that Stroke Eddy, of the Navy, outguessed Stroke Ulbrickson, of Washington, by getting the jump on him at the third mile.

Washington's rowing in the final mile was an inspiration. It cut down the Navy by a full length but its effort came too late. At that, it was the Navy that had the bigger punch in the final furlong because it was able to save something while the huskies were rowing their hearts out to catch the leaders.

Much of this, it was contended, could have been prevented had Washington elected to meet the Navy's spring near the bridge instead of trying to row the middies down in the stretch.

Tagging The Bases

Those boisterous Pirates again ran amuck, socking Rhem and Stuart for 21 hits and beating the Cardinals, 24 to 6, where two days before, they mauled the Dodgers for 21 runs. Seven homers were made by the Pirates, Gratham getting two. Hornsby obliged with another, his eighteenth of the season.

Whitehill left-handed the Red Sox into submission while the Tigers clouted Ross and Zahniser and won, 8 to 4, giving them the series.

The Cubs blended baseball with Red errors and came home on the bit to win, 9 to 6.

Zachary was trifled with for eleven hits but was very parsimonious about it and the Senators gained a full game on the Athletics by beating the Indians, 7 to 2.

There was no beating about the bush in the Athletics-Browns' game, Bullet Joe holding his formmates in check and helping the situation along with a homer in the eighth, the Browns winning, 9 to 2. It was the Athletics' first defeat in seven games. Lyons bore right down on the Yankees and pitched the White Sox into an even break on the series, 6 to 1, the Sox pummeling Shawkey and Pennock.

Osaka, which is annexing forty-two towns and villages, will have a population of 2,000,000, and will be the largest city in Japan until the "Greater Tokyo" plan is put into effect.

JOBLESS MAN WIPES OUT KIN

TODAY

They Found Him—Dead.
New York's Boom. When?
Coolidge Dislikes Radicals.
The Mosque of Amroo.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Trioune).

Don't crowd your children in their studies; don't allow well-meaning teachers to crowd them if you can help it.

Education should be planned for the benefit of children, not for the glory of parents or teachers. To humiliate an ambitious child is cruel, sometimes dangerous.

"Folks, you will find me in the closet." They found him, dead. He had hanged himself.

Dr. Harris, deputy police commissioner, managing New York street traffic, says New York will have a population of 25,000,000 and besides double-decking streets will be compelled to rush traffic at 30 miles an hour.

However, flying machines may solve that problem and eventually break up the great cities absolutely. Instead of having all the trades, shops and industries crowded together, fast flying will make it possible to scatter them. The great city of today may become another gigantic "deserted village."

But don't let that discourage you on real estate investments. Conditions change slowly and one change is often offset by another.

When the steam car came along, stage coach roads and inns were neglected. Then came the automobile. Roads were built and wayside inns prospered as never before. Then came prohibition and the inns collapsed or turned bootlegger.

When will New York city have a real estate boom? When New York's boom, hitherto unknown does come, look out for financial fireworks.

One section of New York, the Bronx, has grown from 500,000 to 1,000,000 in five years. It will have at least 2,000,000 population in 1935.

Every year the city adds about 300,000 to0 its population — more than three times the pemanent population of Miami. Every year a great American city, is tacked onto the biggest American city. The business done on one little island, Manhattan, is terrific. If a "boom" ever strikes that island, where will prices go? Get your corner.

Mr. Curtis' Washington correspondnet says President Coolidge will fight the oil reserve case to the supreme court and will not be satisfied with the Cheyenne judge's decision that Fall had a right to sell out the navy's oil lands, or satisfied with the legal theory that failure to trace bonds alleged to have been given as bribes, rules out everything, including the "little black bag" with the $100,000 in cash, paid, delivered and accepted.

With what authority the correspondent explains the President's intentions is not known. But it is known that President Coolidge is impatient with rascality, wholesale or retail.

Also, it would show poor generalship for the Republican party to leave permanently in its record and to carry firmly around its neck in 1928 the full weight of the oil scandal.

There isn't any doubt as to what 99 per cent of the people think of that scandal. They call it an unusually daring piece of rascality and believe that those chiefly concerned ought to be in jail. And, they would be inclined to vote for almost any kind of a

Wayne Farmer, 25, Steubenville, Believed Fatally Injured.

Wayne Farmer, aged about 25, Steubenville college student, is believed to have been fatally injured at 10:30 o'clock this morning in a 15-foot fall down the elevator shaft of the Sturgis warehouse, Dresden avenue. His skull was fractured.

Farmer, who is said to be a second-year medical student at an Ohio college, and another workman were installing automatic elevator gates on the main floor of the building, working for the Otis Elevator company of Cleveland, when the accident occurred.

He is believed to have lost his balance, falling to the bottom of the shaft in the basement. He struck the base of his skull on the concrete floor.

Victim Is Unconscious.

His fellow worker found him unconscious. The Sturgis ambulance was called and the man was taken to the City hospital. Farmer, who was attended by Dr. R. J. Marshall, had not regained consciousness at noon.

Farmer is the third person injured in the same manner at the Sturgis building. George Conkle, Seventh street automobile mechanic suffered a fractured vertebrae in a fall down the shaft about four months ago and for several weeks was a patient in the hospital. The other victim was Frank O'Hanlon, Sr., of Grant street, who sustained less serious injuries.

The elevator gates which were being installed today when Farmer was injured were a safeguard against further accidents of this kind.

W. D. SHEPHERD DENIES MURDER OF M'CLINTOCK

CROWD PRESENT

Refutes All Charges Made Relative to Chicago Death.

CHICAGO, June 23.—William Darling Shepherd, charged with the murder of his millionaire foster son, William Nelson McClintock, today took the witness stand in his own defense.

A crowd which had begun to gather long before today's session started and which battled for admission to the courtroom strained forward as the defendant, his face wan with the prison pallor and his iron gray hair, waved back from his forehead, mounted the steps to the witness chair.

He looked coldly and dispassionately as the eager faces turned toward him for a moment and then settled back for the direct examination of Attorney William S. Stewart, chief of his counsel.

Ringing Denial of Counts

"You are charged here with administering various forms of poison," Stewart intoned in a loud clear voice. "Did you administer poison?"

"I did not," Shepherd replied steadily.

Again and again, as the attorney went slowly through the various charges in the indictment came that ringing denial:

"I did not."

This constituted the burden of the direct testimony, a simple affirmation of his previous statements that he had not conspired to obtain William Nelson McClintock's fortune by his death, had not innoculated him with typhoid germs and had, when the boy was stricken with the disease, done

PARIS, June 23.—Disorders, marked by fist fighting, broke out in the chamber of deputies this afternoon.

The row started immediately after a speech by Premier Painleve in which he charged French Communists were in working cooperation with Russian Communists to aid the Moors in their war against France and Spain in Morocco.

PLANE CRASHES, PILOT BURNED

J. O. Webster, in Air Mail Service, Seriously Injured.

J. O. Webster, 29, U. S. mail pilot, and former East Liverpool resident, is in a Chicago hospital today, suffering from serious burns, sustained last night, when his government plane, crashed to the ground at Ellington Field, Maywood, a suburb of Chicago.

Word of the accident was received by Mrs. Louise Polk, owner of the Thompson House, Broadway, from her daughter, the victims' wife, formerly Gertrude Polk. In the telephone message Mrs. Webster failed to give the details of the accident.

Webster has been engaged in the mail service, flying at night out of the Chicago station. He was the only occupant of the plane, when it was wrecked and burst into flames, just as he was leaving the aviation field. Webster was badly burned over his entire body before he was extricated from the blazing wreckage.

Webster was a lieutenant in the air service during the World war, acting as a flying instructor in one of the training camps in this country. He married Miss Polk about five years ago and since then has been residing in Chicago.

LEGION SEEKS $2,700 QUOTA IN ENDOWMENT FUND CAMPAIGN

Drive for Disabled Veterans and War Orphans Planned.

OPENS WEDNESDAY

Post Members Will Make Appeal to Public.

A campaign to raise a $2,700 quota in a $10,000,000 endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans of the World war, will be launched by members of East Liverpool Post No. 4, American Legion, Wednesday.

The endowment campaign is in full swing throughout the Buckeye state this week, and many of the posts are reported to have reached their quotas in the first day of the drive. The drive has the endorsement of President Coolidge, Governor A. V. Donahey, Senators Willis and Fess and other prominent statesmen.

Manufacturers, business men and the general public will be asked to contribute. The canvass will be in charge of Legion members, assisted by business men who have promised their assistance.

While the entire week has been set aside by Governor Donahey as the "American Legion Endowment Week" the local post plans to complete the work in four days.

Fifteen of the 48 states have already gone "over the top" in the campaign. Ohio hopes to report its $500,00 quota as having been subscribed by Saturday night.

The $10,000,000 fund will be disbursed by a trust committee in caring for the disabled veterans and in educating and supporting their children in order that they may not become objects of public charity as a result of injuries, wounds or illness which resulted from their father's participation in the World war.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., June 23.—Striking miners came here today in large numbers to attend a mass meeting scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, when Philip Murray, Indianapolis, vice president of the United Mine Workers, will share the platform with Van A. Bittner, national organizer.

Bittner's address here tomorrow will be his first since the speech at Clarksburg in which he is reported to have bitterly assailed state police, classing them with mine guards.

Recently Bittner was sentenced to six months in jail for contempt of the Marion county court. This case has not been settled.

COOLIDGE OFF TO SWAMPSCOTT FOR VACATION

Presidential Party Will Spend Two Months in Massachusetts.

SPECIAL TRAIN

Mayflower, Carrying Domestic Personnel, Arrives.

Golf bags and tennis rackets were conspicuous by their absence insofar as the presidential baggage is concerned. Mr. Coolidge accepted the offer of a "summer White House" at Swampscott from his old friend, Frank W. Stearns, with the sole idea of getting away from official Washington to a spot where he could enjoy a complete rest—and the accepted forms of summer recreation do not appeal to the president as restful.

The presidential train—and it is again a "special"—pulled out of the local terminal a few minutes after 1 o'clock this afternoon. It is due to reach Salem, Mass., early tomorrow

W. S. Foulks presided. Corporal Alex Grossman, in charge of the U. S. army recruiting station, addressed the boys, discussing army discipline, military courtesy and other phases of camp life in which they will receive instruction during the 30-day period.

The camp will open July 2 and close July 31. Trainees will be provided with uniforms, food, shelter, entertainment and travel pay between their homes and the camp, all at the expense of the government.

COUNCIL VOTES APPROVAL OF EIGHTH STREET IMPROVEMENT

Farrall Casts Only Vote Against Tripartite Plan.

ELLIS WILL ACT

Resurfacing of Second Street Ordered by 5 to 2 Ballot.

Completion of the West Eighth street improvement from West End school to the corporate limits became a certainty last night, when city council, at a special meeting, adopted a resolution approving tripartite plans for the improvement and authorized the service director to enter into a contract with the county commissioners for the work.

Farrell Objects to Property Cost.

The resolution was adopted by a vote of 6 to 1, Councilman Thomas Farrall alone opposing it. The plan was supported by Solons, Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe, Eardley, Kerr and Hayes. As soon as Service Director Ellis negotiates the contract with the commissioners, the job will be advertised and awarded.

Councilman Farrall criticized the cost of the private property bordering on West Eighth street which must be purchased in the proposed improvement. "Put the matter up for a referendum and I'll vote for it, otherwise I'll vote against it," he warned.

Councilman Chambers in reply asserted that council had been attempting to devise ways and means for several years to improve Shadyside avenue, but inasmuch as the abutting propety could not stand the assessment, the city was powerless. He declared that under the terms of the offer made by the township trustees this street could be graded and surfaced without cost to the city, provided the city proceeded with the West Eighth street job.

The resolution was passed on three readings under suspension of the rules, Solon Farrall voting "nay" upon every roll call. However, with the other six members supporting it the necessary three-fourth majority to suspend the rules was available.

Second Street Ordinance.

Despite the opposition of Solons Farrall and Kerr, council also enacted, on third reading, the ordinance "determining to proceed with the resurfacing of Second street from the C. & P. railroad crossing to Market street."

Farrall made a final effort to halt the improvement of the street without first removing the street car tracks, when he produced a sample of what he claimed to be the wooden ties taken from Mulberry street recently when the tracks were lifted from that thoroughfare. The sample readily crumbled between the fingers.

EITHER WIDOW OR OLDEST SON WILL RUN FOR SENATE SEAT MADE VACANT BY LA FOLLETTE'S DEATH

BY KENNETH CLARK.

MADISON, June 23.—A member of the LaFollette family, either the widow or the oldest son, Robert, Jr., will make the race for the United States senate seat made vacant by the death of Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin.

This was the definite program announced by national and state Progressive leaders here today for holding together harmoniously and unitedly the great political organization built by the dead senator.

The ominous war clouds that floated low over the Wisconsin political horizon have lifted and the Progressives, after a series of quiet conferences, have ironed out threatening disrupting differences and agreed to present a solid front in attempting to send a LaFollette again to the senate.

Aspiring staff officers who had cast eyes toward Washington were told bluntly that they could not expect the support of senate Progressives who feel that, for political reasons, either Mrs. LaFollette or "Young Bob," as he is called here, should make the race.

Senator Norris' Warning.

The warning was sounded by Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska, a La Follette lieutenant in the senate, who issued a statement today declaring that "petty jealousies and personal abmitions must be forgotten." It was particularly directed at the officials who have quietly let drop the hint that they would not be adverse to contesting for the seat.

"The Progressives of the nation are looking to their brethren in Wisconsin to make no mistake at this critical hour," Norris said. "The death of our great leader must not be taken as any disintegration in our ranks. The echo of the clarion voice of La Follette which lead during his life must be the rallying cry at his grave.

"From the silence of the death chamber, there comes no wailing cry of discouragement or despair. He died as he lived, the same brave, courageous, double-fisted fighting Bob.

"Humanity's cause for which he lived and for which he gave his life demands our united service and our loyal fidelity.

"The banner of human freedom that has fallen from his hands must be raised along and the fight carried on until happiness shall come to every home and joy be enthroned at every fireside."

Await Mrs. La Follette's Decision

Norris' declaration was made after a visit to the La Follette farm where he saw Mrs. La Follette and Robert and was understood to have the full approval of such Senate Progresives as Brookhart of Iowa; Shipstead of Minnesota, and Wheeler of Montana, who attended the funeral rites.

It was regarded with great significance by political leaders here who saw in it a direct declaration of Norris' definite alignment with the so-called "insurgent bloc" of the senate.

Progressives are approaching the question of selecting a successor to La Follette from an entirely practical point of view. They are not letting sentiment guide their political judgment. They feel, with the family, that Senator La Follette would have wished them to carry on the fight as vigorously as he has done for so many years.

By merely dropping a hint that she wanted it, Mrs. La Follette could have the entire Progressive support. That is certain, and has been assured her from all quarters. But she is disinclined to become candidate. When the question first was called to her attention, she said she didn't care to become a candidate, that she had no love for political office.

The selection of a candidate awaits her decision.

BANDIT LEADER, WHO SOUGHT TO KILL BULGAR KING, IS SLAIN

Bonass is Shot to Death in Battle With Police.

PALS CAPTURED

Boris' Ring and Adjutant's Watch Found on Outlaw's Body.

SOFIA, June 23.—The bandit leader Bonass, who sought the life of King Boris, of Bulgaria, was killed today resisting soldiers who cornered him and his band in the mountains. Bonass' followers were captured, after two of them had been wounded.

On Bonass' body was found a ring which had been taken from King Boris himself and the watch which belonged to his adjutant, who was slain in the attack on the king.

Boris escaped the assassins, who were believed at the time to have acted in conjunction with widespread Communist-Agrarian plot, by seizing the wheel of his automobile and driving it at break neck speed away from the scene of attack.

The king was attacked on a country road while returning to Sofia. The same afternoon General Georghieff, leader of the government party, was slain in Sofia. At Georghieff's funeral, the Sveti Kral cathedral was bombed and upwards of 160 lives were lost.

Witness in Divorce Case Faces Court On Serious Count

NEW YORK, June 23.—A plea of not guilty was entered today by Talbot W. Chambers when he appeared before Justice Ford in the supreme court charged with a statutory crime as an outcome of his testimony in the divorce suit of Thomas H. Symington, of New York, Baltimore and Rochester, millionaire dealer in railroad supplies.

Justice Ford set the hearing of the charge against Chambers for 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The arrest of Chambers was made at the request of Max D. Steuer, counsel for Mrs. Symington, defendant in the divorce action. Chambers testified several days ago to acts which he said had taken place in his own and Mrs. Symington's apartment.

COLUMBUS, June 23.—The murder of J. W. Governor Donahey, on June 11, wrote Governor Smith requesting an investigation, and in his letter said he had been informed by investigators that Prine had been shot by Dr. R. E. Watts. Prine died May 31.

under Second street," he declared. "I appeal to other members of council to be fair in this matter. You made sure that the rails be lifted on Mulberry street, and why can't you be just as fair with the downtown streets. I have always been against resurfacing Second street with the tracks down, am now and always will be."

Upon roll call Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe, Eardley and Hayes voted for the ordinance, while Kerr and Farrall opposed it." Bids for the improvement will be sought at an early date.

Farrall's Explanation.

At the close of the meeting, Councilman Farrall issued the following statement, setting forth his reasons for opposing the West Eighth street improvement:

"I was elected by the people to take care of their interests and believe it to be my duty to oppose this improvement. I believe that the city's bonded indebtedness is already too high. After we pay the interest on outstanding bonds there is little left to meet the city's operating expenses.

"We have only about one-half of the number of police and firemen that we should have and are without funds to increase the personnel of either department. You can readily see what our position will be by issuing $30,000 or $40,000 worth of bonds more. It will mean additional taxes, for we cannot stand further cuts in the police and fire fighting forces.

"I will vote for the issue if it is submitted to a referendum vote of the taxpayers, for it is the taxpayers who must pay the bonds in the end, and they should have the right to a vote, and not for a few to decide this question.

"It is easy for municipalities and social reformers to demand schemes that cost vast sums of money, but the public pays the bills. A tailor cuts his coats according to his cloth but council takes the chance of making both ends meet. People should cease to live with their heads in the clouds, come down to earth and the practical facts of life."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 23—The stock market derived considerable satisfaction from President Coolidge's promise to recommend a substantial cut in income taxes next year and all divisions of the speculative market were buoyant in the early trading today. General Motors retainin its position at the head of the motor stocks. Reaching another peak price at $1 for a gain of more than a point.. The public steel, cooper and specialty stocks made a better showing than in the last few sessions, and oil stocks, after losing ground at the opening of the market, swung into a more buoyant price movement.

Rumors of special melon-cutting for General Motors led to heavy buying of that stock and its market record in the last week or so has been in sharp contrast to the sluggishness and reactionary tendency displayed in the previous month. After the dividend rate was advanced from 5 to 6 per cent the stock dropped steadily from 79 to 68 1-2. Last week the stock sold at 75 1-2.

North American company, Electric Light and Power and other utility stocks went forward to fractionally higher price levels on a fairly large volume of business. American Locomotive and Baldwin, in the equipment group, Chile and Kennecott in the coppers, and Gulf States in the independent steels, made fractional advances.

The temporary tightening of the money market is due to preparations in the banking institutions for dividend and interest disbursements in the first week of July, the heaviest reinvestment season in the year. Call money renewals were marked down to 4 per cent, against yesterday's closing rate at 4½ per cent. Outside markets were generally steady and commodity prices firm.

Truck Owner Pays $10 for Damages To "Silent Cop"

It cost a Cleveland truck owner $10 for damages today to the "silent Policeman' at the intersection of St. Clair avenue and Broadway.

The sign was moved several inches off its foundation by the impact with the machine. Chief of Police McDermott and Patrolman Haley apprehended the driver of the car later in the day. He agreed to settle.

Chief McDermott issued a warning that automobile drivers who maliciously damage the new traffic signs, which have just been erected in the business district will be severely dealt with.

Democrat, if that Democrat would agree to put them there—and 9 Republicans whitewashed the rascals.

In the year of Our Lord 655 the Arabian general Amroo conquered Egypt and became governor of the land in the time of Omar.

Omar supplanted Mohammed as caliph and treated the Christians decently when he captured Jerusalem and built the great mosque of Omar on the site of King Solomon's temple.

Amroo, as pious as Omar, built in Cairo to honor the name of Allah and the glory of Mohammed the fine mosque that bears his name.

Now, the Egyptians, allowed to boss their own country once more, will rebuild the mosque of Amroo and offer cash prizes for the best three plans.

You can't replace such a mosque with mere "plans." You must have back of your building the fury, fire, and faith of those Mohammedan Arabs that swept over Europe.

Better for self governing Egypt to build something modern—an irrigation plant, using Nile waters more efficiently, good public baths or even a skyscraper. There is nothing to be gained by looking to the past, everything is in the future.

DAPPER DAN CASWELL DIES

Pneumonia Claims Ohio Youth Who Squandered Fortune.

NEW YORK, June 23.—"Broadway," that part of it that makes up the bright lights and tinsel, was stunned toady at the news that "Danny" Caswell is dead.

"Danny," the dapper, smiling college boy, came from Cleveland six years ago and squandered a fortune. He was 19 then and fond of the girls. He married two of them, well-known to Broadway, Jessie Reed, once billed as "the highest paid chorus girl in the world," and after they were divorced, June Castleton, also of the "Follies."

So Broadway knew Danny."

Broadway hadn't seen much of "Danny" in the last year or so. They knew he had squandered a fortune. They learned he was "disinherited" and about a year ago they read he had suffered a nervous breakdown from which he recovered.

Only a few of "Danny's" old Broadway friends knew that five weeks ago he was admitted to St. Luke's hospital suffering from typhoid fever. Pneumonia set in and yesterday he died.

He was only 25, and next year, he was to have inherited $500,000 put in trust by his father, the late Daniel Caswell, a prominent real estate operator of Cleveland.

His best friend, his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Caswell, was with "Danny" when he died. She is taking his body home today.

W. D. Shepherd

everything in his power to bring him back to health.

Crowe Cross-Examines.

Shepherd also denied that he ever had written a letter to the National University of Sciences, where, the state asserts, he applied for a course in bacteriology, that he did not know John P. Marchand, salesman for the school, nor Charles C. Faiman, its head, and his co-defendant in the present case. Never until the present case came up had he seen them, he said.

All during the testimony he kept his eyes fixed on Stewart, and only the tone of his voice as he gave answer to the questions gave indications of the nervous strain caused by the ordeal.

It was a short examination—possibly the shortest on record in any case which has attracted so much prominence.

Then Stewart turned the witness over for the dreaded cross-examination of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe.

"About 49," Shepherd answered.

"Ever study chemistry?"

"In high school."

It soon became apparent that Crowe's questioning was directed to establishing his contention that Shepherd, during the greater part of his life, had been dependent upon others for support.

At length, Crowe reached the time when the Shepherds came to live with the McClintock's.

"Did you pay them anything?" he asked Shepherd.

"Yes, I paid Mrs. McClintock $50 a month from Feb. 1, 1918, to Nov. 1 the same year.

"Included your wife's keep?"

"Yes."

"Did you drive the family car?"

"Yes."

Government Heads Heed President's Plea for Economy

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Enjoined by President Coolidge to prosecute a campaign of relentless economy that the next congress may reduce the tax burden of the American people, government heads today began the preparation of expense estimates for the two years beginning June 30.

The president, addressing the semi-annual business meeting of department heads last night, limited expenditures in this period to approximately $6,750,000,000 exclusive of postal costs.

For the first year government cost will be about $3,375,000,000, appropriation for which has already been made. The president asked his department chiefs to keep within that figure eand to limit their estimates for the year beginning June 30, 1926 to $3,080,000,000.

"The way has been paved for further tax reduction," President Coolidge declared. "This I will recommend to congress in the next budget."

The Lasting Fashion of a Good Complexion.

When grandmother was a girl, she pinched her cheeks to make them pink or put cold water on them. "No lady," she said, "wouldn't paint her face". That's almost true today, but not quite. No lady will paint her face—much. But will she use cosmetics? More than ever!

For though it may seem rank heresay, Nature can be improved upon. It must be done carefully, of course. Just any shade of rouge won't do; it must vary according to the time of day, and the kind of frock and color; and not neceessarily last and not at all least, the mood of the lady and the weather.

First, of course, it should vary according to the type of the lady—whether she be a blonde, brunette or whatever—but that goes without saying. And there must be just enough, and not too little—above all, not too much.

Of course, those who make all these delightful powders and things that adorn milady's dressing table have anticipated her whims and caprices in the matter and are ready to gratify her good taste.

In our Toilet Goods section you will find every good powder, cream, rouge, perfume, talcum powder, toilet water, compact and many, many other things you'll like.

GAS SERVICE FOR SUBURBS

Extend Mains to Ross Meadows and Glenmoor.

The Manufacturers' Light & Heat company is preparing to provide gas service in Ross Meadows and Glenmoor.

A six-inch line extending from the present mains which run as far as Sherwood will be laid to a point about 800 feet west of Stop 55 crossing on the Lincoln highway, a distance of about two and one-half miles. A two-inch main will also tap the larger pipe, paralelling the Y. & O. railroad at Stop 55.

Pipe for the extension is already on the road and work on laying it will be started this week. The main will be laid on the dirt section in order to prevent tearing up the improved part of the highway.

The new line is expected to serve about 65 consumers. About a dozen or more residents of Glenmoor have attached their property to a privately-owned gas well, which service them during the summer months but which, it is said, cannot meet the demands during cold weather.

Find Ancient Cemetery in Greek Excavations

Washington.—Important excavations in a prehistoric cemetery are about to be undertaken in Greece under auspices of the American School of Classical Study at Athens, according to information received by Prof. Edward Capp of Princeton university.

Work now being done at Corinth within the area of an old theater has resulted in several interesting finds. The operations at Corinth are regarded as the most important started by American archeologists in Greece and were made possible by gift from Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Morgan and Dr. T. Leslie Shear of Princeton.

Several pieces of statuary have been unearthed, as well as much pottery. Dr. Shear, who is in charge at Corinth, has also discovered the conduits leading to the source of the ancient water supply which brought water from Acrocorinth to the Fountain of Glauce, named after the wife of Jason the Argonaut, who was murdered by Medea.

The prehistoric cemetery which has been discovered will be the scene of new excavations. This work is made possible by a gift from the estate of Joseph C. Hoppin, of Boston, and is in charge of the assistant director of the American school, Dr. C. W. Blegen.

Britains Credited With Music Culture By M. Koussewitzky

LONDON — England has musical culture, whereas in America there is only a vast musical intellect.

That's the verdict of M. Koussewitzky, here to conduct three concerts by the London Symphony orchestra.

"The day of American composers is yet to come," Koussewitzky said. "I think it probable that the first American musician who writes really great music will base it on jazz motifs. Jazz has a tremendous effect on the mentality of the eneral public in Americga and it cannot fail to have its influence on American music."

Ballots For Absent Voters

Vacationists, vote before you leave home!

This suggestion was made today by the Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of elections, when announcement was made that the polls for absent voters would open July 12.

The law permits an elector who expects to be absent from his home precinct on election day to apply for ballots not earlier than 30 days nor later than three days before the municipal primaries which are scheduled for Tuesday, August 11.

And if the elector so desires he may cast his ballot in the headquarters of the election board before he leaves on a vacation or business trip. If absent from his home city, he should mail his application, and ballots willl be forwarded to him.

Thus there is no excuse for failure of electors in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salineville, Lisbon, Leetonia, Columbiana, East Palestine and Salem to vote in the August primaries. A request delivered by Uncle Sam will bring the ballots.

Humility Day

July 1 is to be observed in Japan as "Humiliation Day," in memory of the United States Japanese exclusion act. China celebrated a special humiliation day not long ago, in memory of the 21 points insisted upon by Japan before her release of the Shantung peninsula.

Other nations have not yet established humiliation days, although one could easily figure out suitable events to be so commemorated all over Europe. Spain and Germany and France and even Italy and Belgium and all the rest have had troubles in recent years which might easily be considered humiliating.

But why have humiliation days? Why dwell on humiliating history? Plain humility days would be more to the point. The United States could then join in the celebration. There might even be a great international humility day, on which the nations could turn their attention to acts of humble courtesy, striving the while to achieve at least temporary freedom from pride and arrogance.

Debt Payments

European debtors are really paying their debts. On June 15, the same day that Americans had to pay their income taxes, the United States treasury received about $69,000,000 on foreign war loans. Most of it was from Great Britain, or largest debtor and readiest payer. But it should be observed that remittances came also from Finland, Hungary. Lithuania and Poland.

These little nations have done better than some of the big ones. France, whose debt ranks in size next to England's, though talking much about paying, has never yet made any concrete proposals to pay, and is not likely to do so as long as she has active wars to finance. Italy's attitude is still more distant and vague. It seems unlikely that refunding arrangements can be made with either of those powers on any basis acknowledging their indebtedness, principal and interest. There will probably have to be drastic concessions, if America is to collect anything at all from them.

Suppressing Indecency

"Art," says a representative of the board, "covers a multitude of sins. Musical comedy producers, editors of magazines and even the photographers are using it as an excuse for improper business, in violation of American principles and in many cases in violation of law."

It is a good work, if wisely conducted. Reform is needed, if the country is to be kept free from the obscenity that is flaunted unchanllenged in many foreign countries. Much of the entertainment now provided on the stage and much of the matter in periodicals sent through the mails and exhibited on news stands is far below the standards of decency and taste maintained heretofore in America.

The essential thing is not to do the reforming with a club, in matters of such delicacy as art and literature. Such work calls for fine discrimination.

Indian Baseball

The Indians played ball in this country before the white man came. More than that, they played major league ball, if the autobiography of Black Hawk is to be credited. He tells how this was the great sport so far back that the memory of the red man runneth not to the contrary, and how big games used to be played in the Mississippi valley among friendly tribes, with 500 to 1,000 men playing on a side.

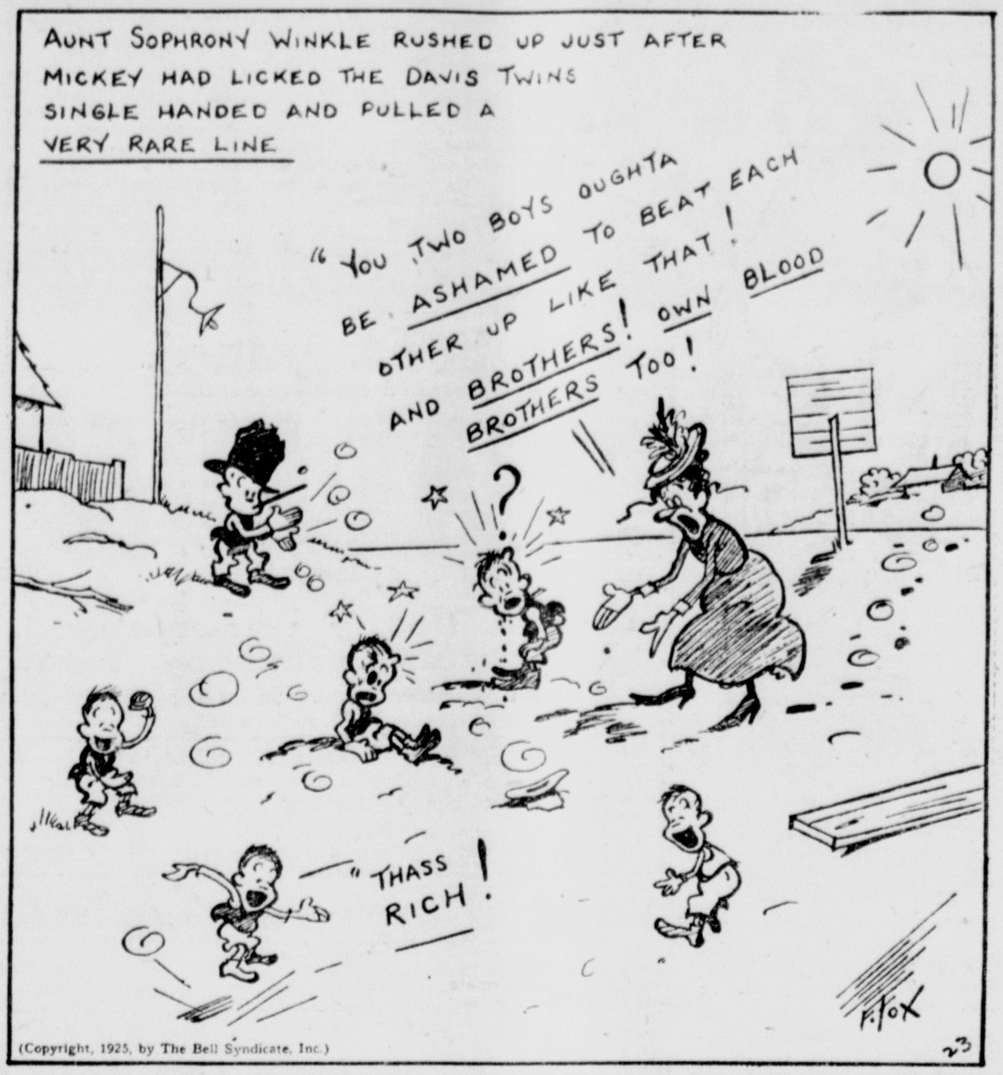

This, needless to say, was not exactly our modern baseball. According to one authority, it combined the chief elements of baseball, football, basketball, lacrosse and hockey.

Anyway, it is evident now why ball is our national game. It must be in the soil or the climate.

Victor Emmanuel of Italy has now reigned exactly 25 years. That is to say, he's been king that long.

Jazz may be "dead," as repeatedly announced by musical critics, but if so, it's certainly haunting the dance halls.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Old Berkeley Stirs Again.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23.—The name Berkeley Springs above a current news dispatch brings memories. It recalls the days of perwigs and powdered hair, minuets and gallantry, chivalry as it existed in romantic antebellum days. The item in the new states that a hotel and sanitarium company has been chartered with $1,000,000 capital stock to build a mammoth hotel.

Thus begins a new chapter in the interesting story of the village which owns a glorious past. Berkeley is situated in the northeastern tip of West Virginia. It was a watering place where the aristocracy of two centuries went to play and take the water cure. The nobility of merrie England and the gentility of colonial America went there to disport themselves in the fashion of the period. They journeyed in their coaches, drawn by the best blooded horses of the time, to put up at the Inn near the warm springs which were noted from Boston to Richmond.

The first word of Berkeley descends to us from the pen of George Washington himself. It was written when he was surveying what was then northern Virginia for its aristocratic and noble owner, Lord Fairfax. He declaims in his notes that on one occasion in 1748, he was delayed by a flood and took the opportunity to visit "ye famed warm springs,' and thereupon ends his discourse and whether he loved himself he does not say.

Lord Fairfax owned the springs and all their environs. Tradition has it that this altruistic nobleman contributed them to the state for the benefit of its good people, and folk about Berkeley believe it.

A Stingy Old Lord.

There are certain official records, however, which would contradict tradition, and would show that the lord was not the philanthropist that folk tell about. In one of these records is set forth a petition which states that four hundred people were gathered about the springs, taking the baths for their health, and that they had no adequate shelter. The petition further declares that Lord Fairfax would not permit the hewing of a single tree with which to build a cabin. It therefore demands that the state take the lands away from the noble lord and donate them to the people.

The appeal was addressed to the Continental Congress and it was granted. A town was laid out and named Bath, following English precedent, and lots of a quarter-acre were offered for sale. To prevent speculation every one who bought a lot had also to build a house on it. George Washington bought two of the lots and about a third of the entire town was bought by the officers of his army.

So Berkeley Springs was founded and it straightway sprang into prominence. That was the day of duels and gallantry and fashion deemed one's season a failure unless a part of it were spent at the Bath of America. The warm spring had been dug out so that a great basin was formed and a sort of stockade built around it, where the ladies and gentlemen bathed at set hours, subject to the winding of a hunting horn.

Brains followed fashion and it became the resort of the intelligents of long ago. David Hunter Strother, who wrote under the name of Porte Crayon, lived there. Among his guests was that distinguished New Yorker, Washington Irving, the first American man of letters upon whom the British deigned to cast their appraising eyes. The little house where he penned his sketches is still standing. Berkeley was associated with the birth of American literature as well as American independence and American society.

George Took Martha There.

Martha Washington is said to have been especially found of the springs, though it is not certain whether she came to cure her rheumatism or to mingle with society. The bathing dress she wore during her wedding trip to Berkeley is a prized relic. There is little said about her illustrous husband, but he must have been a frequent visitor. There is a giant elm, known as the Washington elm, which Berkeley folk would have you know he planted. As the infant nation grew, so grew the fame of the healing springs. In the half century prior to the Civil war the little valley was the gayest place in America. place in the public mind that Newport and Palm Beach do now. It was not merely gay; it was scandalous. It is difficult to imagine some of the early gallants and their hoop-skirted ladies indulging in indiscretions, but conventions seem to be thin-skinned whether it be the nineteenth or twentieth centuries.

There was a hotel then with rooms for five hundred guests, and there were numerous and splendid private mansions. The oldest of the bath houses, which was still standing several years ago, was built more than one hundred years past, so that the open bathing of Revolutionary days had been displaced by little private baths with tiled plunges and trained attendants. Berkeley was sophisticated, intellectual and luxurious in 1860. It was deserted two years later. The men rode off to fight, and the women went away to save and sew. Alas for Berkeley! Its golden age was done. Where there had been the sound of strings and the swish of skirts, there was nothing but the call of birds and the silence of the hills.

Virginia and West Virginia had a lawsuit over the ownership of Berkeley and West Virginia won out. But it mattered little. There were attempts at rejuvenating it, but they failed. Finally a promoter took it over who had better success and many strangers again registered at the old Washington Hotel. The bath house was renovated and Berkeley roused somewhat from its lethargy. Now comes a new corporation with dreams of again making it America's premier society playground.

Whether Berkeley again scales the heights of fame it fell from, or remains in continued somnolence, it has owned as citizen a modern gentleman of letters who enriched his period with a talent so colorful that in time it may be adjudged as equal to that of the great Washington Irving who graced the springs by his presence in the earlier and greater days. Herbert Quick, lamented author of "Vandemark's Folly," lived at Berkeley Springs.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 23.—This is the time of year for the seasonal yelp of returning pilgrims from Mathattan: "New York's nice to visit but I'd hate to live there." Many years here have tended to a belief that most New Yorkers want to leave the town flat and the majority outside ache to come here.

As a matter of fact few visitors see the real New York. They see only that section that emits the sickly glow—like a rotting phosphorescent fish. New York to them is a wild mixture of jazz, bare legs, shimmy and tea cup hooch.

In fact I think many New Yorkers like to get away now and then because they find it deadly dull. I know I do and I'm one of the sort who will stand in front of a street fakir with a trick knife through his wrists until the police shoo me away.

The real New York is not bounded on the north by Columbus Circle or on the south by Herald Square. I know many men who do not see Broadway in a year's time, and no farther north than 100th street there are folks ho never saw the wriggly acrobats jiggle on the Putnam Building.

There are thousands who are whisked underground to their office buildings, whisked back home again at night to spend the evening crossword puzzling or attending the neighborhood movie. They are abed the time the jazz mosques are tuning up.

Aunt Sarah—the one with the chin mole and wet kisses—comes to wont, goes shopping all day, the theatre three nights running, the supper afterwards and then gasps: "Pon my word, I don't see how you folks stand it," and goes back home to the smelling salts.

Most of the hotel foyers are deserted after midnight. And even the out-of-towners are sound asleep. The straggling groups you see in all night haunts are chronic loafers who go the rounds night after night. Real New York has too much to do to sit up all night.

The green serpentine sign of Joel's cafe back of the Metropolitan has fileekered out. Joel has closed. His closing was not a prohibitory click of the padlock. Joel was simply tired of the game. For many years his cafe was the after midnight haunt of morning newsjajermen and artists. Fornaro, the caricaturist, was usually there and the walls were plastered with original drawings and comic strips. Joel catered also to actor folk and in a gilt sign at the head of the stairway urged players to send their money to him when they were out trooping. Many did. Joel was an affable poseur. His name is Joel Rinaldo and he wrote weighty saleless tomes on the polygenreic theory while specializing in frijoles colorado and chili con carne. In other days Joel fashioned a drink known as the "Blue Moon." It was blue in color and high powered in action. He served only one to each customer but it kept the patron pleasantly mellow the rest of the evening.

Another famous drink in Joel's neighborhood in the old days was served at The Poodle Dog. It was known as the Blitzen. A mild mannered little man whose head perked over his celluloid collar like that of a turtle came into the place one night. At a waiter's suggestion he quaffed a Blitzen. "See that fellow dancing with the pretty blonde?" said the waiter casually. "That's Kid McCoy, the pugilist."

"Is that so?" said the mild-mannered little man, shedding his coat. "Well take a squint at a new champion."

Before he could be stopped he rushed out on the floor and swung a blow on McCoy's jaw. The Kid returned a mild jab with a smile and they carried the victim to an ante room feet up. After a time one eyelid flickered feebly. Then he sat up.

"Tell McCoy" he murmered, "that I'll pay all his hospital expenses. I'm just a devil when I drink."

Corn Hasn't Come Back In 7 Years Since Removed This Way

"I had a seeded callus right under my large toe that pained every time I stepped. While I was drilling, it tortured me! Then I put on a 'Blue-jay' Plaster and I haven't been bothered since." Thus writes H. Brentlinger, 1625 S. 11th St., Terre Haute, Ind., of his experience with "Blue-jay" while training for the army.

Callus or corn—whatever it was—"Blue-jay" removed it more than 7 years ago and Mr. Brentlinger hasn't been bothered since. The "Blue-jay" Plaster is a safe way to end a corn—no danger of infection as when you pare a corn. And "Blue-jay" is sure. The felt ring of each Plaster holds just the right amount of "Blue-jay" preparation to remove a corn gently, as prescribed by a skillful chemist. The preparation is centered in the ring. An adhesive strip holds it right on top of the corn—nowhere else! 48 hours later the corn lifts right out.

A stubborn corn sometimes—not often—requires a second plaster, but even the first plaster gives instant relief. Because the felt ring encircles the corn and removes all painful shoe pressure. A liquid cannot do that. Also, you might drop on too much liquid, or too little and not get the right results. Hence we recommend "Blue-jay" Plasters as better than any liquid, even than our own. Package of six "Blue-jay" Corn Plasters, 25c. So much in demand, all druggists carry them. Try them. Two days later, write us your experience. "Blue-jay" Laboratories, 25th and Dearborn Sts., Chicago, Ill.

TRAINING CAMPS PROVE POPULAR

Already 25 Per Cent of Quota for 1925 Is Filled.

New York.—With the 1925 citizens' military training camps still two months away, more than 25 per cent of the estimated quota attendance of 50,000 young men between the ages of 17 and 31 already has been enrolled, according to announcement by the War department. This is double the enrollment at this time last year, and this summer's quota will be 16,000 more than that of 1924.

Forty-two camps stretching across the continent from Fort McKinley, Maine, to the Presidio of San Francisco, will be opened this summer for the basic course, and the three advanced courses in which citizenship and physical training will be intermingled in the schedules with drill and instruction in the infantry, cavalry, field and coast artillery, engineers and signal corps branches of the military. Part of the camps run during the month of July and others during August, while Plattsburg, N. Y., will have two camps in succession.

The C. M. T. C. candidate is under no obligations except to spend thirty days of his time at one of the camps located near his home; the government meets the expense of carfare to and from the camp, clothing, equipment, meals, bedding, lodging and entertainment. The President's son or the millionaire's heir who sleeps by the side of the farmer's boy, marches beside him in the ranks and eats next him at the mess hall in this annual democratic leveler, pays the same amount for his thirty days' vacation and training, exactly nothing.

The Sixth army corps area so far leads among the nine areas in which the nation is divided by the war department for purposes of military administration. Fifty per cent of this section's quota of 5,600 already has been filled.

It includes the states of Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. Next is the Fifth corps area, including Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia, with 38.4 per cent of a quota of 6,000. Third is the Fourth corps area, including the southeastern states, with 36.6 per cent of a quota of 5,700.

Man a Colloid, Science Declares, Meaning Glue

Baltimore, Md.—Science today answered the question of the ages. For generation after generation has asked "What is man?" and the chemists today answered, "Man is a colloid."

Lest man should become unduly elated at his scientific distinction, the chemists went on to describe what a colloid is. Scientists have distinguished for a long time, they said, between crystalline substances, liquids and gases. About a quarter of a century ago they began to admit that in addition there existed a whole range of substances which were glues, or glue-like in nature. To these was applied the name "colloids," derived from "kolle," the Greek work for "glue." Man, according to the chemists, therefore, is a glue—a fact which explains much of his perseverance.

Observe Health Week in Ancient Greek City

Athens, Greece.—The ancient city of Corinth, where St. Paul worked as a tentmaker, has just completed arrangements for observance of "Health week" in an effort to prevent the annual spring outbreak of malaria, which has heretofore claimed several thousand victims annually. The campaign is under command of a Near East Relief nurse, Alice G. Carr of McRoe, Ga. Miss Carr's studies into the history of malaria in Corinth show that in the wars of 2,000 years ago more soldiers were killed by mosquitoes than in battle.

"Paths to Paradise," a riotously funny crook comedy, was adapted for the screen by Keene Thompson from Paul Armstrong's play, "The Heart of a Thief." Clarence Badger, director of "New Lives for Old" and "Eve's Secret" and who was also associated over a period of years with Mack Sennett as a producer of laugh films, directed the production.

Betty is the fictitious queen of a band of counterfeiters in San Francisco's Chinatown. Griffith pays a visit to their underworld den one day, and, believing him to be a sap, they take his bankroll away from him. He flashes a badge, however, and threatens the pack of them with prison, suggesting that they might buy their way out of the situation, which they do—only to discover that he's a more clever crook than they. The "police badge" he purposely leaves on the table when he skips out reads "San Francisco Gas Meter Inspector."

Fred Kelsey is cast as one of Betty's confederates in the production, while Tom Santschi has the role of the detective whom Griffith impersonates in a successful attempt to get his hands on some valuable gems at a fashionable reception. Bert Woodruff is the owner of the jewels over which Betty and Ray wage a regular battle of wits.

If there ever was a picture with a hand-picked cast, this is it. Remember Ray Griffith in "Forty Winks" and "The Night Club"?—the fact that he's in the cast is an entertainment guarantee for any picture.

INDIAN'S INCOME IS $1,000 A DAY

Cromwell, Okla.—Willie Alexander, 210-pound Creek Indian of Bixby, will give some other redskins of the Five Civilized Tribes a close race before the end of the year in a contest for the title of "richest Indian." Willie's income from his 80-acre allotment in the Cromwell field is now $1,000 a day. The Mid-Continent Production corporation has completed four wells on the tract that are producing 4,000 barrels a day. Of this the Indian receives an eighth. Sixteen wells may be drilled before the oil is exhausted. Willie is classed as an incompetent, and has a guardian who attends to his business matters.

The Alexander family is one of the luckiest of all families of the Creek tribe. Four brothers are receiving oil royalties from their allotments. The allotments of Sealy, Alex and Roley are in Okmulgee county, and were leased to the Cosden Oil and Refining company, which the Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation succeeded. Willie's allotment was chosen in the Seminole Indian nation. The others are in the Creek nation.

It was Sealy Alexander who recently appeared in court and asked that his guardian be instructed to invest part of his income in farm land that he might go to work and become a useful citizen. It was said this is the first time an incompetent Indian in Oklahoma has made such a request.

The Cromwell pool is spreading over other allotments, and Creek Indian incomes are likely to run between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000 this year. The pool is in a formerly wild section of the Seminole nation that had little value for either agricultural or grazing purposes.

HEALTH CHIEFS O. K. VETS' FARM

Foreign War Men's Sanatorium Site Gets Approval.

State and county health bodies have placed their stamp of approval on the proposed health camp, which the Columbiana County Veterans of Foreign Wars plan to establish along the Lincoln highway, west of Lisbon, it was announced today.

B. V. Bevier, assistant engineer for the state department of health, accompanied by Dr. T. T. Church, Salem, county health commissioner, and Gomer Lewis, county health officer who recently made an inspection of the 160-acre tract taken over by the veterans, were unanimous in their approval of the site. The farm affords an ideal location for a sanatorium and hospital site, they declare. Samples of the water have been taken for examination.

The veterans are preparing to clear the lake site and also to open a roadway into the lowlands for tourists and picnickers. A drive has already been launched to raise $10,000 to purchase the farm outright and to meet the cost of the proposed improvements.

The Manufacturers' association of Salem is among the first contributors to the proposed camp. Other large contributions also have been received.

Good luck now— every time—with all your Jams and Jellies . .

EVEN the ripest fruits and those you never could be sure of now jell perfectly every time. Just add Certo. It supplies the natural substance fruit must have to make a jelly.

Some fruits never have this jellying property; in all fruits it varies and grows less as the fruit ripens. That is why you never could be sure of your jam and jelly before and you could not use the ripe fruit even though you knew it had the finest flavor and color.

But now-a-days use Certo—it jellies every time. And just boil hard for a good minute. The short boil keeps in your jams and jellies all the natural flavor and color and all the precious fruit juice you used to have to boil away.

Such delicious jams, jellies and marmalades—so tender, clear and sparkling, you'll say you never had before. And with Certo you have half again more glasses than you ever made with that much fruit.

Millions of women use Certo. Order your bottle today. Your grocer has it. Douglas-Pectin Corp., Granite Bldg., Rochester, N. Y.

The Volost Militia chief acted in behalf of the women's section of the local communist organization.

Your Health

is affected by wrong hygienic habits

* * *

This NEW way in solving woman's oldest hygienic problem will mean much to you

SIXTY per cent of many women's disorders, doctors now point out, are often traceable to wrong hygienic methods.

Now there is a new way . . . a way that supplants the dangers and uncertainties of the old-time sanitary pad.

Physicians urge it. Women's doctors have adopted it. Hygienic authorities employ it. And your own peace of mind demands it. For it offers charm and immaculacy under any and all circumstances.

It absorbs 5 times the moisture of the ordinary cotton pad. And that means great protection.

It is as easily disposed of as a piece of tissue—that ends an old-time embarrassment.

It is deodorized. And that prevents danger of offense.

You can get it at any drug or department store, just by saying "Kotex." And that banishes the embarrassment of asking for a "sanitary pad."

Eight in every ten women in the better walks of life have adopted it. Which proves its benefits.

It will mean much to you in health, in daintiness and protection. It proves old ways a needless folly.

KOTEX

DEODORIZED

1 Protection: 5 times as absorbent as cotton pads. Absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture — and scientifically deodorized.

2 No laundry. Discard as easily as a piece of tissue.

3 Easy to buy, anywhere. You ask for them by name. Many stores keep them ready-wrapped — help yourself, pay the clerk, that is all.

No laundry—discard as easily as a piece of tissue.

Although 12 bids were submitted to the county commissioners Monday for grading the Summitville road in Franklin township, the job was awarded to Gibson and Bixby, of Kensington, on their bid of $23,696.89. This firm bid 48 cents per cubic yard for grading.

The second low bid submitted was that of Herman C. Armstrong, of Lisben, of $23,850.85, the difference between the first and second bid being $153.96.

The bid of Tatgenhorst & McLaughlin, of East Liverpool, and that of Bell & Son, of Flushing, O., were identical, being $23,844.56 each.

Other bids submitted were J. D. Paxson, Salem, $27,402.10; Youngstown Construction company, $29,266.57; E. E. McCartney, Youngstown, $25,980.25; H. R. Brown, Wellsville, $27,437.67; Riley & Riley, Youngstown, $26,841.86; Gray Brothers company, Youngstown, $28,918.13; J. P. Mumaw, Cambridge, $29,805.89; M. J. Angelo, Youngstown, $25,463.72.

The estimate on this job prepared by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk was $32,175.15 and the successful bidder was $8,478.26 under the estimate.

As soon as Gibson & Bixby file their bond with the county commissioners and it is approved by Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes, the firm will begin work.

This will be the first connecting link to be graded on the Salineville-Summitville-Lincoln highway road. When the Summitville road will be surfaced cannot be predicted, because the county commissioners at this time are "up against it" for road money.

The council of Salineville and the trustees of Washington township are in accord with the improvement of the Salineville-Summitville link in this road, but it is not likely any work will be done on that part of the road until next year. A part of this road from Salineville to Summitville lies within Fox township, Carroll county, and while the trustees of that township, also the county commissioners of Carroll look with favor upon the project, those officials have done nothing so far looking forward to the grading of the road.

RESURFACING OF ROAD IS PLANNED

Plans and specifications for the resurfacing of Lincoln way, Lisbon, from the Canton bridge east to Jackson street, a distance of slightly more than one mile, are being worked out by Village Engineer Herman C. Armstrong to be filed with council at its meeting in July.

Whether Willite or some similar surface treatment will be used has not been determined by council. However, the council is a unit in the need of the surface treatment, and the village now has more than $10,000 in its street fund to be used in this work.

The county has agreed to pay its proportionate share of the cost so far as county property is concerned, which is the street between North and South parks and the court house.

Widening Road.

Widening of the Salem-Lisbon road in Centre township is expected to be finished within two weeks, according to State Highway District Superintendent Kiltner. Slag has been dumped along the east side of the highway from the northern Lisbon corporate limits to the township line, and similar work is now being done on the west side of the road, the widening being done from north to south.

Replevin Action.

An action in replevin has been filed in common pleas court by Mrs. Michalina Schilling, of Salem, against Sheriff George Wright and the Dollar Savings and Trust company, of Youngstown.

The petitioner relates that furniture of the plaintiff is wrongfully detained and also her personal clothing, which was taken by the sheriff upon a court order. The petition also asks $100 damages.

Sebring Man Fined.

A fine of $50 and costs, six months in the Canton workhouse and forbidden to attend any dances in Columbiana county for six months was the setence handed down by Judge Lodge Riddle in Juvenile court when James Fall of Sebring was convicted of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The only part of the sentence to be suspended was that to the Canton workhouse.

Appropriation Will Be Asked to Meet Cattle Testing Needs

A general meeting of representatives of all commercial and civic organizations in this county has been called to meet in the Lisbon city building next Thursday evening for the purpose of preparing a petition to the county commissioners and others in authority to levy an appropriation to meet that state and federal aid being offered the county for the eradication of tuberculosis among cattle.

Representatives of Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, Granges and Farm Bureau members will be at this meeting, which is to be addressed by A. J. DeFossett, Federal Inspector in charge of Ohio State work; Dr. F. A. Zimmer, State Veterinarian and County Agent Floyd Lowers.

It will be pointed out at this meeting that the county is in need of additional funds to continue the eradication of tuberculosis among cattle and that more money would be available for use in this county for this work, should the county be in a position to match the state and federal aid that is available.

Dr. E. E. Stoner of Salem, who has returned from Belmont county, where the first area test has been finished, has resumed retest work in Franklin township. Before he left for Belmont, he had tested six herds in Franklin, and five reactors were located among 50 head of cattle.

McCrea Posts Bond.

Harold McCrea following his conviction in Probate court on a charge of non-support, has posted $300 bond that he would pay his wife $25 per month for the support of their child, and as a result a six months sentence to the Canton workhouse has been suspended by Judge Lodge Riddle. McCrea is to pay his wife $12.50 on the 1st and 15th of each month.

Land Leased.

Edwin R. Louden of Canton has taken a lease on 837 acres farm land in Hanover township for oil and gas drilling purposes. The farm owners are to receive $200 for each gas well, and $50 when a well produces gas, together with the one-eighth royalty on all oil produced.

FARM POULTRY

CONTROL OF ROUP BY SANITARY RULES

Contagious roup is probably caused by unsanitary conditions of the henhouse and yards. It is aggravated by cold, damp weather. Correction of the causes, so far as possible, is most advisable, as remedies are slow working and not sure in effect.

It causes a loss, not only from a heavy death rate, but also from the interference with egg production and weakened vitality in breeding. It is very contagious, especially in damp, cold weather, and attacks both young and old stock.

Contagious roup is probably easier to identify than any other poultry disease. It usually starts like a simple cold, with a thin, watery discharge from the nose and eyes. This secretion has a peculiar, offensive odor. Inflammation sets into the nasal passages, eyes and spaces just below the eyeballs. The birds then often cough and sneeze, breathing becomes noisy, and if the air passages of the nose become entirely blocked, they breathe through their mouths. The birds soon lose their appetite and become depressed, their wings drooping and their feathers ruffled. The secretions from the nose and eye change from fluid to a yellowish, cheese-like mass. This grows rapidly about the eyelids and the nostrils. One or both eyes become enlarged and swelling may appear on the head.

The exact cause is not known. Whatever it is, the organism is hard to kill, because it penetrates into the tissues. If the formations about the head are removed, the uneven bleeding surface which is left forms a new mass in 24 to 48 hours.

Infected birds carry the disease from place to place and infect others by contact. Food and water may become contaminated by the secretions from sick birds and healthy birds become infected in this way.

Roup is easily controlled by proper management and housing. Damp, unsanitary, poorly ventilated, overcrowded, drafty quarters are conducive to its spread. The first treatment is to remove the cause at once. Only valuable birds should have individual treatment. A simple cure for the sick bird is as follows: Place it in a dry, well-ventilated place away from the other birds, and give it plenty of fresh water and feed. Every morning and evening remove all the matter from the eyes and nostrils of the bird and dip its head into a solution of bichloride of mercury (1-1000). This is made by placing one 7.3 mercury bichloride tablet in a pint of water. Hold the bird firmly and immerse the head until the eyes are covered, keeping it there a few seconds or until it struggles. In most cases, the following procedure is advisable:

Dispose of bad cases by killing and burning them.

Isolate birds having colds.

Be sure quarters are dry and tight on all sides, with adequate opening in the front for ventilation and light to reach every part of the house.

Allow at least three square feet floor space per bird.

Place a little kerosene on the top of the drinking water or one 7.3-grain mercury bichloride tablet in a gallon of water in a nonmetal container. These should never be used more than ten days in succession.

Place one pound epsom salts per 100 birds in the drinking water or a wet mash.

Judgment in Feeding

Good judgment must be exercised in feeding the pullets after they are mature and are in their winter houses. Usually eight quarts of hard grain is fed to one hundred birds a day. One-third or one-fourth of this amount should be fed in the morning and the balance at night. When about half the birds are laying well they may require as much as ten or twelve quarts per day. Sometimes, however, eight quarts is too much and it is necessary to cut down on this amount. Mash should always be kept before them in hoppers or feeders.

Poultry Notes

Cull nonproducing hens.

Chickens need sunlight to prevent rickets.

• • •

It is a good plan during warm weather to keep a little earth spaded up in the shade of a tree for the fowls' dust bath.

• • •

Broilers and frys are most profitable when they reach the market before the slower-grown chicks are ready.

• • •

There are a good many different systems of feeding the young chicks and a good many feeds which are used for this purpose.

Commercial baby chicks scratch and chick mash may be fed to advantage in place of the home-mixed feeds and can be bought from almost any feed dealer.

• • •

The use of the large colony brooder stoves makes it possible to raise chicks in larger numbers and with less labor than can be done when the chicks are brooded with hens.

POULTRY

GETTING START IN POULTRY RAISING

The beginner in poultry raising should start in a small way. Mistakes are bound to be made by the beginner and difficult problems will be presented which must be solved before one can expect to make a success in the poultry business. There are two ways of starting in the business. One is to buy fowls in the fall of the year and the other is to buy eggs for hatching or baby chicks in the spring. Perhaps the buying of fowls in the fall is the safer method, but for the money invested the starting with eggs or baby chicks in the spring offers a larger opportunity.

In starting with poultry the beginner should first of all consider the purpose for which he wants to use the fowls. There are four general classes of fowls, the egg breeds, the meat breeds, general-purpose breeds and fancy or ornamental breeds.

The egg breeds include the smaller or medium-sized fowls, which are very active, quick to mature and which produce white-shelled eggs. They are mostly nonsitters or poor sitters and other fowls are usually kept if natural methods of incubation are used. The Leghorns, Anconas and Minorcas are typical breeds of this class.

The meat breeds represent the other extreme and are especially suitable for the production of roasters. Fowls of this class are slow and somewhat sluggish. They are easily confined with low fences, slow maturing, persistent sitters and rather indifferent layers. The Brahmas, Cochins and Langshans belong to this class.

The general-purpose breeds are medium in size and produce a good quantity of eggs, thereby making them appeal to those who want a bird which will supply both eggs and meat. The general-purpose fowls are usually good sitters and good mothers. They occupy a medium position between the egg and meat breeds in size, egg production and docility. However, it should be noted that in the recent work in breeding for high egg production some of the general-purpose fowls have made very creditable egg records. Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds and Orpingtons are typical representatives of the general-purpose fowls.

Ornamental breeds are not generally adapted to farm flocks unless some one has time to develop some special type. The Polish, Silkies, Sultans and Bantams are representative of these breeds.

Treatment Outlined to Cure Egg-Eating Habit

Hens sometimes acquire a vice of eating their eggs, learning to do this from eating an accidentally broken egg. If one hen learns how to eat eggs the whole flock soon learns from her. Egg shells should never be fed to hens unless they are very finely broken or are mixed with soft food of some kind.

To cure this costly habit cut off the points of the mandibles of the beak, using a very sharp knife. Cut back a little at a time until enough is cut off to leave the tender flesh slightly exposed. As soon as a tiny drop of blood exudes from the cut enough has been removed. Then boil some eggs very hard, selecting those with the thickest shells, and put them on the floor of the poultry house, where the hens can easily get them. They try to break the shells by pecking at them and this hurts the nerves in the shortened beak so they will give it up after a few trials, and thereafter not try to break an egg. In a short time the beak will grow into its normal shape and the hens will have forgotten the vice.

Supplying First Feeds to the Young Goslings

Goslings should not be fed until they are more than 36 hours old when they should be given stale bread soaked in milk or water, to which finely chopped boiled eggs may be added. This should be fed three or four times daily for the first two or three weeks, with chopped grass or some other green feed added. Plenty of fresh, clean water should be supplied, and 5 per cent fine grit or sharp sand may be added to the feed or kept in a hopper before the goslings. After two or three weeks they will need a light feed daily of a mash made up of two parts shorts and one part of cornmeal. When the grass range is good other feed need not be given until fattening time. While the goslings are young great care should be practiced to prevent them from getting wet. They should be left in the coop until after the dew dries in the morning and should not be allowed to get caught in a rain. It is better to keep them separated from the old stock after they are about two weeks old.

Hen Lots Adjoining

Where it is necessary to have lots adjacent to one another it is advisable to use fine-meshed wire for the bottom two feet in order to keep the roosters from fighting. For the remainder of the fence the regular two-inch mesh is satisfactory. The heavy breeds may be kept in a lot with a four-foot fence, but the light breeds often require a fence seven feet high. One wing of the birds can be clipped to keep the birds from flying over the fence.

Hawaii Sugar Crop At Record Figure; Estimates Cited

HONOLULU, Hawaii, June — A new record for sugar output will be set by Hawaiian plantations this year, according to estimates made by the Sugar Factors Company, which firm has charge of the greater part of shipments from Hawaii to refineries. The combined estimate for 1925 is 696,000 tons of raw sugar actually to be shipped, 19,000 tons of refined sugar manufactured locally and an indeterminate amount of brown sugar consumed locally, all of which bring the total crop to 725,000 tons. This will be the first year that the crop has exceeded the 700,000-ton mark.

Good Cattle Herds.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, June — Less than one-half of one per cent of the 25,000 dairy cattle in Belmont county disclosed tuberculosis infection during a federal-state-county tuberculin test just made by 10 veterinarians. Extra Motor Power with General Cords Explained

Coasting and Running Tests Show Amazing Difference Between Tires

The marked effect different makes of tires have on motor power was shown in General's recent announcements of coasting and running tests.

To understand the reason for the extra motor power demonstrated with the General Cord it must first be understood that all makes of tires absorb a certain amount of motor power. It is internal friction in tires that causes power loss. This varies tremendously according to the amount of internal friction in each.

This internal friction in tires uses up motor power in the same way that friction in the working parts of machinery acts as a drag against power.

Friction is overcome by lubrication. To prevent friction between metal parts a film of oil is used. In the same manner, rubber of the finest grade and in generous quantity is used in the General Cord to keep the cotton plies separated and each cord insulated.

Thus, by a process equivalent to lubrication, General has obtained greater freedom from internal friction, and this is the reason for the extra motor power with the General Cord in comparison with other makes of tires.

Longer Mileage and Low Pressure Due to Less Internal Friction

The extra motor power with the General Cord has an even bigger meaning than the gasoline saving and the longer life of your motor, for that same special feature of construction that accounts for the extra motor power also explains the longer tire mileage—General's greater freedom from internal friction.

Internal friction is the greatest known destroyer of tires. Friction always means wear. And the tire with the least internal friction is naturally the tire that shows the slowest wear, provided this advantage is gained, as it is in the General Cord, without reduction in the number and weight of plies essential to proper construction.

It was General's mastery of internal friction that enabled it to produce, five years ago, the first low-pressure tire ever placed on the market.

Just as today it has enabled General to produce the successful 6-ply balloon cord, to replace 4-ply balloons on all except the smaller cars—combining all balloon advantages with the right strength for the load, as well as reducing balloon puncture risk to a minimum.

The successful use of low pressure depends upon a construction that is able to withstand the heating up and wearing effect of the increased bending and straining under low pressure.

This shows why General's leadership in low-pressure tires, not only in balloon sizes, but in all Regular sizes, goes hand-in-hand with General's greater freedom from internal friction. It shows also why General has never classified its Regular size cords as "high-pressure" tires.

General Shows How Internal Friction Is Overcome

The process of complete insulation in the General Cord goes beyond the commonly used method of passing cord fabric through a thin solution of gum dissolved in benzol. General's special process, which can only be accomplished by putting the cord plies through large steel calender rollers, gives every ply a heavy coating of finest rubber, uniformly thick, forced between the cords so that each cord is completely surrounded and no two cords can touch. Other important factors in General's friction-eliminating process are the special weave and highest quality of combed cotton, as well as the development of new principles of tire construction throughout.

General Cord Users Enjoyed Low Pressure Before Balloons

General Cord users did not have to wait for balloons in order to enjoy low air pressure.

With experience in low-pressure construction dating back beyond that of any other manufacturer, low pressure in Regular size General Cords had become a well-known feature long before the advent of balloon tires.

In fact, the history of General's development of low pressure is the story of the evolution of the balloon tire.

This is the background that explains General's singular success with low pressure, first with Regular size cords and then with 4-ply and 6-ply balloons.

6-Ply Balloon

General's 4-ply Balloon is the practical equipment for the smaller cars. For the heavier cars the 6-ply has greater thickness to carry the load and still it allows the full flexing action over obstructions. At the same time, it reduces Balloon puncture risk to a minimum. And General's 6-ply Balloon consumes no more power than the average 4-ply balloon because General's greater freedom from internal friction always means power and gasoline saving.

You can enjoy low pressure and still use regular size tires

Hundreds of thousands of car owners are enjoying the advantages of low pressure without having changed their wheel equipment——they are using General's low-pressure Regular Size Cords.

It was back in 1919 that General produced the first low-pressure tire ever put on the market—the General Jumbo 30x3½ Cord requiring only 30 lbs. of air.

This is the sixth year of low pressure in the General Cord and only such long-standing specialization can explain General's singular success with it in all Regular Size General Cords as well as the Balloons, both 4-ply and 6-ply.

Clears Complexion

"Oh! how clear and beautiful your complexion is today, my dear!"

THERE is a certain joy—a certain pride—in knowing you are admired, whether it be from father, brother, husband or sweetheart! And back of that joy is the satisfaction of knowing all is well.

Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty. Women gaze with envy, secretly jealous, perhaps, wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness which is not theirs. But why the wondering — the hoping — the praying for that craved for attractiveness—that clear skin—that beauty. A clear skin—is the barometer of one's condition. A healthy skin radiates beauty. Pure, clean blood means a clear skin.

S.S.S. is waiting to help you. It will rid your blood of its impurities and give you that clear complexion. Since 1826 S.S.S. has been ridding people of blood impurities, from pimples, from blackheads, boils, eczema and from rheumatism, too. Because S.S.S. is made from fresh herbs and barks, it may be taken with perfect safety. Try it yourself. You will not only look better, but you will feel better, too.

PRISON INMATES TO STAGE SHOW

For the first time in four years inmates of the state prison will be permitted to stage a minstrel show on July 4. Governor Howard M. Gore has ruled that Governor Morgan's edict that no more shows are to be held in the prison, was to be suspended for this occasion.

Fred Bricker, a former professional minstrel performer, and now an inmate of the penal institution, has been designated as director and he has chosen his cast from the wealth of material on hand. The minstrel will be given on the morning of the patriotic holiday, and will be exclusively for the entertainment of the other inmates.

A boxing show will be held in connection with the Fourth celebration at the prison, and a program of other outdoor recreation will be carried out. Warden Smith has announced that ice cream and cake will be served with the noon-day meal.

INJUNCTION CASE RULING DELAYED

Judge W. E. Baker in United States district court at Elkins yesterday withheld his decision on granting a temporary injunction to 19 panhandle coal companies against the United Mine Workers and continued in force for another ten days period the temporary restraining order which was first issued June 2.

A. L. Hooton of Moundsville and Joseph Handlan of Wheeling, counsel for the Mineral State Coal company, and the other 18 plaintiffs in the case cought to have a preliminary injunction issued, preventing to the court records of service on 82 of the defendants in the suit. Judge Baker however, wished to study further into the legal questions involved than was possible while engaged with the trial of jury cases in the present court term, and took time to consider the case before acting on the plaintiffs' motion. Under the law a temporary restraining order can be issued for but ten days, this necessitating the extension of such an order at the end of each ten days period if it is to remain in force.

REV. W. T. McKEE ACCEPTS CALL

Rev. W. T. McKee of Sistersville has accepted a call to become pastor of the Chester Presbyterian church according to an announcement made today by officials of the church. He will come here during the latter part of next month and assume charge. The call was extended at a congregational meeting held in the church several weeks ago after a number of other ministers had been heard.

The pastorate of the local church has been vacant since early in January when Rev. Herbert O. MacDonald died just after he had finished delivering a sermon.

Semi-monthly meeting of the Chester Boosters' club was held at noon today in the Masonic temple, First street. Number of business matters were discussed.

Locals Play Tonight.

Chester will meet Babcock-Wilcox in a league game tonight at Klondyke. Large crowd of rooters will accompany the team. Powell will probably be on the firing line for the locals.

1,000,000-Volt "Rain-Making" Apparatus Alters Barometer

William Haight and Dewey W. Davis have been able to bring about a change in the barometer carrying from three to 10 points in an hour, in their experiments at Huntington Park, Calif., with an electrical device with which they hope to be able to make rain at will. The machine, which utilizes a 1,000,000-volt current, tops a 125-foot derrick. Haight (left) and Davis, and the apparatus are shown.

OSBORNE FAMILY MOVES TO WARREN

A. D. Osborne, whose term as superintendent of the Grant district schools expires in July, has moved with his family to Warren, O., where he will engage in the mercantile business. His daughter has accepted a teaching position in the schools there. His successor will probably be named at the regular meeting of the board of education next month.

PLAN TO SPEED EVICTION CASES

Arrangements were completed yesterday at Wellsburg for a supplementary court session for Brooke county to relieve the congested docket growing out of 150 eviction cases which the West Virginia-Pittsburgh Coal company seeks to have heard without delay.

Judge Harold H. Brennen, associate circuit judge, who has just closed the term in Hancock county, opened the supplementary court. The American Legion hall will be used as a court room.

The hearing of the eviction suits alone will require that 3,000 jurors be summoned in panels of 40. Having once served on a case in this particular series, no juror will be eligible until two years hence.

That the defense will contest the cases with much vigor is indicated by an imposing array of counsel.

Attending Classes.

Eight students are attending classes in algebra and plain geometry being conducted here by George T. Kidder, principal of the Newell high school. Sessions, which are being held in the mornings, will continue until the end of July.

Game Here Tonight.

PESKY BED BUGS

Doctors declare that bedbugs and other vermin are the most to be feared means of spreading such diseases as consumption, spinal meningitis and other infectious troubles. There is no disgrace in getting bedbugs in your home, because that can't be avoided, but it is a disgrace to permit them to remain and thrive when it is so easy to get rid of them with the new chemical compound, P. D. Q., which actually puts an end to these pesky devils.

A MILLION BEDBUGS

A 35-cent package of this golden chemical will make a quart of a mixture that is so deadly to bedbugs that it would kill a million of them if you could get that many together. If they were as big as your hand it would swat them just as well. And not only the live ones, but the future generation as well, because once it hits the eggs they are gone.

CUT THIS OUT

Your druggist has P. D. Q. (Pesky Devils Quietus) and will be glad to furnish it for 35-cents. One 35-cent package makes a quart of the mixture and is equal to a barrel of old-fashioned bug-killer. Some druggists may try to sell you something else. Don't accept a substitute. If your druggist hasn't P. D. Q., send us your name and 35-cents and we will send you a package postpage prepaid to your address.

WILL NOT DAMAGE GOODS

P. D. Q. will not injure delicate fabrics, clothing, carpets, furniture, bedding, wall paper or woodwork. In fact, it is often used as a deoderizer and disinfectant.

KILLS FLEAS ON DOGS

If you have a pet dog who is infested with fleas take a little P. D. Q. mixture in your hand and rub into the fur. Then watch the fleas loop the loop. They will be deader than King Solomon before they hit the floor.

MOTHS

Very simple to rid these pests from furs or clothing is to follow the directions on each package, impossible for moths to exist with the proper use of P. D. Q. A treatment on garments will prevent moths for two years.

FOR ANTS AND COCKROACHES

The ants and cockroaches stand just as good a chance of surviving a treatment of P. D. Q. as a snowball in a justly famed Heat Resort. It swats them and their eggs with a wallop that puts their whole generation out of business.

Here's What Carpenters Get in Other Cities

Run your eye down this list, remembering that the East Liverpool carpenters have been offered $10 a day, have refused it and are on strike:

Baltimore carpenters—$8.00 a day.
Philadelphia carpenters—$9.00.
Detroit carpenters—$6.80 to $8.00.
Chicago Carpenters—$9.20 to $10.00
Akron carpenters—$6.40 to $8.00.
Columbus Carpenters—$8.00
Dayton carpenters—$8.00
Johnstown carpenters—$5.20 to $7.20.

—Reprinted from "American Contractor".

And East Liverpool Carpenters Refuse to Work For $10 a Day!

Rather than work for $10 a day in East Liverpool (which is much more than they can get in most other places) many of the striking carpenters have gone away to work. It looks as though it were up to the contractors to quit trying to settle things, and go out and get carpenters who will work in East Liverpool.

SANTA FE TRAIL IS CENTURY OLD

To Observe Anniversary of Opening Path to Southwest.

Council Grove, Kan.—One hundred rings have swelled the trunk of the Council oak, patriarch of the Council grove, since that August day of 1825 when white and red chiefs gathered in its shade to barter for a trade route to Spanish New Mexico.

In a few months hundreds of pilgrims will be speeding over the Twentieth century highways of the Middle West to pay their respects to the old and the new Council Grove, birthplace of the Santa Fe trail.

This is Council Grove's centennial year and the little town is preparing to re-enact the scenes of a century ago.

With the descendants of those Indians who signed the treaty of 1825 with the United States commissioners, the whole community will unite next August to celebrate its own birthday and that of the Santa Fe trail.

President John Quincy Adams' order sent a handful of federal commissioners out to the western border of the states to secure a right of way to the unknown lands of the Southwest. They left Missouri and pushed into virtually trackless wastes. What was then the last outpost of western civilization is today the midpoint of the United States.

Under the great oak, sole memento today of that powwow, the government officers held council with the sachems of the Great and Little Osages, and then took back to President Adams the word that they had, on August 10, 1825, gained for the nation the right to pass through the Indian domain, over what became the Santa Fe trail, southwest across Kansas from Independence, Mo., to the Spanish posts in New Mexico.

As they forded the Neosho river here to start back to Washington, one of the party blazed the gnarled oak with the words that gave the city its name, "Council Grove."

Church Papers of 1703, Long Sought, Are Found

New York.—Important church documents, sought for many years by historians, have been found, covered with dust, in a drawer filled with ancient Christmas tree ornaments at St. James Lutheran church. One paper is the original ordination certificate of Rev. Justus Falckner, who, in 1703, was the first clergyman to be regularly ordained in America.

The papers were found by two charwomen, Rev. William F. Sunday, pastor of the church, reported the discovery to church historians.

Rev. Justus Falckner was ordained in Philadelphia in 1703 and accepted a call from the Dutch Lutheran church in New York. His ordination certificate was believed to have been lost.

Among the other papers discovered were letters of 1826 in which an unnamed donor, believed to be Peter Lorillard, Sr., founder of the present Lorillard tobacco firm, granted certain lands to St. James church.

Girl Bitten by Snake Is Over It in Just One Hour

New York.—Miss Nellie Louis Condon, secretary of the Reptile Study Society of America, was bitten on the right index finger by a large copperhead snake during a hunt by thirty-five members of the society in Rattlesnake den in the Ramapo mountains near Suffren, N. Y. She was treated by the first aid methods and later an antivenom serum was injected into her side repeatedly. Within an hour she apparently had fully recovered.

Letters to Editor

Religious Education.

East Liverpool, O., June 23, 1925.
Editor East Liverpool Review-Tribune
Dear Sir:

There are certain phases of the proposed religious training in our public school that should, it seems to me, be considered before final decision is made.

The struggle for existence grows harder year by year; and our economic system is not designed to make it any easier. Every year the workers have to speed up more than ever; every year the competition for the job grows sharper and keener.

The majority of the children of the working class must leave school after the eighth grade in order to earn a living, and as the means of life become increasingly more expensive, a larger proportion of the children will have to do this.

The youth with the best education as a rule, gets the best job.

What chance has an ignorant man?

There are about eight little childish years in which to prepare for fifty years of hard life and hard work.

In each of these years there are about eight months of school, counting out vacation weeks and holidays.

In each week are only five days of school; and in the school-day only five hours of actual study and recitation—twenty-five hours, all told during the whole week—barely one whole day out of seven. Indeed, the time is so short, that the teachers who conscientiously are trying to help the children to an education, must ask them to take their books home at night; and when the kiddies are tired and sleepy, and have, usually, no one at hand who can help them to understand what they are doing—then they must try to get their most difficult lessons.

All told; at twenty-five hours a week,—this amounts to less than forty whole days in the year. Multiply this by eight or nine, and we have less than one solid year, from the time the working-class child is six until he is fourteen, in which he must get all the schooling he will ever have.

Do you wonder that our young people take little interest in mental life, or that the hardest thing most workers have to do, is to think?

Then those who are responsible for this state of affairs, sneer at the workers for being "stupid!"

Now, in the face of this shocking shortage of real education, let us see what is proposed.

The ministers have all day Sunday—all day Saturday—every evening in the week—all the holidays and the entire summer vacation—in which to teach religion and because the people do not willingly go to them during all this time, why the clergymen must force it on the people, by robbing the helpless children yet of the few little hours which they have for learning something useful and reliable.

I would suggest that the churches have meetings every evening, Saturdays, Sundays, and all during the summer vacation, since society needs them.

Surely those parents who would sign a request for religious training in the school would be willing to send the children to church on Saturday mornings, where they would get at least as much as they would in school. (All this reminds one of the camel which humbly asked only to be permitted to put his nose into his master's tent. Soon the whole camel was in, and the master was out.)

So the children won't behave when they are in church?

And whose fault is that? The principal of our normal school used to say to us, "If your pupils are not attentive, it is your fault, not theirs. You are not interesting them."

Children have very penetrating minds and modern children more than any in the past.

In school there are several reasons for their good behavior. First: They the being taught what their minds accept as truthful and reliable; thus they are interested in what they study.

Second: They are under the care of trained, state-licensed disciplinarians.

Third: Their parents have confidence in what they are being taught, and therefore uphold the teachers, in making them behave.

Who is to provide the money to pay these religious teachers? They must live. If the rich pay it, then a religion will be taught which favors capitalism. If the poor are to contribute toward it—then I have only to say that if work is not better in this country this coming winter, than it has been lately, many children will be unable to get any kind of schooling for want of clothes, not to mention food.

All these things should be very thoroughly considered; and then the question should be subjected to a referendum vote of all the people.

Yours very sincerely,
MARY WATERS,
Pleasant Heights.

That Was the Life of Mrs. Hollister Until she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyandotte, Michigan. — "After my baby was born I did not do my own work for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. I always had a pain in my right side and it was so bad I was getting round shoulders. I would feel well one day and then feel so bad for three or four days that I would be in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to tell me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So the next day I got a bottle and before it was half taken I got relief. After I was well again I went to the doctor and he asked me how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and he said it did not hurt any one to take it. I am always recommending the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand."—Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Mich.

Play Qualifying Round Today In State Amateur Tournament

Joseph M. Wells, Ohio amateur golf champion, was scheduled to tee off at 12:25 o'clock this afternoon with R. W. Lee, of Columbus, in the qualifying round of the state championship tournament at Portage Country club, Akron.

Wells leads a contingent of 11 East Liverpool golfers who are out today on the Portage course in the opening round.

More than 200 golfers, by far the greatest field on record, are entered in the event.

The Wells-Lee play today will undoubtedly attract a large gallery. Other interesting pairings include John Munro, of Zanesville, and Harold Weber, of Toledo, both former state champions; Eddie Hasmann, Cleveland, and F. E. Southard, Toledo; Frank Werner, Akron, and F. H. Pelton, of Cleveland.

Teaming with Emmet French, Youngstown Country club professional, Joe Wells finished second in the preliminary pro-amateur best ball play Monday afternoon, turning in a score of 67, and tying George Currie, Portage club pro, and E. O. Handy.

Lloyd Gulickson, professional of the Columbus Elks' County club, paired with William Deuschle, amateur, won the event. Scoring 31 going out-four under par—and 35 coming in, Gulickson and Deuschle collaborated in a masterful round that was five under par.

The attraction of the afternoon was the foursome, which included Wells and French and the Cleveland team of Ellsworth Augustus and Rudy Fielitz. A gallery of considerable size followed this quartet throughout the afternoon despite the rain.

Eddie Hasmann did not appear on the courts yesterday. It was understood that he was at home resting up for the big tests that start today.

The dope around the club yesterday was that Wells will have a tough time defending his title.

But the critics also agree that Wells is certainly a much better match player than a medalist.

8:20—A. L. Saalfield, Akron, vs. J. Ness Porter, East Liverpool.
8:25—A. B. Rinehart, Akron, vs. Harry S. Russell, East Liverpool.
John S. Knight, Akron, vs. C. A. Bough, East Liverpool.
S. A. Frolking, Cleveland, vs. J. S. Grimes, East Liverpool.
D. W. Thornton, Akron, vs. Arthur A. Wells, East Liverpool.
Joseph M. Wells, East Liverpool, vs. R. W. Lee, Columbus.
R. L. E. Chambers, East Liverpool, vs. J. Edward Good, Akron.
J. D. Comstock, East Liverpool, vs. W. G. Chandler, Cleveland.
Arthur Saalfield, Akron, vs. G. R. Thomas, East Liverpool.

W. VA. PLANNING BIG GRID EVENT

Dedicate Stadium in Clash With Penn State.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 23.—If present plans materialize Saturday, Nov. 14, the date fixed for the formal dedication of the new West Virginia University Stadium, is going to be something of a state holiday. Although busy winding up the affairs of the collegiate year just ended and in the midst of preparations for the 1925-1926 year athletic department officials here are finding time to work on dedication game plans.

Authorities at Ohio State, Bucknell, Illinois, Indiana, Nebraska, Minnesota, Pennsylvania and other institutions with new stadia are being consulted by those arranging the program for West Virginia.

Prominent citizens of West Virginia and Pennsylvania, including Governor Morgan and Governor Pinchot, have been invited to participate in the exercises to precede the gridiron classic between the Penn State college eleven and the West Virginia Mountaineers. From present indications it is going to be a "red letter day" in the state's history.

Director of Athletics H. A. Stansbury has intimated that he hopes to have the dedication day program definitely arranged before the opening of the 1925 football season in September. He knows from experience that once the gridiron campaign gets underway there will be little time to work out the details of the exercises. He assumes personal charge of the mail orde, ticket sales and that job alone keeps him busy from the middle of September until Thanksgiving day.

The new hotel being constructed here will be open in the early fall and when it is finished Morgantown will be able to offer first class accommodations to visitors. People in this section of the state are already beginning to look forward to the big dedication day game and every one expects a record crowd.

Will Veteran and Rookie Settle A. L. Flag Race?

By Norman E. Brown.

Right now the American league race seems simmered down to two teams, the world's champion Senators, and the world's most hopeful club, the Athletics.

There is an interesting coincidence in this merry two-club battle.

The Athletics have been leading the Washington club despite the fact that Lefty Groves, the man counted on to make the team a pennant-contending one, has been of no use to the team. Eddie Rommel, Sam Gray, Baumgartner, Slim Harriss and Rube Walberg have carried the burden.

Harriss has kept the Senators around the top of the heap all season without calling on Walter Pohnson to overdo. Vean Gregg, Stan Coveleskie and Dutch Reuther, veterans signed to relieve King Walt, have done their duty so nobly that the old favorite has breezed along this year. The team hasn't needed his last ounce.

Now, however, Connie Mack is counting on Lefty Groves. The Baltimore star has been rounding into form of late. Seems to have acquired more control, for one thing, and is in better physical condition.

Connie hopes to be able to send him in regularly in a short time.

If he does and the Mackmen begin to forge farther ahead of the Senators Manager Harris will be forced to tighten up his defense and increase his winning gait by calling on Walter oftener. From that time on—if it comes—the fate of the two teams may hang on the relative success of these two pitchers—one a rookie from the minors, the other a veteran of 18 long campaigns and the outstanding hero of last year's campaign.

The White Sox appear to be about the only club that have a chance to spoil this two-club race and Collins hasn't the pitching staff to compare with that of either the Mackmen or the Senators.

So the jolly A. L. fans are preparing to set back and watch the two ball club go to it. And two managers sit tight, ready to lead their aces when necessary.

The people of Japan, in spite of government urging, show little interest in colonizing the South Sea islands given to Nippon under mandate by the Treaty of Versailles.

MEET PLANNED BY SPORTSMEN

Guilford Park Grounds Laid Out for July 22 Event.

The field day committee of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association has laid out the grounds at Guilford park for the sport contests to be featured July 22, the day of the county field meet.

An ox roast will be a feature of the day, according to J. S. Lambing, chairman of the field day committee. Sportsmen from Mahoning, Stark and Jefferson counties are to be asked to visit the state park on this occasion.

It was estimated that over 2,000 people visited Guilford Sunday, many of them spending the entire day on the lands that will hereafter be known as State park.

The official map of the new reservation is being finished in the office of County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk, and the 10-mile road around the water line has been plainly designated.

An official blue print of the new tracing will soon be forwarded to the several state departments interseted in the project. Purchase of the land for the state park will follow as soon as the new law becomes effective.

TEXAN DEFEATS YALE NET STAR

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 23.—Weather permitting, the second day of the intercollegiate tennis meet, at the Merion Cricket club here, will start at 11 o'clock this morning.

Louis Thalheimer, of the University of Texas, sprang a big surprise when he vanquished Arnold Jones of Yale in straight sets, 7-7, 9-7. Jones was one of the seeded players and was favored as one of the contenders for the intercollegiate title this year.

Carl Fischer, Osteopathy, trimmed Lionell Ogden, Leland Stanford, 6-2, 6-3 in the third round after eliminating C. C. Haynes, Baylor, in the second, 6-3, 6-3.

B. & W. AWARDED FORFEIT GAME

Only Three Members of Trotter Club on Field.

Because only three members of the Trotter team were present, Umpire David Lindsay last evening declared the City Industrial league contest with Babcock & Wilcox forfeited to the latter squad. The two teams were scheduled to clash at Klondyke.

The contest is the only one forfeited so far this season in the industrial circuit. Only one postponed game, between Wellsville and Laughlin, which was set back on account of rain, has been recorded.

Rain had hardly dampened the Klondyke field on Monday evening and despite the slight downpour the contest probably could have been played.

The games scheduled for tonight include one between Chester and B. & W. at Klondyke; and another at Newell in which Laughlin and K. T. K. will be contestants.

As Chester is out to hold first place at any cost, and K. T. K. has a chance to unseat the leaders, both these engagements will be watched closely by league fans.

KIRKWOOD, SMITH HAVE LOW SCORES

The American scores were:

Kirkwood	79	74—153
Smith	77	77—154
Barnes	77	78—155

Hughey Jennings to Continue Active Charge While John is Convalescing From Serious Illness; Leaders Now Only a Game and a Half in Front of Hard-Hitting Pittsburgh Team.

NEW YORK, June 23.—It was intimated rather broadly today that the New York Giants, already cut down to the size of their field by injuries and a scandalous western trip, may be forced to part intimate company with John McGraw for the remainder of the 1925 season. McGraw, convalescent from a rather serious illness, has not recovered his health with a celerity his physicians have deemed necessary and the tip now is that he will do his master-minding at a point well removed from the playing bench.

Nothing official has been vouchsafed about the situation. In fact, the matter has been pretty thoroughly "hushed."

But the present understanding, nevertheless, is that Hughey Jennings will continue to take active charge of the club and John McGraw will take active charge of himself.

It is hardly the time McGraw himself would select for a temporary retirement. The Giants need him as the plaster needs the paris, for the Pirates, giving the greatest exhibition of sustained hitting in the history of all baseball, are coming with the speed of a prairie fire.

They are only a game and a half back today and a continuance of their respective speeds soon will see the two clubs exchanging positions. Everything has gone to the falsetto in the Giant camp where a bit more than a month ago all was pink and pretty.

Injuries to Frisch, Groh, Lindstrom, Kelly, Terry and Scott followed in rapid succession, and at one time, one might find difficulty in recognizing the Giants with a college boy on third base and a spavined catcher, 12 years in the minor leagues, playing first base.

Scott, one of the three pitchers who have kept the club in front, was out for several days after a collision with Grimm at Chicago. Another, Bentley, was beaten several times by one run, and the third proceeded to get himself suspended for conduct unbecoming a ball player, whatever that may be.

The latter was Virgil Barnes, who claimed he sprained a careless ankle in a Pittsburgh bath tub. McGraw, however, pointed out that all Pittsburgh bath tubs are equipped with sandpaper and sent the young man home. That didn't do the club any particular good, either.

Finally, we have exhibit A in the person of Ross Young, a normal .340 hitter. He is stepping blithely along at about .225 and can't seem to accelerate the pace. That is an absurd performance for a man like Young in these days of the lively ball.

All in all, it is not remarkable that the Giants have won only eight games in the last 17 played.

Glendon's Navy Oarsmen Victors Over Washington

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 23.—What would have happened had Washington made its bid for victory a minute earlier.

That was the question asked on every hand today by the stay-behinds of the 60,000 crowd that saw the Navy restore eastern rowing prestige by beating Washington a half-length for for intercollegiate four mile championship late yesterday.

"It wouldn't be fair to say that the better crew won," declared Young Dick Glendon, Navy coach. "They were both great crews."

That seemed to be the consensus among rowing men, although the latter were quick to state that the middies rowed the better judge race and were all the more to be congratulated for winning with their punishing stroke. It seemed to be the general idea that Stroke Eddy, of the Navy, outguessed Stroke Ulbrickson, of Washington, by getting the jump on him at the third mile.

Washington's rowing in the final mile was an inspiration. It cut down the Navy by a full length but its effort came too late. At that, it was the Navy that had the bigger punch in the final furlong because it was able to save something while the huskies were rowing their hearts out to catch the leaders.

Much of this, it was contended, could have been prevented had Washington elected to meet the Navy's spring near the bridge instead of trying to row the middies down in the stretch.

Tagging The Bases

Those boisterous Pirates again ran amuck, socking Rhem and Stuart for 21 hits and beating the Cardinals, 24 to 6, where two days before, they mauled the Dodgers for 21 runs. Seven homers were made by the Pirates, Gratham getting two. Hornsby obliged with another, his eighteenth of the season.

Whitehill left-handed the Red Sox into submission while the Tigers clouted Ross and Zahniser and won, 8 to 4, giving them the series.

The Cubs blended baseball with Red errors and came home on the bit to win, 9 to 6.

Zachary was trifled with for eleven hits but was very parsimonious about it and the Senators gained a full game on the Athletics by beating the Indians, 7 to 2.

There was no beating about the bush in the Athletics-Browns' game, Bullet Joe holding his formmates in check and helping the situation along with a homer in the eighth, the Browns winning, 9 to 2. It was the Athletics' first defeat in seven games. Lyons bore right down on the Yankees and pitched the White Sox into an even break on the series, 6 to 1, the Sox pummeling Shawkey and Pennock.

Osaka, which is annexing forty-two towns and villages, will have a population of 2,000,000, and will be the largest city in Japan until the "Greater Tokyo" plan is put into effect.
